"The death of General Anson Stager during the past week brings to mind an episode which occurred at the old Capitol Prison in the early part of our fratricidal strife. Mr. Stager had been appointed Chief of the United States Military Telegraph, and was assigned to duty at the War Department, with the rank of Colonel and aid-de-camp. He called upon me semi-officially and requested to be shown around among the rebel prisoners then in the old Capitol Prison. I asked his purpose. He stated that it was merely curiosity, as he desired to see how live rebels took their imprisonment. I rather bluntly informed him that the prison was not a menagerie whose occupants were on exhibition to inquisitive curiosity seekers. He did not relish my refusal, and said he would obtain Secretary Stanton's order to visit the prisoners. I assured him that an order from that Secretary would be obeyed to the letter. I at once took the precaution to forward a note to Mr. Stanton stating that it was injudicious to allow the old Capitol Prison to be opened as a menagerie, and that if any of the officials of the department should request the privilege to visit the establishment for that purpose only one admission in my judgment should be granted.

"In two or three days after the application of Stager to see live rebels he again presented himself at the Capitol Prison with a pass from Secretary Stanton to admit the bearer to any room in the prison he should select. I required Colonel Stager to choose a room, and aided him in selecting a large front apartment on the second floor in the northwest corner of the prison, occupied by Georgians and Marylanders, who were a lively set of rollicking fellows. Into this room Mr. Stager was introduced as an official of the War Department, who was desirous of seeing how live rebels conducted themselves as prisoners. I told them I hoped that during his stay they would do their best to entertain him.

"Colonel Stager was ushered into No. 4, but soon got tired of the novelty of seeing live prisoners and wanted to leave. The guard would not allow him to pass out of the room except as a prisoner and under the same restrictions. Colonel Stager sent for me, and after much delay I called on him, desiring to know what he wanted. He asked why he was detained in the prison. I assured him that that was none of my business. I only knew that he would require an order from the same source that brought him in to take him out. He became furious. The 'rebs' took in the situation and made it lively for Colonel Stager. They assured him that his only way out was to secure Secretary Stanton's order for his release. Colonel Stager spent that night in the old Capitol Prison, and fared and slept precisely as other prisoners.

"The next day an order came from Secretary Stanton for the release of Colonel Stager. It is unnecessary to state that no official of the War Department ever again desired to visit the prison while I had charge of it. General Stager's experience enabled him ever after years to entertain his friends with his interesting recollections of one night in the custody of the Superintendent of the old Capitol Prison."

Dr. Holmes on His Poems.

At a recent session of the Boston Women's Educational and Industrial Union Dr. Holmes was greeted with a perfect ovation by his audience. The first selection was "Old Ironsides," that piece dear to the heart of every school-boy orator and almost as familiar as a household word. It is one of Dr. Holmes' earliest productions, but from the manner in which it was rendered it was evident that the fire and spirit which originally inspired the writer were not yet extinguished. "The next piece I will read," said the doctor, "was composed at a time when physicians were not so much given to teetotalism as at present. It was written for a gathering at the residence of Dr. Reynolds when I loaned him my silver punch bowl." Dr. Holmes then read his poem, "On Lending a Punch Bowl." The following lines, read with that unctuous humor characteristic of Dr. Holmes, caused great merriment:

That night affrighted from his nest the screaming eagle flew;
He heard the Pequot's ringing whoop, the soldier's wild hallooo;
And there the sachems learned the rule he taught to kith and kin;
"Run from the white man when you find he smells of Holland gin."

The next selection was the well-known poem entitled "Contentment." "John Quincy Adams," said Dr. Holmes, "wrote a poem somewhat similar to this, though many years previous to my production. Like myself, he borrowed a line from Oliver Goldsmith, but we arrived at rather different results." The audience laughed heartily on the reading of this poem, and the modest requirements of the man who wished to be contented. "Bill and Jo" was then read. "This poem," the doctor said, "was a particular favorite of John G. Whittier." It was followed by "Brother Jonathan's Lament for Sister Caroline." "This poem," said Dr. Holmes, "I am very fond of, for even among his own writings a person has a preference. It was written before the war, when South Carolina first seceded, and I received a number of letters from gentlemen residing in that State which showed that even during the war there was some kindly feeling towards the Northerners." That exceedingly comical poem, "A Farewell to Agassiz," written when the professor started on his trip of investigation to the Andes Mountains, was next read, followed by "The September Gale" and "An Old Man's Dreams." "This last poem," said the doctor, "was written in 1854, when I considered myself a very old man, much older than I do now." By special request, Dr. Holmes read his well-known poem, "Dorothy Q." He gave a long description of the portrait on which the piece was written, and stated that the picture had undergone repairs which would tend to preserve it for a long time. The original canvas had been removed from the back and new cloth had been applied. It was at present, he said, in his library, where he would be happy to show it to any who might desire to see it. The familiar lines gathered fresh beauty from the lips of the author, particularly the oft-quoted verse:

Soft is the breath of maiden's Yes.
Not the light gossamer stirs with less,
But never a cable that holds so fast
Through all the battles of wave and blast,
And never an echo of speech or song
That lives in the babbling air so long.

The last selection was "The Chambered Nautilus," which, Dr. Holmes said, was the most carefully-prepared of all his poems.

At the close of the readings the doctor was thanked by Mrs. Gordon in behalf of the ladies. Mrs. Isabel Hooker then stated that she wished to say a word before the assembly dispersed. She said that she remembered one morning when she met Dr. Holmes, and he was out in the genial frame of mind that he was at present. She asked him what was the trouble, and he replied that three things annoyed him. First, he had consented to write for the Atlantic Monthly once more; second, that he had so much correspondence on hand, and third, that people would still persist in coming to him for advice. "I told him," said Mrs. Hooker, "that he should give up writing for the Atlantic. He had furnished its columns with 'The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table,' and that was quite enough. His correspondence contained nothing but flattery, and he had had enough of that, and lastly that having passed all his life in killing people, he should not give any more pills or advice. I think that he ought to devote the rest of his existence to reading his excellent poems to delighted listeners. We all sincerely hope that he can favor us again."

The Century.

The May number of the Century abounds in "War papers," by far the most interesting of which is the sketch of Gen. Grant by his literary executor, Gen. Adam Badeau. Gen. McClellan's paper on the Peninsula campaign is very much like McClellan, slow in conception and slower still in action. He thinks himself a much-abused man, and tells how Secretary Stanton opposed him. The difference between these two generals, Grant and McClellan, is that Grant thought and moved quickly. He is ready with resource and prompt in decision, and would be miles away on a march while McClellan was determining which boot he would first draw on. But few of the military and naval heroes selected by the Century, in this popular move to have the true story of the war written while it is capable of being told in an unprejudiced manner by leading participants, are adept at writing articles for magazines. They constantly seek to set themselves up as the big-guns. The narrative of what they would have done, had not the secretary prevented their achieving great results; always the claim of Cæsar of old and the modern Porter, of how much the writer was and effected, rather fatigues the reader who seeks to find a true narrative divested of ancient quarrels and quondam rivalries; but the war-dogs must have their fights. The publication of these papers has increased the circulation of the Century a hundred per cent in six months, and consequently the editors will continue to "let slip the dogs of war." The numbers for June and July will have accounts of the seven days fighting before Richmond, contributed by Generals Fitz John Porter and Franklin on the federal, and Longstreet and D. H. Hill on the confederate side. Gen. Grant's paper on Vicksburg will appear in an early number, and indeed a list of most interesting papers, lasting through the summer and autumn, is promised.

It is a relief to turn from these many narratives concerning grim-visaged war, to what is, by far, the ablest feature of the number, Mr. E. C. Stedman's paper on Whittier, in which the New York critic tells us more of the early history, the training, the defects and the excellences of the Quaker poet, than we can possibly acquire from any other similar work of equal length. The times in which the Genius of Poetry found the New England bard, the great reform to which he dedicated his powers, his enthusiastic devotion to ideas instead of consecration to poetry as an art, are delineated with striking faithfulness. This contribution, so far above the average magazine article, while perhaps it will not be read with as much interest per capita as the war articles, nevertheless cannot fail to gratify the class of readers who are able to appreciate its excellences and enjoy its candid deductions.

Politics in Illinois.

An election was held in the 34th senatorial district of Illinois on the 7th inst., to elect a successor to J. H. Shaw, democrat, deceased. The district is strongly democratic, and it was given out that the republicans would put up no candidate; but at the last moment they came out with one, and elected him by several hundred majority, a very small vote being polled. This gives the republicans 103 votes in the legislature on joint ballot, and it is believed insures the re-election of Gen. Logan to the United States senate. It was a sharp trick, if the story is true.

More New Cruisers.

It is announced that advertisements will soon be issued from the navy department for plans and proposals for the construction of the new vessels which were authorized by the last congress. The legislation enacted for the construction of these vessels provided for two cruisers of not less than 3000 nor more than 5000 tons displacement, costing, exclusive of armament, $1,100,000 each; one heavily armed gunboat of about 1600 tons displacement, coasting, exclusive of armament, not more than $520,000, and one light gunboat of about 800 tons displacement, costing, exclusive of armament, not more than $275,000.

Messrs. Doliber, Goodale & Co. are to be congratulated on the recognition of their exhibit of "Mellin's Food" at the New Orleans exhibition, the judges awarding it the first prize, a gold medal, as the best food for infants and invalids.

Lady Lonsdale, very beautiful but not always very discreet, according to report, was married on the 7th inst. to Earl de Gray at St. Martin's church, Charing Cross, London. The bride wore a plain dress of a brown homespun material, and a jacket and hat of a bronze color, which matched each other splendidly. There was no bridesmaid. Lord Ripon, father of the bridegroom, and the Earl of Pembroke and a few select friends of the bride and groom, were the only persons to witness the ceremony.

Emigrants to Buenos Ayres by the French steamer Ville de Marseille mutinied in consequence of the badness of the food provided, and a desperate fight ensued, in which ten of the passengers were killed or wounded, and the captain and several of the crew badly hurt. The steamer put into St. Vincent, where she is guarded by a French cruiser.

The facetious Captain Boyton fastened an empty torpedo, as a practical joke, to the British man-of-war Garnet, in New York harbor, about two o'clock on Wednesday morning, the 6th inst. The jest came very near being rounded off by the shooting of the practical joker, and the verdict of an intelligent jury would probably have been justifiable suicide.

In going back, when in the middle of the river, the cart got stuck in the clay, and he had to throw off the entire load; and even then the cattle were unable to extricate the cart, and as the tide was rising Mr. Maxwell had to detach the oxen from the cart, and leave it in the river until the next low tide. When the bridge is built over the Ogunquit stream such incidents as this will not occur.

Chief of Police Harrigan of St. Louis, Missouri, on the 7th inst. cabled Mr. Gamble, American consul at Auckland, New Zealand, instructing him to hold Maxwell at all hazards until an official from Missouri arrived. The police board also telegraphed Secretary of State Bayard, notifying him that an officer will leave from San Francisco, for Maxwell, on June 6th, and urging Mr. Bayard, in conjunction with the British minister at Washington, to see that Maxwell is not released on a technicality before the officer arrives.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, May 8th.

Case State vs. Morris, continued from the previous day, was again continued to Saturday forenoon, at defendant's request.

A farmer living on the Greenland road was brought up on complaint of the anti-cruelty society, on a charge of severely whipping a horse. He acknowledged the offence, and was fined $5 and costs, which he paid.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

The May term of this court began on Friday, before Judge Clark. The Grand Jurors were called as follows:—

Paul P. Bickford, Madison; John N. True, Oren N. Roberts, Meredith; Alfred Brown, George F. Horn, Wolfeboro; Daniel R. Spalding, Berlin; Joseph F. Hincbett, Dalton; Leroy G. Morgan, Milan; Daniel Roberts, Stark; Ira D. Goodwin, Stewartstown; Milo Barker, Thomas Bean, Bethlehem; Ernest H. Owen, Chatham; Edward C. Matthews, Heman F. Eldredge, Portsmouth, (Ward One;) John Locke, Newcastle; George F. Walker, foreman, Newmarket, Chas. F. Joy, Newmarket: Edwin M. Lamprey, North Hampton; Luther I. Reynold, So. Newmarket.

At the call of the court to-day, case Citizens National Bank vs. Frank W. Brooks, and L. N. Price receiver of Pacific National Bank vs. A. B. Dodge, were discontinued.

The court docket was called. H. F. Eldredge, drawn as a Grand Juror, came into court on being sent for and stated that he had heard that he had been drawn as juror, but had received no notice. The town clerk of Ward One, Mr. Dennett, stated that he left the notice at Mr. Eldredge's residence. Mr. Eldredge admitted that the clerk of the court had spoken to him as to his being drawn as a juror, but he did not know that Mr. Hackett was clerk of this court. The court said that under the circumstances no fine would be imposed, as it was not clear that Mr. Eldredge had received the notice left for him, but that after what he had heard and seen in the newspapers it was his duty to make proper enquiry upon the subject.

The grand jury returned nine bills of indictment, and were dismissed. The court took a recess until Tuesday, the 12th inst.

There are six indictments against Lucier, Lawrence and Osgood, now in jail in this city charged with passing counterfeit coin.

PARISH MEETING.

The adjourned parish meeting of the Universalist church was held Friday evening, Henry Wendell being chosen moderator, and Thos. E. O. Marvin clerk.

Henry Wendell, William A. Plaisted and C. E. Boynton were elected wardens, and James F. Hartshorn and George Hall auditors, for the ensuing year.

The thanks of the society were voted to the Ladies Social Circle and the volunteer choir, for their services during the year just past.

DOG POISONING.

A valuable dog belonging to J. W. Peirce was found on the 6th inst. to have been poisoned. On enquiry we learn that in Mr. Peirce's garden a number of pieces of poisoned meat were found, the poison being rolled up inside the meat, some pieces of which were sewed up and some tied with strings. As all the stuff was found in the centre of the garden, it was evidently thrown there by some person who knew the habits of the dog. By skillful treatment the animal's life was saved, but a puppy and a pet kitten died from the poison. It is fortunate the family escaped, as they have been in the habit of gathering dandelions from this same garden. Whoever committed this dastardly act should be punished to the extent of the law. We understand that Mr. Peirce has lost three dogs, all probably poisoned, and by the same person. The matter is in the hands of the police, and it is thought it will soon be cleared up.

NEW ENGLAND MALT CO.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the New England Malt company, held at the Kearsarge house in this city this week, a board of directors to serve the ensuing year was elected, as follows:

John W. Free, Isaac S. Morse and Andrew Wiggin, of Boston, and Henry White of Dedham, Mass.

Subsequently at a directors' meeting the following officers were chosen to serve for the same term: J. W. Free, president; Isaac S. Morse, vice president; Andrew Wiggin, treasurer; H. A. Tarlton, secretary.

The business of this company is not, as might be inferred from its name, to trade in malt, but the manufacture and sale of a machine which it is claimed (and numerous certificates which are presented go far toward establishing the claim) reduces the cost of turning grain into malt to about one-fourth that incurred in the old process of malting on a large flour, while the saving in time is very great, amounting to about one-half. Another great advantage claimed for the malt machine is that malt can be made by it in summer as well as in winter, thus obviating the necessity of malting large quantities of grain in advance of the need for its use, to be stored up. By the use of this machine large drying floors are dispensed with, and also to a very great extent, skilled labor; and the influence of climate and changes of the seasons are nullified. A machine costing $1000 will make as much much malt as can be made by the old process in a malt house costing $25,000, and experience has shown that the machine-made malt is fully as good as can be made the other way. The machine has passed the experimental stage, having been in use by brewers in England and on the continent since 1880, to the entire satisfaction of all who have tried it; and it is endorsed by the various trade journals of the United Kingdom as being destined to work a revolution in the business of malting grain for the manufacture of beer.

The company's office is at No. 209 Washington street, Boston, where one of the machines can be seen in operation.

PUGNACIOUS DISPUTANTS.

They have as much fun talking religion, over in Eliot, as they do talking politics in many places. At South Eliot, on Saturday night, the 2d inst., there was an animated discussion of religious matters, with the result that Capt. Fabius Spinney was rapped over the head with the loom of an oar, several other persons received thumps of greater or less energy, and three of the participants in the argument were on Friday last taken before Trial Justice Abner Oakes of South Berwick on three separate complaints of assault. George C. Yeston of South Berwick appeared on behalf of the state, and S. W. Emery of this city defended. George Leach was acquitted; Nathan C. Spinney was fined $1, and William Spinney was fined $10, the costs being divided between them.

All the foremen in the construction department at the navy yard, with the exception of William F. Noyes, foreman shipwright, were on Friday reduced to the rating and pay of leading workmen. The men reduced were Charles A. Wendell, sparmaker; Stephen L. Marston, plumber; George Muchmore, blacksmith; Moses Moore, painter; Augustus Stevenson, boatbuilder; Daniel Norton, fastener.

The Hope of the Nation.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

The following news item is going the rounds of the press: "Mrs. Barrios, the widow of the late president of Guatemala, is only twenty-six." As she has a son over sixteen years old, in attendance on the military academy at West Point, it is likely there is some mistake as to her age.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all kidney and urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1.

There is a lively rumpus at Galveston, Texas, over the mayoralty question.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first connection with the dreadful attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long! I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a matchless specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is commonly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

John Durgin, a saloon keeper of Farmington, has been missing since April 27th. He was seen in Boston on April 30th, having been drinking there. His friends have put a detective at work to ascertain his whereabouts. It is feared he met foul play in Boston, as he had a large sum of money with him.

Storm Signals.

As the coming of a great storm is heralded by the display of cautionary signals, so is the approach of that dread and fatal disease, consumption of the lungs, usually announced in advance by pimples, blotches, eruptions, ulcers, glandular swellings, and kindred outward manifestations of the internal blood poison, which, if not promptly expelled from the system, attacks the delicate tissues of the lungs, causing them to ulcerate and break down. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is the great remedy for this, as for all diseases having their origin in bad blood. It improves the appetite and digestion, increases nutrition and builds up the wasted system.

Rev. J. W. Macomber, Kensico, N. In a short time I found myself completely cured. Since that time I have used it with universal success in my family."

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first attack in nine since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.

Senator Bruce and Senator Bogy.

Blanche K. Bruce, whose signature as Register of the Treasury now graces every National bank bill, was very popular while he was in the Senate, although he is of African descent. Unobtrusive, attentive to business, and modest, he conquered the prejudices against his race and was treated with marked courtesy by his associates. One day after he had been a Senator for two years or more, Senator Bogy, the aristocratic descendant of one of the old French families of St. Louis, took a seat by his side, saying: "Mr. Bruce, I have a bill here I want you to vote for. It is one in which I have a great personal interest. It has nothing political in it. Look at it and tell me what you think." Bruce laughed as he said: "Senator Bogy, I hope we shall arrange this more satisfactorily than our last business transaction." "Our last transaction? What do you mean?" "Don't you remember meeting me before my coming to the Senate?" "Most decidedly, no." "I think I can refresh your memory, Senator. Some twenty years ago you were one day running down Olive street in a hurry to catch a steamer. You were carrying a very heavy valise. The day was very hot. Don't you remember the colored boy who came up and offered to carry the valise down to the levee for a quarter? You ran along with the boy. Soon the wharfboat dock was reached. The boat was just swinging out. You ran and jumped on board. You called for the valise. The colored boy put the valise behind his back and called for his quarter. You hunted, fished out a quarter and tossed it ashore, but the gap was too wide to toss the valise. The captain had to stop the boat and back up before you could get your valise. Do you remember that?" "Well, I should say I do." "I was that colored boy."—Ben: Perley Poore in Boston Budget.

Persian Women at Home.

The frou-frou of silk is heard. Three ladies enter the room. Their feet and legs are bare to the knee, for they have cast off their shoes at the door, but all the rest of them is shrouded in a large sheet of dark-blue silk, the outer veil of the Persian lady. Gracefully they sink down into heaps in a semicircle opposite us. "Salaam, sahib! You are welcome. Tea, tea for the sahib!" I responded in the customary way and inquired after the health of my veiled hostesses. One only replies in a confident tone—she is evidently of middle age and self-possessed. The other two blue heaps shake with inward mirth, but are silent. "It must be, it is too hot!" the lady continues, as she cast off her dark-blue envelope—an example immediately followed by her companions.

Heart's Delight hastily folds up the three veils, and a plump, middle-aged lady, very comely, and her two innocent-looking daughters, handsome young women, fair as any English girls, with round, chubby faces and magnificent eyes, are disclosed to view in all the splendor of the Persian lady's indoor dress. The costume of all is the same, varying only in colors, and these are of the gayest. Short and voluminous skirts of silk, much bouffe, reaching to the knee; shirts (the Persian word, like the French chemise, is applied to the garment of both sexes) of transparent silk gauze; tiny zouave jackets of gayly-embroidered velvet, just covering the shoulders and the top of the back (of these the sleeves are unbuttoned from the elbow, hanging down and showing the gay linings of pale-colored but brilliant silk); the top of the head and the ears are hidden by gorgeous silk kerchiefs, embroidered in gold, and there is no more clothing to describe, unless the numerous bracelets of the bangle form, of gold and of glass, which jangle as the ladies move their arms, may be called clothes.

The ladies chat; the younger ones only to each other in an undertone, for maiden modesty prevents their addressing the doctor; but they giggle and titter a good deal, and are duly reproved for it by the elder lady. Tea in delicate old china cups is served; we all smoke hubble-bubbles, and four of them are brought by Heart's Delight and three other black female slaves. Presently I hear a tittering behind me, turn, and instantly there is dead silence as a bright curtain of shot-silk quickly falls, but not before I have observed an amused bevy of gayly-dressed women and children. "Excuse them, Dr. Sahib; they are so dull, so dull."

Conversation turns upon the curious custom of Europeans. I am asked if I am married. I have to admit that I am not, and am duly pitied. But then, "After all, you are right. Where there is a woman there is discord," says my hostess. More tea, more pipes. Sweet-cakes, confectionery, and conserves are handed; iced sherbet, in Bohemian glass tumblers, gilt and of gaudy colors, is served. I insinuate something to the effect that this is a professional visit; my hostess smiles. I repeat the remark, and then the lady, rising to bid farewell, replies: "We were dull; we were bored; you have deesnnuye us. Wallah!"—with a little laugh—"I have forgotten why we sent for you. Your footsteps, however, have been fortunate, for our hearts are no longer sad."

So here was an end of my visit. We shook hands heartily, and the lady gave me a huge bouquet of narcissus as I left.—St. James Gazette.

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent fever and ague attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

In an out-of-the-way corner of a United States treasury vault has been found a package sent to President Monroe in 1823 by the Japanese government, which Congress failed to authorize him to accept. It contained a bottle of diamonds, a bottle of pearls, a bottle of attar of roses and a lump of gold.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

Uncultured citizen of New York to Boston florist: "I want a few bunches of trailing arbutus." Æsthetic florist: "I am sorry to disoblige you, sir, but I never heard of such a shrub. I can, however, let you have the trailing arbutus, if that will do."

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have been a great sufferer for years from complaints incident to married life. I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I can assure you that the benefits I have derived from it came not because of any faith I had in it, for I had but slight hope of any permanent good. I am not a seeker for after notoriety, but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." The taint of scrofula in the blood. With many it is hereditary; but it may also be acquired from want of air or lack of exercise, from improper food, or any cause which brings about weakness of the body and impurity of the blood. The disease is characterized by running sores, abscesses, swellings, enlarged joints, sore eyes, etc. No medicine has been so successful in curing scrofula, as Hood's Sarsaparilla. The most terrible running sores gradually disappear under the purifying and strengthening influences of this great medicine. If you are a sufferer from scrofula and desire more evidence as to the wonderful success of Hood's Sarsaparilla, send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for a book containing many remarkable cures.

A suit of interest to brokers and speculators was decided at Cleveland, Ohio, in the United States circuit court on the 6th inst. Higgins & Gilbert of Chicago, brokers, sued James McCrea of that city for $32,000 claimed to be due on a pork and lard deal. The brokers brought nearly $200,000 worth of mess pork and tierce lard for McCrea in May, 1883, for August delivery. The produce was sold Aug. 1st, no instructions having been received from McCrea, at a loss of $32,000. The brokers sued to recover that amount. McCrea answered that he had paid the firm $19,000, and as it was a gambling deal he asked for judgment in that amount, with interest. The jury awarded him $22,000.

Bring On Your Ironclads.

The ordnance board of the United States army has recommended the construction of a monster war balloon for the use of the government, and Gen. Russell Thayer of Philadelphia, the inventor, has received instructions to begin the work. The board recommends that a balloon of seven tons ascending force be constructed and that trials be made with it. It will cost nearly $10,000. It will be the largest balloon ever constructed, with a diameter of sixty feet and a length of 180 feet. The "Dirigible war balloon," as it is called, is a cigar-shaped machine, pointed at both ends, and unlike ordinary balloons, sails through the air longitudinally. It is about three times as long as it is wide. A working model, constructed recently, showed that the balloon would be of great value for war purposes. The balloon is said to be the most destructive implement of war known to modern science. Gen. Thayer claims that he can lay a city in ashes with it in a night. Tons of dynamite percussion bombs may be carried into the clouds, and dropped while the balloon sails majestically over a camp or fortification or fleet of ships.

Friday morning Mrs. Ellen V. Libby, wife of Charles A. Libbey of Chicago, who disappeared very mysteriously about a week previous, died from the effects of a draught of carbolic acid. Since her husband's disappearance Mrs. Libby had been very despondent, and there is no doubt that she intended suicide. Friday was the anniversary of her marriage.

A sensation has been created in Buffalo, N. Y., by an action being brought by Peter Weller and his wife against Adam and Louis Weller, their sons. It is claimed that the latter defrauded their parents out of an estate valued at $175,000. The parents claim that their sons presented documents to them which they signed, not knowing what they were, but which proved to be papers transferring all the rights of the old people to their sons. The Weller family is very prominent in Buffalo.

John Polack, a striker at Lemont, Ill., who received a bayonet wound in the abdomen during the skirmish with the militia on the 4th inst., has since died. The news of another death seems to have cast a gloom over the strikers, instead of exciting them to renew the trouble.

The English have discovered that Englishmen cannot live in the Soudan, and the French are finding out that the climate of Tonquin is utterly unfitted for Europeans. These discoveries would have been more valuable, and might have been made just as easily, about twelve months ago.

It is announced that the secretary of the navy is not satisfied with the terms of the sale of the old frigate Niagara at Boston a few days since, and will not confirm it until an investigation has been made. She was sold for $12,500. It is alleged that the auctioneer did not give bidders a sufficient opportunity to bid on he vessel.

Secretary Whitney has ordered the discharge of nine employes at the League island navy yard, who, it is said, have been kept at the yard and on the rolls since July 1st, 1883, notwithstanding an order on that date closing the yard. It is stated at the navy department that these men have done no work for nearly two years, but have all along been drawing their pay regularly.

Spring Medicine

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, May 9th.

The case of State vs. Thomas Morris, for cruelty to a horse, after several continuations was ended on Saturday, but the court was not troubled to render a decision in the case, Mr. Morris having skipped out of town, bag and baggage. His bond of $100 was defaulted on the previous day, with the understanding that on his appearance in court on Saturday the forfeiture would be annulled; as he did not appear, the default stands against the bondsman, Mr. Emmanuel Charlesworth.

WHEELMEN'S EXCURSION.

The Massachusetts bicycle club, with as many other wheelmen as choose to join, will leave Boston on Wednesday, June 17th, for a four days tour, arriving at this city from Newburyport on Friday forenoon, the 19th, proceeding to Newcastle in the afternoon and stopping over night at the Wentworth, and returning on Saturday morning to this city and taking the train to Newburyport, where the wheels will be resumed for the rest of the trip to Boston.

SENATOR BLAIR.

The Boston Advertiser of Saturday says: "Ex-Secretary William E. Chandler is still in Washington, brooding over the records of the official doings of Senator Henry W. Blair, whose scalp he hopes to dry by his Concord camp fire in June. Among other facts which he can tell the New Hampshire people about Mr. Blair, is that he never took a pleasure trip on the Tallapoosa, never let a chance go by to fire a shot for prohibition, and never faltered in his desire to reform the south by educating the negro at national expense, and making the Mississippi run up hill into Hudson's bay."

Senator Blair was in this city Saturday, and paid a brief visit to the Chronicle sanctum. He considers the probability of his re-election to be very decided, and need not fear having his record laid before the republicans of New Hampshire. He has certainly been the hardest worker this state has sent to the senate for many years, and his education bill was by far the most important measure introduced in the 48th Congress.

MARITIME NOTES.

About twenty-five gentlemen came down from Dover on Friday to inspect the Dover Navigation Co.'s new schooner, the John J. Hanson, and after duly admiring the craft were invited by Capt. Stevens to a luncheon in the cabin supplied by Mr. Wm. K. Hill of the railroad restaurant. The party returned to Dover by the 12:20 P. M. train, much pleased with the new vessel.

The brick schooners D. K. Ham and Lillie arrived from Boston on Saturday; and the schooners J. Chester Wood, Triton and Chilion, and the sloop Stephen Orr, sailed for Boston the same day. The schooners G. W. Raitt and Satellite sailed for Boston on Sunday. The schooners Clara E. Simpson, Alfaretta Campbell and John J. Hanson, outward bound, were in the lower harbor on Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Entwistle, for some time past keeper on board the schooner Satellite at the draw of Portsmouth bridge, was relieved from duty on Saturday, and the vessel sailed for Boston on Sunday morning.

There is no finer or more thrifty pear orchard in Portsmouth than that of the late James F. Jenness, on the corner of Hanover and Fleet streets, upon which he expended much time and care. As it is coming into bloom, it presents a very pleasing sight. Mr. Jenness had placed around it a low, open fence, so that every passer-by could enjoy the view.

The newly organized choir of the Unitarian church sang on Sunday, its membership being as follows: Miss Edith Wendell, soprano; Mrs. Frank Williams, contralto; Mr. Hopkins, of Boston, tenor; Mr. Henry L. Harlow, basso and leader; Miss Lizzie Davis, organist.

Mr. Lewis B. Marden, formerly of this city, but who has been in business in Waterbury, Conn., for several years, is reported as having made an assignment, with liabilities of $5500, and assets of $2170.

Mr. A. J. Leavitt, keeper of Boon island light, whose boat was capsized in the river on Wednesday of last week, expresses his earnest thanks to the persons who so promptly hastened to his aid, and saved him and his boat, and his good also with the exception of a couple of bags of salt.

Mrs. William Hunter, living on Dennett street, Christian Shore, while standing on a plank walk at her home early Saturday morning, shaking some floor rugs, slipped and fell, breaking the large bone of her right leg just above the ankle.

At a meeting of the joint committee from Storer Post, G. A. R., and H. L. Richards Camp, S. O. V., on invitations, route, procession, and the selection of chief marshal, held in the common council room on Friday evening, C. W. Tracy was unanimously elected chief marshal for Memorial day. The matter of invitations and the laying out of route was postponed until the next meeting of the committee, on Friday evening, the 15th inst.

The pear trees and cherry trees are near their "blowth," and promise abundant fruit.

The annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans of this state has been postponed until early in June, and will probably take place in this city, although some members of the organization were anxious that it should be held at the Wiers.

Osgood Lodge, I. O. O. F., will close their course of entertainments on Thursday, the 21st inst.

Rev. Mr. Phillips, formerly of Haverhill, Mass., assumed the pastorate of the Christian church at Rye on Sunday. The church in Haverhill formerly presided over by Mr. Phillips is the one to which Rev. John A. Goss, late pastor of the Court street Christian church in this city, has accepted a call.

The second invoice of French Canadians bound to Norton's brickyard at York arrived here on Wednesday evening of last week. They stayed over night at the White Hart hotel, and left for York by private conveyance on Thursday.

The Cadet band, of South Berwick, Me., has been engaged to play in this city Memorial day.

The probate court for York county was in session at Biddeford on the 5th, and much business was transacted, the following being a portion of it: Wills presented for probate, Daniel Riley of Kittery, David N. Goodwin of South Berwick; accounts presented, Stephen Grant of Kittery, Joseph Chadbourne and Nancy Watson of Limerick; wills proved and allowed, William H. Moore of York, Thomas C. Mulvey of Buxton; administration granted, Henry Riley of Kittery, Almira Staples of Limerick; accounts allowed on estates of Carrie M. Spinney, minor, of Eliot, Maria L. Drew et al., minors, of North Berwick, E. H. Jewett and Cyrus Goodwin of South Berwick; allowance granted on estates of Harriet D. Wheeler, South Berwick, James H. Stanley, Berwick, Eliza R. Elliott, Buxton. On the 6th there was another heavy grist put through the judicial mill, the following being a few items of the day's work: On estates of Edward P. Goodwin of Kittery, and Mary A. Grant and Ivory Hutchins of York, wills presented; Jonathan Talpey of York, will proved and allowed; Jacob Day of York and William Goodwin of North Berwick, administration granted; Wilbur E. Norton of York, minor, Lucinda Dyer of Limington, accounts presented; Ella B. Beacham of Limerick, inventory returned; petition granted for guardian to Martha C. Tripp et als., minors, of Wells.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR,—You have a right to know, and I desire that the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first communicable slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1879. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. F. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

Best Goods are put in Smallest Parcels.

The old proverb is certainly true in the case of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are little, sugar-wrapped parcels, scarcely larger than mustard seeds, containing as much cathartic power as is done up in the biggest, most repulsive-looking pill. Unlike the big pills, however, they are mild and pleasant in their operation—do not produce griping pains, nor render the bowels costive after using.

I could scarcely speak; it was almost impossible to breathe through my nostrils. Using Ely's Cream Balm a short time I was entirely relieved. Sargent, John H. Pearson, Joseph B. Walker, Woodbridge Odlin, John Abbott and Lewis Downing, Jr., of Concord, and Attorney General Mason W. Tappan of Bradford, were the pall bearers.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of several types—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be cert in that my cure was permanent.

GLEANINGS.

The houses and stores in Santiago de Cuba are so built that the walls can be almost entirely thrown open, while the interiors have courts that are unroofed and unobstructed to the sky.

Joaquin Miller has swapped off a manuscript copy of one of his poems for the duplicate of a silver design he saw at the New Orleans Exposition. The silverworker wanted pay in Miller's poetry.

Those persons who are "peach" crazy around Quakertown, N. J., are renting land at from $8 to $10 an acre per annum. The terms run from ten to twelve years—the usual life of an orchard in that vicinity.

Over one hundred different answers have been received to the "latest mathematical question," resurrected by New York and Philadelphia journals: "Two girls meet three girls, and all kissed. How many kisses were exchanged?"

The somewhat remarkable statement is made that the city of New York, covering only 27,000 acres, supplies to 2½ per cent. of the population of the country 10 per cent. of all the water used for domestic purposes throughout the land.

San Francisco has a "lumber boneyard"—a place where the extensive syndicate which controls the greater part of the lumber cut on the Pacific Coast sends any cargo that may arrive which appears to be in excess of home demand, and at the first favorable opportunity ships it to any part of the world.

A New York lady of leisure and money sailed for Paris recently to consult a celebrated dog doctor about her poodle's health. The cur has a bad cough, and is described as being "as ugly as a dingy door mat." He is sixteen years old, and his mistress is anxious that he shall live until he is twenty-five.

The Western weed, loco, acts upon horses and cattle almost the same as alcohol does upon man. Upon eating it they lose all appetite for normal food, become apparently intoxicated at times and finally die from a disease strangely like delirium tremens. From the vice comes the California expression: "As bad as a locoed horse."

Albert Hector, says the Liberty Register, is quite queerly constituted in one respect. He sheds all of his finger nails and two of his toe nails yearly. The old nails are gradually crowded off the fingers by the new and tender nails growing behind and under them. Bert is unable to explain why his nails leave him in this way, but they do.

Two Frenchmen, the brothers Forre, have invented a new kind of harp, made entirely of wood. Instead of strings the inventors use strips of American fir. The sound is produced, as in the ordinary harp, by the contact of the fingers, but the player wears leather gloves covered with rosin. The tone of the instrument is said to be of remarkable purity.

There is no financial nonsense about the Presbyterian pastor at Palmyra, Mo. On the first day of each month he draws his check upon the bank for his monthly salary in advance, and the bank regularly honors the check and charges it up to the deacons, who are personally responsible for the salary. Thus no delay or default in paying the subscriptions can affect him.

As an instance of the great age to which elephants sometimes live, it is said that when Alexander the Great had conquered Porus, King of India, he dedicated to the sun a great elephant which had fought valiantly for the King, and let him go with this inscription: "Alexander, the son of Jupiter, dedicated Ajax to the sun." The elephant was found 350 years afterward, still bearing the above inscription.

Pennsylvania has a state tax on watches, the results of which, as reported by the Secretary of Internal Affairs, are amusing. The population of the state is about 4,500,000. The number of voters last November was 900,000. But in all this population and this army of voters there were only 45,596 watches, gold, silver and "common." So it would appear that there were last year 4,454,404 Pennsylvanians, not one of which had a watch.

An ingenious contrivance which will effectually protect the soldiers in the Soudan from the rays of the burning sun is being made at the Japanese village in London by order of the government. It is in the form of an umbrella, made of light bamboo and paper, and will be fastened to the shoulders. The weight will scarcely be felt, and the wearer will thus enjoy all the comforts of a large umbrella without experiencing the inconvenience of holding it up, and his hands will be left entirely free to carry his rifle or other articles.

The question whether money found in a shop belongs to the keeper of the place or the finder is often disputed. A writer in the Pharmaceutical Record relates that a customer in a drug store once picked up a dollar note from the floor between two parallel counters. He inquired if any one in the store had lost it, and finding they had not, he appropriated it. His claim to it being disputed, the case was submitted to a lawyer, who said: "The open passage between the two counters was dedicated to the public, not in fee simple, but as a highway which they were invited to occupy for purposes of traffic." So the finder kept the dollar.

Near Chickasawhatchee, Ga., says the Savannah News, a line of earthworks can still be seen which were thrown up by Gen. Jackson (Old Hickory) as a protection against the Indians on his march to Florida through that section in 1818.

One of the best of the many inventions of the present time is James Pyle's Pearline, of which it is said that it is the best washing compound yet introduced and almost perfect as saving in labor, time and soap.

During the prize military drill at Mobile, Ala., Friday, many of the participants fainted owing to the heat.

Experience Taught Me.

And my money paid for it. After having Liver Complaint four years, and spending money on nostrums and doctors who didn't help me, I tried Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. I shall always use them.—G. N. Butler, Cohoes, New York.

The secretaries of the Young Men's Christian associations of the United States and Canadas met in Chattanooga, Tennessee, May 8th, in their annual conference. About 150 delegates were present, representing every state, and every leading association of the United States. Secretaries from England and Germany were also present.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

Eddy Bernardy, aged fourteen, of Chicago, Ill., on the 9th inst. shot his little girl schoolmate, Tressie Sessland, aged twelve, the ball grazing her head. He then fired three shots at himself, one of the bullets entering his side. His wound is not dangerous. Young Bernardy was enamoured of Tressie, and was jealous of her. He said he therefore resolved to end his misery "just like the grown folks he had read of."

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have been a great sufferer for years from complaints incident to married life. I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I can assure you that the benefits I have derived from it came not because of any faith I had in it, for I had but slight hope of any permanent good. I am not a seeker after notoriety, but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." Phebe C. Roop.

The president has appointed George V. N. Lathrop of Michigan, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Russia; Boyd Winchester of Kentucky, to be minister resident and consul general to Switzerland; John A. W. Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mellinger of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an old-seated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful RELIEVED ME." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y., Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a Tried External application for scalds, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, he sure he will speak highly of it.

Worked Wonders.

"My daughter was very bad off on account of a cold and pain in her lungs. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured her in twenty-four hours. One of the boys was cured of sore throat. This medicine has worked wonders in our family." Alvah Finckney, Lake Mohopac, N. Y.

THE BRAINERD & ARMSTRONG CO.

eodjule 23 Kingston Street, Boston.

Rum, Rheumatism and Rebellion.

Buffalo, N. Y.—While attempting to arrest a rebellious drunken man recently, a policeman was pushed into the canal, and was only rescued after receiving a severe ducking. Acute rheumatism set in, which entirely incapacitated the officer. After vainly trying various doctors and remedies, three applications of St. Jacobs Oil cured him.

A little brother of Ernest Paquette of Central Falls, R. I., let a board fall on the hammer of a loaded gun, which discharged, the shot going in at the left armpit and out at the shoulder.

Do you ever have sharp pains in the region of your heart, or any other symptoms of heart disease? if so you can find sure relief in Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator. $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of E. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

Portland, Me., has hit on a plan, which has the approval of the city government, for the abatement of its Back Bay nuisance, and work is to be begun on it immediately. It will cost about $17,000.

G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon has had its purity verified and excellence certified recently by Dr. H. L. Bowker, State Assayer for Massachusetts. Druggists and grocers sell it.

Gen. Beals reports that he has thus far provided accommodation for 17,000 persons who will attend the National Grand Army encampment in June at Portland, Me. This is exclusive of the G. A. R., otherwise provided for. There are accommodations in private families for 8000 more.

"Which Way?"

That every article used for the same purpose is of equal value no one admits. As in all natural productions, so in the manufactured; all have their degree of merit, and Soap is as conspicuous in its variety as anything else. But in this, as the demand for the Pure and Reliable increases, so does the value of the productions of Curtis Davis & Co., especially their "Welcome" and "Unequalled Extra" brands, being practically recommended by other manufacturers, who imitate them in every conceivable way. But, while this compliment may be appreciated, what can be said in favor of such competition, or the character of such goods and their makers? No one should be deceived, as the original has the name of Curtis Davis, in full, either on the bar or wrapper, and it is their purpose to let their reputation stand on this class of goods.

Japan is a Good Place For Him.

Mr. J. Ernest Meiere of Maryland, Mr. Cleveland's newly-appointed consul-general at Japan, seems to be not very highly thought of as a gentleman, by those who know him best, although he may be very eminent as a democratic politician, and hence entirely acceptable to Mr. Higgins. It is said his appointment was urged on the score of his relationship to the confederate Admiral Buchanan, he having married Buchanan's daughter; but only last week Mrs. Meiere was granted an unconditional divorce on the ground of gross and continued cruelty. It is also said he passed a night in jail at Washington, D. C., where he was locked up on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, being unable to get any one to go his bail. The trouble in this case was that Meiere, who had been slightly acquainted with Commodore Truxton before the war, met him in the corridor of a Washington hotel, and being drunk was very effusive in his salutation of the brave old seaman, who received his advances very coldly. On this Meiere flared up, and with the most insulting manner and language informed the commodore that he need not think he (Meiere) was sorry for having fought the Yankees, or ever would be. He was fined in the police court next day, on both complaints.

Advices from Winnipeg, Manitoba, of May 10th, reported that Col. Middleton's forces had been engaged in a fight with Riel's half-breeds at Batouches since the previous morning, with some trifling advantages for the troops, though the half-breeds held all their important positions. Another battle was expected on Sunday, the 10th, and grave fears were expressed should it result in favor of Riel.

Advices of May 9th from the city of Mexico say that important measures of economy are projected by the government. A reduction of the army will effect the largest saving. It is also rumored that it is intended to reduce the clerical force of the government departments. According to the newspapers, business is slowly improving. Large orders for goods are going to the United States and Europe. American houses are sending their salesmen there, and are taking many orders. The tendency of trade is toward the United States. There are many American tourists in Mexico.

Among the victims by the snowslide at the Homestake silver mine in Colorado were two young men from Searsport, Me., named Horace and Josiah Matthews, aged about eighteen and twenty years. They had been in Colorado a little more than a year, and engaged in the work of developing the Homestake mine about the first of January. They were worthy young men. They leave a widowed mother at Searsport and a sister at South Framingham. The disaster to the camps is supposed to have taken place on the night of Feb. 20th or 21st, but it was not known until over two months later.

Whale shooting is a growing business on the Maine coast. Several steamers are engaged in the business, another trying-out factory is to be built, and the success which has attended the operations, thus far, warrants the belief that whale-hunting will eventually become one of the important industries of the state.

Mary Larkin was found lying dead in bed at her house in Fourth street, in Fall River, Mass., Sunday night, with her face and neck discolored as if from suffocation, there being no signs of bruises. Her husband, Thomas Larkin, was arrested and is confined pending the result of an autopsy. Both were addicted to the use of liquor, and had frequent quarrels.

John L. Eagan on May 8th entered the office of Charles Ashton, a real estate agent of San Francisco, Cal., and shot him twice, dangerously; and then ran into a store and swallowed some strychnine. Both may die. The trouble was over money matters.

Commodore Schley, chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting of the navy, has been considering means for improving the personnel of the navy, and in this matter he has the support of Secretary Whitney. It is proposed to offer inducements to men who will enlist for continuous service. These inducements will consist of better compensation, more desirable uniforms, an improved mess, and a pension upon growing old. The men who will enter the navy for long service it is proposed to educate, so that they can be of service on the most modern vessels. This instruction will be given by an officer specially detailed, to about fifty men, taken from the navy each year. The course will begin some time next June at the Washington navy yard.

A negro named Jordan was lynched at Tuscumbia, Ala., Saturday, for attempting to assault Miss Alice Davis, daughter of a prominent farmer. Mr. Davis shot the negro as he leaped from the piazza. The bullet pierced his ear, and he allowed himself to be captured. Jordan made a full confession before he was lynched.

Jane Wilde, a weaver in the King Philip mills at Fall River, Mass., was injured by a shuttle which fell from the loom, striking her on the ankle. The result was a dangerous wound, as the shuttle was not guarded. She sues for $10,000 damages, and the case was left to three referees, who have fixed the amount of damages at $1500, which will probably be paid by the mill.

The register of the treasury has called the attention of the secretary to the so-called Monroe jewelry box, and it is expected that the gifts will be delivered to the heirs of President Monroe, of whom several are still living.

Spring Medicine

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. Sanford, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. Miller, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." Mrs. G. E. Simmons, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. Fields, Rochester, N.Y.

The schooner Eva D. Rose, which arrived at this port on Saturday night, brought a cargo of iron water pipe for the Manchester water works.

The British schooner Elva C., from Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, with 2300 ties to the Boston & Maine railroad, arrived at the Noble's island wharf on Sunday.

The British schooner Thrasher, which went on the rocks near the entrance to this harbor while endeavoring to leave on the morning of the 3d inst., and was hauled off and afterward beached in Pepperell's cove, Kittery Point, was pulled afloat on Monday morning of this week by the tug Clara Batemen, having effected the needed repairs. She immediately commenced to reload the portion of her cargo which it had been found necessary to discharge.

The schooner Two Brothers, Dodge master, from Wood's Hole, Mass., with a load of fish guano, arrived at Sise's lower wharf, near the Spring market, on Monday.

THE NEW QUARANTINE STATION.

It is said the selection of Widow's island, Maine, as the location of the United States quarantine hospital and station, is not universally viewed with unmixed gratification by the naval officers, as it is twelve miles distant from anywhere, and communication with any other point is attended with difficulty. We should think its secluded position would be regarded as a very strong point in favor of the new location, as there will be no population near to be frightened at the advent of a ship with yellow fever, cholera or smallpox on board.

"The establishment of a quarantine station in Penobscot bay," says the Mount Desert Herald, "does not particularly commend itself to the people interested in summer resorts on the Maine coast. They are not anxious that a pest-house shall be established in their vicinity, and fail to see the justice of sending New York fever ships to anchor in Maine waters." The new quarantine station won't annoy the people interested in summer resorts on the New Hampshire or York county coasts, it it does those further east.

Mr. William Perkins, residing on Deer street, a bridge carpenter in the employ of the Boston & Maine railroad, was considerably injured on Saturday through being struck by a stick of timber which he was assisting to unload from a car near Sawyer's on the Portsmouth & Dover road, where some improvements are being made.

The total number of burial permits issued by City Clerk Goodrich in April was eighteen; of the decedents eight died in other cities; eight were of seventy years or upward, and five were over eighty, there being two of eighty-six years, and one of eighty-seven. Seven births were recorded, and ten marriages. Of the parties united in wedlock, four couples, and the bride in one other case, belong in this city; one couple from Newington, one from Boston and one from Portland, were married here.

The bill posters of Van Amburgh's circus and caravan, which will exhibit in this city on Saturday, May 30th, (old-time prices, tickets twenty-five cents each, to the whole show,) were on Monday engaged in decorating the bill boards and blank walls of the city with gorgeous and soul harrowing pictures of arenic and jungle life.

Mr. Arvilah Palmer was quite severely injured in one knee on Monday morning, by being struck by a piece of shell while blasting at Hon. F. Jones' farm.

A horse belonging to Mr. Joseph Berry of Rye ran away on Green street, Monday afternoon, being frightened by the Van Amburgh advertising car. Mr. Berry was thrown out and somewhat bruised, the wagon smashed, and the horse injured by running against a pile of lumber.

The U. S. S. Omaha on Monday took in her powder, while lying at the navy yard wharf.

Gilpatrick, the Newmarket boy-beater, is to have another trial on the gross-cruelty indictment, the 1st of June.

Over 600 teams visited Hampton beach on Sunday, loaded with men, women and children to view the ruins of the hotels and cottages burned on the morning of the 7th inst. Among the throng of vehicles a gentleman from this city counted twenty-five bicycles. An old resident of Hampton said he never before saw so many teams at the beach in one day, though he remembered all the big celebrations that ever took place there.

Among the recent transfers of real estate in York county, as left for record in the office of the register of deeds, are the following: Kittery—Rufus C. Goodwin to Olive Hanscom, real estate for $1500. York—George Bracy to Sidney G. Ramsdell, six acres of land for $40; Lucy Hutchins to Lucy Avery, real estate for $80. South Berwick—Lillie G. Yeaton et al. to John T. Brown, real estate for $1; Stattira S. Walker of North Berwick to James B. Walker of South Berwick, real estate in York county for $500. North Berwick—Nathaniel Nason et al. to Charles C. Nason, real estate for $1; Sarah Roberts to Lois R. Hayes, ten acres of land, and buildings in North Berwick, for $200.

Ferguson Haines, of Biddeford, has sold his residence in that city to the Roman Catholics for $18,000. It will become the convent of the Sacred Heart.

James F. Hodgdon was arraigned at Bath, Me., Saturday, for assault with intent to kill and murder Esther Hodgdon, his mother. He pleaded not guilty and waived a hearing. He was ordered to recognize in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance at the August term of the Sagadahoc court.

The heirs of Jeremiah Millbank, who purchased the mansion and pleasure grounds of William M. Tweed, the Tammany thief, at Greenwich, Conn., have taken down the fine house and will rebuild it on the edge of the hill, familiarly known as "Put's Hill," down which Gen. Putnam made his famous ride in escaping from the British troops. The new house will cost $1,000,000.

There are about two dozen steamers now due at Quebec, two and even three steamers of some of the lines being behind time. Such an occurrence has hitherto been unknown in the history of that port. From all accounts the ice in the gulf is unusually heavy, and literally blocks the usual gulf route. It is anticipated that a number of vessels will be found to have met rough treatment from the ice.

Charles Lehman, aged seventy-two years, and his wife, aged seventy-one, were found dead in bed in New York on Sunday, having poisoned themselves with Paris green. Absolute poverty caused the act.

George S. Barber has been arrested to answer a charge of murdering Michael McGarry at Akron, Ohio, in 1872. The two men were quarrelling about a dog, when Barber shot the deceased.

Queen Dowager Emma, of the Sandwich islands, died on April 25th.

An avalanche in Armenia struck a native caravan, and killed sixty-eight persons.

Sweden has placed torpedoes at the northern and southern entrances of the Faroe sound, but furnishes pilots to guide vessels through safely for the present.

A bloody and protracted Indian war in the northwest is now regarded as inevitable.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We give in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first consciously slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians, who told me "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was some times taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. The ok Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, bowel trouble, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is equally efficacious as a trusty worthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

The excited actions of a man who ran toward the Delaware river in Philadelphia on Saturday induced a crowd to follow him. Mrs. Douglas sued for $5000, and obtained a verdict in her favor.

Woman's Face.

"What furniture can give such finish to a room, as a tender woman's face," asks George Elliott. Not any, we are happy to answer, provided the glow of health tempers the tender expression. The pale, anxious, bloodless face of the consumptive, or the evident sufferings of the dyspeptic, induce feelings of sorrow and grief on our part and compel us to tell them of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the sovereign remedy for consumption and other diseases of the respiratory system as well as dyspepsia and other digestive troubles. Sold everywhere.

The schooner Golden Gate, Amee master, which arrived from Boston on the 11th inst., brought salt to E. F. Sise & Co.

I could scarcely speak; it was almost impossible to breathe through my nostrils. Using Ely's Cream Balm a short time I was entirely relieved. My head has not been so clear nor voice so strong in years. I recommend this admirable remedy to all afflicted with Catarrh or Colds in the head.—J. O. Tichenor, Shoe Merchant, Elizabeth, N. J. Price fifty cents.

The schooner Alfred Keen, Greeley master, from Richmond, Va., with 385 tons of coal to J. Albe.t Walker, arrived on the 12th.

Bad drainage causes much sickness. Bad blood and improper action of the liver and kidneys is bad drainage to the human system, which Burdock Blood Bitters will remedy.

The brick schooners Hattie Lewis, Chilion and J. Chester Wood, from this port arrived at Boston on the 11th.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, Dr. Edwin Bartlet, Milwaukie, says: "I have found Scott's Emulsion to be one of the best preparations in use, especially in children's diseases, on account of the elegance of the preparation, and its agreeable taste. It is very desirable in wasting diseases."

The schooner Active, Matthews master, after having been hauled up here all winter commenced her season's work on the 12th, sailing for New York.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Her little muff is wee enough
To grace a Paris doll's trousseau,
And yet her hand and snow-white cuff
Seem quite content in there to go.
He holds her hand quite tight, I know,
And when the wind is blowing rough,
As on we walk through drifting snow,
I wish my hand could be—her muff.
—Washington Hatchet.

"Give you a kiss, indeed," said she.
"Give you a kiss? my goodness!
'Tis strange that you should be so free,
I wonder at your rudeness.
I could not such a thing endure;"
And then, with manner nervous,
She added, "For I'm very sure
That some one would observe us."
—Boston Courier.

His nose was red as a danger-light
And his eyes were sunken and dim.
He called for rum, and at once he filled
The tumbler up to the brim.
But the barkeeper drew the tumbler back,
As he glanced the customer o'er,
And said, "My friend you have made a mistake
We don't keep a wholesale store."
—Boston Courier.

George McDonald, the novelist, is editing a new edition of Shakspeare. If there is any one thing that this world wants more than another it is a new edition of Shakspeare. — Philadelphia Call.

The young man who had just made his "first appearance on any stage" was telling his friends all about it. "Did you receive any floral tribute?" was asked. "No," he replied, "but I dodged all the eggs!" There was triumph in his tone.

The poor never realize their poverty so intensely as when they are brought by necessity to wear the dainty garments concocted for them by fashionable but kind-hearted young ladies at the last meeting of the Dorcas Club.—Somerville Journal.

Two men in a Texas hotel were talking about taxes. "Which do you prefer, direct or indirect taxes?" "I don't want any at all. That is the kind I am in favor of, and let me tell you there are lots of people in this country who think as I do."—Hartford Courant.

The London journals have not yet decided whether it is Suakin, Suakim, Souakin, or Souakim; but when General Graham gets home he will be able to settle it. He has had considerable of a spell at that place. — New York World.

Journalist to his wife—I feel very bad this morning. I don't see that it's worth while to go to work, for my head aches so painfully that I cannot think." Wife—Don't try to think any to-day, dear. Stay at home and work on your book."—Arkansaw Traveler.

"I trust the current of my discourse last Sunday was not sufficiently formidable to hopelessly ingulf you," jocosely remarked a young Detroit clergyman to a lady member in his congregation the other evening. "O, no! It was quite shallow enough for comfortable wading, thank you!"

"Mamma," said Freddy Popinjay, "do sounds ever get drunk?" "What a silly question," replied his mother. "Well, I don't care, anyway," cried Freddy. "I heard our minister say the other day that the sound was 'dissipated in the air,' and if dissipated don't mean drunk, I'd like to know what it does mean."—Burlington Free Press.

"Young man," said a revivalist solemnly, "do you feel that you are prepared to answer the summons at any moment? Do you realize that when you go to bed at night you may be called before the morning dawns?" "O, yes, sir. I'm night clerk in a drug store, an' all you've got to do is keep on ringin' the bell until you hear the holler."—N. Y. Sun.

There has been much stuff and nonsense written about "Mexican beauties." The truth is a senorita of our sister republic is rarely pretty. She is apt to be obese when not yet 20 years of age, and, as for her taste in dressing, she hasn't any. Most of them use a pasty sort of powder on their faces, and have little discretion in the use of colors. As a rule, a Mexican girl is ugly when smartly dressed, and only looks really well when very young and careless of fashion.

The dynamo machines in the Edison central station, New York, were started in September, 1882, and have been running continuously, night and day, ever since. They supply electricity that is used in motors as well as in lamps. The price charged is about the same, it is said, as that for gas at $2 per 1,000 cubic feet, and last year the company, on this basis, earned 3 per cent on the capital invested. The earnings of each lamp are a little over 1 cent per hour, but they average less than two and a half hours per day. The cost of production is about ¾ of a cent per lamp per hour.

The Grand Army Post of South Abington, Mass., intends giving a novel entertainment—a pie party, really. Each lady is to contribute a pie, the pastry of which shall bear her name. The pies are to be wrapped in paper and sold to the highest bidders, who are then expected to do escort duty for the remainder of the evening for the lady whose name is on the pie. It is presumed that males only are to bid.

Vegetine will cleanse scrofula and all scrofula humors from the system.

The "Flying Yankee" train between Boston and St. John, N. B., will begin its trips for the season early in June.

What is the use of suffering with backache, rheumatism, kidney diseases, sciatica, crick, stitches, chest and lung troubles, torpid liver, or soreness in any part when a Hop Plaster will certainly give you relief? Vastly superior to all other porous plasters. You'll say so after using one. 25c, everywhere.

The Colombian Guards, who fought Prestan at Colon, have arrived at Panama, with the 100 prisoners who were reported to have been drowned. The statement that they were drowned is declared to be false, which seems probable; they are alive now, anyway.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

The schooner John Lenthall, of Exeter, Sawyer master, passed through Hell Gate on the 9th inst., bound from Hoboken, N. J., for Exeter, with a cargo of coal. This is her first trip this season.

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

ECZEMA

And Every Species of Itching and Burning Diseases Positively Cured.

ECZEMA, or Salt Rheum, with its agonizing Itching and burning, instantly relieved by a warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, and a single application of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure. This repeated daily, with two or three doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, to keep the blood cool, the perspiration pure and unirritating, the bowels open, the liver and kidneys active, will speedily cure Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Psoriasis, Itchen Pruritus, Scald Head, Dandruff, and every species of Itching, Scaly, and Pimply Humors of the Scalp and Skin, when the best physicians and all known remedies fail.

Will McDonald, 2542 Dearborn St., Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Eczema of Sixt Rheum on head, neck, face, arms, and legs for seventeen years; not able to walk except on hands and knees for one year; not able to help himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; pronounced incurable; cured and permanently cured by CUTICURA RESOLVENT (blood purifier) internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP (the great skin cures) externally.

Chas. Houghton, Esq., lawyer, 28 State St., Boston, reports a case of Eczema under his observation for ten years, which covered the patient's body and limbs, and to which all known methods of treatment had been applied without benefit, which was completely cured solely by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, leaving a clean and healthy skin.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered untold tortures from Eczema, which appeared on the hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. After the most careful doctoring and a consultation of physicians failed to relieve him, he used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and was cured, and has remained so to date.

Mr John Thiel, Wilkesbarre, Pa., writes: "My wife suffered from Salt Rheum for over eight years, at times so bad that I could not attend to my business for weeks at a time. Three boxes of CUTICURA and one bottle of RESOLVENT have entirely cured me of this dreadful disease."

Sold by all druggists. Price: CUTICURA, 50 cts.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25 cts. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Clergymen, Vocalists,

And Public Speakers without number owe their present usefulness and success to SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

Rev. Dr. Wiggin says: "One of the best remedies for Catarrh—nay, the best remedy we have found in a lifetime of suffering—is SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. It clears the head and throat so thoroughly that, taken each morning on rising, there are no unpleasant secretions and no disagreeable hawking during the entire day, but an unprecedented clearness of voice and respiratory organs."

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E.S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

TUESDAY, May 12th; Colt J.

At the coming in of the court to-day the petition of the Trustees of the Portland & Ogdensburg R. R., as to issue of additional receivers certificates and the applicatian of payments of the proceeds of the same, was received. W. L. Putnam for Trustees; C. F. Libbey for P. & O. R. R.; Frink for Mercantile Trust Co. The petition of A. P. Carpenter to be made a party, was denied. The petition of Philip Carpenter was ordered to stand for future hearing.

Cases Hutchins, Executor, vs. R. B. Dunn, S. C. Eastman and others vs. John G. Sinclair, and King admr. vs. Conn and Passumpsic R. R., were continued.

On motion of the Attorney General, Samuel W. Emery, Esq., of this city, was admitted to the bar of this court to practice.

PRISONERS ARRAIGNED.

George H. Lawrence, Nashua, robbing the mail of a letter containing $10. Plea guilty; sentence, one year at hard labor in Manchester jail.

Joseph F. Lucier, Lyme, passing counterfeit coin. Plea guilty; sentence, reserved.

Wm. F. Osgood, Lyme, making counterfeit coin. Not guilty.

Melzar W. Dunbar, Hampton, misuse of the mails. Guilty. Fine, $100 and costs; paid.

John Clark and Kate Clark of Concord, breaking and entering post offices at Concord and East Concord, and larceny of postage stamps, valued at $12, Plea, not guilty. Defts. filed a demurrer to two of the counts in the indictment. Samuel W. Emery appeared for the respondents. The arguments on the demurrer were made by Mr. Emery and District Attorney Burns, and the demurrer to the second and third counts was sustained. The jury were empannelled as follows: Joseph E. Fox, Wolfeborough, foreman; Edward D. Manton, Berlin; Francis H. Cram, Eben L. Smith, Meredith; George W. Carpenter, Dalton; Wm. B. Jessman, Jos. K. Barrett, Bethlehem; Charles Kennett, Charles Emery, Madison; Alanson Owen, Stewartstown; Hazen Chandler, Chatham; James M. Pike, Stark. The government called eight witnesses.

AN ENDORSEMENT.

Washington despatches state that the president is full of regret that he cannot depend on any one to give him trustworthy information about men whom he is asked to appoint to office, and that he does not find out about his appointees till after they are in their places, when it becomes a difficult matter to dislodge them. There need be no difficulty as far as applicants from New Hampshire are concerned. If the editor of the administration organ in this city has any delicacy as to endorsing the claims of the applicant for the collectorship of the port, the Chronicle, which can have no possible interest in misstating the facts in the case, hastens to inform His Excellency that A. A. Hanscom, Esq., of this city, is in every way fitted for the position. He is not an "offensive partisan," which means that he did not vote for Blaine, and is an orthodox democrat. Besides, he has had experience in this position, having served as collector of a neighboring port in Maine under President Pierce. It is perhaps proper to add that we are generous enough to make this endorsement entirely unsolicited on the part of the applicant, being moved thereto solely with a view to aid the president in his present dilemma.

A LOST CHANCE.

Ex-Congressman Shelley, of Alabama, is to receive his reward at the hands of the administration for his self-denying and heroic services in behalf of the democratic party. It may be remembered by readers of the Tribune, that Mr. Shelley is the democrat who, although he never received a majority of the votes cast, performed the remarkable feat of securing six times in succession a certificate of election to Congress from a district which has given large republican majorities at every congressional election since 1870. In the last two congresses Mr. Shelley's "election" was repudiated by the house, the last time when that body was controlled by his own party. Mr. Shelley was a brigadier-general in the rebel army. He is to succeed Charles Beardsley as fourth auditor of the treasury department.—New York Tribune.

This is the position which Gov. Call of this city would have filled had he possessed the patience to remain at Washington until he received the appointment. It is as true now as it was in old Bible times that "many are called but few are chosen." Matt. 22d: 14th.

TALK IN WASHINGTON.

The Washington Critic has the following to say concerning the recent visit of various New Hampshire politicians to the national capitol, which we reproduce as having a certain amount of local interest:

The New Hampshire delegation that recently assembled in this city on the occasion of Frank Jones' return from the south, and put in a few days at the White House and departments, appears to have stirred up more confusion and grumbling than is usually accomplished by one delegation. Frank Jones, the dissatisfied say, is given absolute control of the New Hampshire patronage in consideration of his services during the presidential campaign, and one of the complaints is an allegation that the syndicate are so deeply interested in railroad legislation at the summer session of the New Hampshire legislature that they wish to postpone appointments and changes, so that they can control the legislature by the influence, at the same time, of republicans whom they allow to remain in office, and democrats whom they promise to put in. Another cause of delay is some doubt in their minds as to how much evidence the president will require in support of charges of offensive partisanship and neglect or irregularities in the discharge of duty. The three officers outside the state in which the delegation was interested are the naval officer, collector and surveyor of Boston. They claim that precedent entitles Massachusetts to name two, and New Hampshire the third, of these officers. They want Colonel Kent of New Hampshire made naval officer, and are confident of success unless Maine should capture the collectorship or surveyorship, in which case Massachusetts would claim the naval officer, and New Hampshire would get left.

THE VAN AMBURGH SHOW.

The announcement of the appearance of the Van Amburgh show in this city on Saturday, May 30th, will awaken many pleasant memories in the minds of our elder readers. It is now about sixty-five years since this standard circus and menagerie began to travel, and during all that time it has maintained a first class reputation. For thirty-eight years it has been controlled by Mr. Hyatt Frost, who is still at the head of its affairs. For the present season the establishment has been newly equipped throughout, and provided with an outfit for travel by railroad. Charles Reiche & Brother, the famous importers of wild beasts, have become associated in the proprietorship, and the management is better prepared than ever to cater to those who visit the circus and menagerie for amusement and instruction. In one thing Mr. Frost has made a radical change, and that is in the price of admission, while the show it is claimed is in every way larger and better than at any previous period of its existence. The admittance fee has been fixed at not half a dollar, but only twenty-five cents. At this very reasonable charge, the attractions being so extraordinary, there will be a great turnout, for which ample preparations have been made in the way of tent-room and seating accommodations. We will warrant that the average behavior of the little folks will improve one hundred per cent in anticipation of the coming "Van Amburgh, Charles Reiche & Brother's New Railroad Shows, Japanese and American Circus, Museum, Aquarium and Menagerie," for of course all the good boys and girls will be there. The advertisement is in another column.

CRICKET.

The Portsmouth cricket club will play the Sanford club at Sanford, Me., on Saturday, May 16th, and the Lowell club at Lowell, Mass., on the 23d. The Sanfords will play a return game in this city on May 30th, and the Lowells will play here on the 4th of July. The St. Paul's club of Concord, N. H., and the Chelseas of Chelsea, Mass., will also play here on early dates, not yet fixed; the Arlingtons of Lawrence, Mass., and the Harvards of Cambridge, Mass., will play here later; and communication has been had with a large number of other clubs which desire to play in this city on the grounds of the home club, on dates not yet named by either club.

The Portsmouth club includes some excellent material, but some of the best players are young working men who are unable to bear the expense of visiting other places to take part in matches, and if the club is to make a good showing at this manly, healthful and exhilarating sport, admirers of the game must lend a helping hand. Several generous supporters of the club have been removed by death within a few years. The late Lieut. Lyman G. Spalding, U. S. N., Wm. Russell Foster, Esq., and Chas. W. Gould, were always counted on for a liberal contribution, and it was always forthcoming; and the loss of their kindly aid is seriously felt. The game is one of the most pleasing in the list of athletics, and it is to be hoped that the interest in it here will not be allowed to languish for want of a little popular encouragement.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are the most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians, and one said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has worn golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have been a great sufferer for years from complaints incident to married life. I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I can assure you that the benefits I have derived from it came not because of any faith I had in it, for I had but slight hope of any permanent good. I am not a seeker after notoriety, but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." Phebe C. Roop.

Climate of the Soudan.

We published a few days ago an interview with Sir Henry Green on the subject of the employment of Indian sepoys in the Soudan. The following remarks by Sir Henry upon climate influences, which we had not space to print then, may be of interest now:

"And what about the climate, Sir Henry?" said our representative. "Well, those who have been in Scinde are not likely to be scared by the Soudan. As I spent most of my life in those baking deserts, I can not share the alarm expressed by many concerning the prospects of a Summer in the Soudan. In Scinde we have heat so terrible that sometimes you may see horses roll over with sunstroke in all directions, but I have very seldom seen any European down with sunstroke. The cause is the excessive dryness of the heat. When the air is so dry you perspire profusely, and the perspiration saves your life. When the atmosphere is damp, the perspiration is checked, and after sunset men die like rotten sheep of heat apoplexy. In the Persian campaign we camped out from October to October near Peshawur, one of the hottest places you can find in all Asia, and our sick was only two per cent; while on board the ships in the roads it was almost impossible to live. Dry heat can be borne to almost any extent with comparative impunity. I have seen French regiments come in from the desert with nothing on their heads but kepis, under a blazing sun which would have decimated the ranks had there been the least humidity in the atmosphere.

"As regards the making of the railway between Suakim and Berber, that railway would probably have been made long ago but for Lord Granville. Everything was arranged; the Duke of Teck was to be the Chairman; we had a very powerful and influential directorate. A financial house had agreed to raise all the money that was needed, the Egyptian Government was to guarantee 4 per cent., the whole work was completed on paper, when it was suddenly brought to nothing by the antipathy of the Pashas of Cairo to any scheme which diverted the Soudan traffic from the Nile to the Red Sea. 'You have taken away half our trade by making the canal,' they said, 'and now you want to take away the rest by your railway.' The scheme was stifled; but one word from the Government would have secured its execution. That word Lord Granville emphatically refused to say. The Soudan lay altogether beyond the sphere of our interests, they said. So the railway was never commenced, with results which you know only too well. I naturally disbelieve the stories as to the necessity for running through tubular tunnels on account of the sand-storms and moving sand hills. The sand-hills of the desert do not march about like huge snowballs sixty feet high. They drift in Africa as they do in India, a little at a time, and if the rails are kept swept and the more exposed places protected by a wall there need be no fear as to the safety of the railway. In one place, while making a railway in Scinde, we ran ninety miles without one drop of water; and in all Scinde we have not one singular tubular tunnel to protect the track from being silted up."—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Fly-Haunted Town.

The wall of King-Choo-Foo is crenelated forty feet high on the outside in certain places, but on the inside sloping and covered with a jungle growth of bamboo, banyan, and other shrubs to the very top. At intervals of every few hundred yards along it is a small smooth-bore cannon of remarkably peaceful aspect. No doves were discovered building their nests therein, but in my mile walk along the parapet numerous litters of pacific pigs were seen dozing in the very openings of the crenneles. Not a soldier was observed in making the circuit of this ancient and formidable fortification, the drag-on-guarded yamin of the Taotai had a fly-haunted, somnolent air, in the streets business proceeded lazily, and over all the grove-like openings of the capital city the very spirit of summer peace and quiet seemed to hold its beneficent reign. Our cortege, with which we made the circuit, was composed of scarcely more than a dozen aimless hoodlums and inquisitive urchins, and we left the place impressed with the idea that if the inhabitants thought of danger from the French it was still as an intangible effort of the imagination—as something so far off as scarcely to be considered, or if considered, amply provided against.—Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Colonel Napoleon Crosby, of Georgia, relates that upon one occasion his company was forced to march for several days over the unbroken snow, and his eyes became so weak and inflamed that he blackened his whole face with soot to counteract the brilliant reflection from the snow. He says, of course, it was a failure, but he persisted that it was a great relief, and in less than a day the whole company presented an unbroken line of blackened faces and eyelids.

William P. Hopkins, of Lawrence, Mass., has in his possession a love letter written 221 years ago by James Chalmers, one of the judges in the time of Charles I., to Lady Ursula Fairfax, whom he afterward married. The letter, of whose authenticity no doubt can, it is stated, be raised, is still in perfect condition. It is dated "Lon., 18 Nov., 1663," and is addressed: "To his entirely loved and highly honored Mistresse Ursula Fairfax."

Experience Taught Me.

And my money paid for it. After having Liver Complaint four years, and spending money on nostrums and doctors who didn't help me, I tried Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. I shall always use them.—G. N. Butler, Cohoes, New York.

At Reading, Pa., May 12th, Mrs. Hiram Pfantz took her five children to a mill pond and threw them all into the stream, and then jumped in herself and was drowned, together with two of her youngest children, aged one and three years respectively. The older children were rescued and resuscitated with the greatest difficulty. The tragedy was caused by religious excitement, the woman having been made insane by it.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Sheriff Ragsdale of Fannin county, Texas, was killed May 11th at a point nine miles south of Denham while attempting to arrest Sam and Eli Dyer and other desperadoes. The sheriff, accompanied by a posse of forty citizens, traced the desperadoes to a small log hut, and with a farmer named Buchanon, approached the hut and summoned its inmates to surrender. He was answered by a volley from their Winchesters. Sheriff Ragsdale was killed, and Buchanon seriously injured. One of the desperadoes was killed. Two hundred armed men left Denham to capture the entire gang of outlaws.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

Dr. Edwin Bartlet, Milwaukie, says: "I have found Scott's Emulsion to be one of the best preparations in use, especially in children's diseases, on account of the elegance of the preparation, and its agreeable taste. It is very desirable in wasting diseases."

ECZEMA

And Every Species of Itching and Burning Diseases Positively Cured.

ECZEMA, or Salt Rheum, with its agonizing itching and burning, instantly relieved by a warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, and a single application of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure. This repeated daily, with two or three doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, to cool the blood cool the perspiration, purify and invigorate the bowels open, the liver and kidneys active, will speedily cure Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Psoriasis, Itchen Prurigo, Scald Head, Dandruff, and every species of Itching, Scaly, and Pimply Humors of the Scalp and Skin, when the best physicians and all known remedies fail.

Will McDonald, 2562 Dearborn St., Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Eczema or Salt Rheum on head, neck, face, arms, and legs for seventeen years; not able to walk except on hands and knees for one year; not able to help himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; doctors pronounced his case hopeless; permanently cured by CUTICURA RESOLVENT (blood purifier) internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP (the great skin cures) externally.

Chas. Houghton, Esq., lawyer, 28 State St., Boston, reports a case of Eczema under his observation for ten years, which covered the patient's body and limbs, and for which all known methods of treatment had been applied without benefit, which was completely cured solely by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, leaving a clean and healthy skin.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered untold tortures from Eczema, which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. After the most careful doctoring and a consultation of physicians failed to relieve him, he used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and was cured, and has remained so to date.

Mr John Thiel, Wilkesbarre, Pa., writes: "I have suffered from Salt Rheum for over eight years, at times so bad that I could not attend to my business for weeks at a time. Three boxes of CUTICURA and four bottles RESOLVENT have entirely cured me of this dreadful disease."

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., May 12th.

Miss M. A. Drew of Newfield, Me., a teacher of art embroidery, repousse Roman art and irridescent painting, has been stopping a few weeks at Mr. Irving Wilson's in North Kittery. Miss Drew has several scholars in this town and in York; she also has classes in several other towns in the county. Her work is exquisitely beautiful.

At the annual meeting of the school district No. 1, held Tuesday evening, the 5th inst., Paschal M. Langton was elected agent in place of Nicholas Spinney, who was elected at a previous meeting against his wishes. Mrs. Alice Fuller of North Kittery is teaching the school, which commenced Monday, the 11th inst.

The 2d Methodist Sabbath school, at the village, gave a successful entertainment on Wednesday evening last. This school is one of the largest in this vicinity, having about 115 members, with an average attendance of 100.

With the advent of spring the farmers are looking around seeking how they may improve their stock. The improvement of their horse stock is at this season interesting many who raise a colt now and then, finding it much easier to raise a good horse than to raise two or three hundred dollars purchase money. One of the most difficult questions to decide in breeding is the selection of the sire, on whom success or failure largely depends. Among the many stallions advertised I have seen none more worthy patronage than the fine horse "Hunter Duroc," owned by J. W. Lewis of Kittery. "Hunter Duroc" was by "Maine Duroc," he by Backman's "Messenger Duroc." First dam by a son of "Kentucky Hunter," a noted thoroughbred; second dam by that celebrated trotter "Geo. M. Patchen." This union of Hambletonian, Clay and thoroughbred blood has been found not wanting in speed or stoutness, when tested on the race course, as the many sons and daughters of "Geo. Wilkes" and "Electioneer" amply prove. The value of a stallion is best made known by the value of his colts. "Hunter Duroc's" colts are pronounced superior, by intelligent horsemen, to the offspring of any other horse that has been in the sections where his stock is owned; and many of his colts are held at high figures by their owners. "Hunter Duroc" has never been trained for speed, but his level head and fine action insure its possession. He was timed a half mile this last winter on the ice in 1:20, though then fat and unfit, as he had been harnessed but three times during the winter. Another important item in the selection of a sire is the matter of temper or disposition, which is often an inheritance in which we can take no pride. This horse is of the finest disposition, being gentle and reliable. He will go to Brookfield, N. H., June 1st, returning to Kittery July 1st.

The bundle lost by J. P. Norton, Esq., of York, while on the road between Kittery depot and York on the evening of the 1st inst., containing a new suit of clothes and an overcoat, was found by Mr. John R. Williams, the night watchman at the Portsmouth bridge, while returning home early next evening, and has been returned to its owner.

Granville Spinney is manufacturing in his shop near the depot a number of first class democrat and Concord wagons, which all in need of should look at.

The selectmen are making necessary repairs to, and shingling, the almshouse.

The agent of school district No. 2 has cleaned out the well in the school yard, put in a new chain-pump, and built a neat house over the whole. This is something that has long been needed, but previous agents have had poor encouragement in trying to keep the well in order longer than one season. The building is now kept locked by the teacher, and a careful watch will be made of the premises out of school hours, the agent thinking the work of destruction is not all done by the scholars. SUB ROSA.

Counting Uncle Sam's Cash.

The count of the moneys and securities in the United States treasury has been completed. Everything was found in a satisfactory condition, and the reports of Ex-Treasurer Wyman were proved correct in every instance. Even an alleged discrepancy of two cents reported in the count of the cash room was shown on a recount to be incorrect. The missing pennies were subsequently found on the floor where they had dropped during the progress of the count. The books and accounts of the treasurer's office are yet to be verified. Mr. Theodore L. De Land of the secretary's office has been added to the commission to assist in the count of the finished and unfinished United States notes and gold and silver certificates held at the bureau of engraving and printing, on which duty the commission has entered.

A Mormon Rebellion.

A despatch of May 12th from Oxford, Idaho territory, says: "The greatest excitement prevails at Bear lake. On the 5th inst. warrants were placed in the hands of three deputy marshals for the arrest of eight polygamists at and around Paris. Yesterday morning a telegram was received announcing that the polygamists were all corralled in the meeting house at Paris, under the protection of an armed guard of brethren. The deputy marshals were marched out of Paris by an armed mob, who threatened to kill any one who attempted to serve a warrant. Marshal Dubois has chartered a special train to convey himself and posse to Montpelier, the nearest railroad station to Paris."

The Latest Trunk Tragedy.

A Chicago despatch of the 12th inst. says "the three Italians arrested in this city for alleged participation in the murder of the Italian lemon peddler, Caruso, practically confessed the murder this afternoon. They absolve Jurado, who was arrested in New York on his way to Italy. They state that he witnessed the deed, however, and commanded a share of the money taken from Caruso as the price of his silence, and then aided them in shipping the body in the trunk to Pittsburg, Pa. The detectives declare that the confession is sufficient to cause the hanging of all three of the men. The murder was perpetrated solely to obtain the $300 or $400 which it was known Caruso had in his possession."

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them, at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

WEDNESDAY, May 13th; Colt J.

The case of John Clark and Kate Clark was given to the jury on Wednesday morning. The two respondents testified in their own behalf. Each admitted that they had served a term in the N. H. state prison. The verdict was guilty as to both respondents. Sentenced each to one year's confinement in state prison, and to pay a fine of ten dollars.

U. S. vs. Wm. F. Osgood, of Lyme; indictment for making counterfeit quarters of dollars at Lyme. The frequent number of this coin being found in circulation at Lyme, induced the sending of a government detective to that town, and the arrest of prisoners indicted at this term followed. Osgood lived at Richardson's, one of the prisoners arrested, and who has since committed suicide in jail at Concord. Osgood requested to have counsel assigned to him. The court invited Mr. Page, and subsequently Mr. S. W. Emery, who took charge of the defence after Mr. Page was obliged to leave. The District Attorney gave a history of the discovery of the tools and appliances at Richardson's, and the arrest of Osgood. The government called four witnesses.

Judge Page opened for the defendant, and stated that the counterfeiting was done by Richardson who had died in jail, and that Osgood knew nothing of the crime. This position was supported by Joseph F. Lucier, a minor step son of Richardson. The defendant also testified. The case was argued by Emery for defendant and Burns for the U. S. The jury in this case rendered a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was sentenced to 3 years in State prison and to pay a fine of $300.

Joseph F. Lucier, who plead guilty to passing counterfeit money, Tuesday afternoon, was sentenced to-day to 6 months in jail.

Lang et al. vs. Dennis J. Lynch, an action brought to recover the price of twenty-five barrels of whiskey, aggregating $2008.26, sold in November, 1882, while Mr. Lynch was in the grocery and liquor business on Market street in this city. The case is removed from the state court. The first witness called by the plaintiff was the defendant, Lynch, who admitted the receipt of the liquors by rail and steamer at Portsmouth, and that he paid the freight. The plea is that the liquors were sold in violation of the law of this state, and the order for the liquor was taken in Portsmouth, the plaintiff having reasonable cause to believe that the liquors when delivered were to be transported to the state of New Hampshire to be sold in violation of the law of this state. Mr. Lynch's store was burned out before the liquors arrived; and he sold the liquors to parties in Boston.

There was no question made by the defendant that the goods were delivered in Pennsylvania, the defendant contending that the case was similar to that of Dunbar vs. Locke, decided in the state supreme court against the plff. Under this feature of the case the plaintiff rested, after reading a letter from Mr. Lynch, who testified further, at the instance of his counsel, that he was an authorized town agent for the sale of liquor. The defendant offered no evidence, relying on the legal positions assumed, and asked for a verdict; and on this motion Mr. Frink argued that there was no conflict of testimony in the case. The contract must have arisen either by correspondence, or an order given to the travelling agent of the plaintiff. There was no contract by correspondence shown, and it must have been made by the order given to Lang's travelling salesman, one Mr. Nathans, who telegraphed his order from Portsmouth. The plffs. knew that Lynch was to sell the liquor here in violation of law; this they learned from Mr. Lynch's first letter, and the knowledge of their salesman.

The plffs. contended that they did not fill the order taken by Nathan, and this must not be presumed, but proved; and the plffs. must not also be presumed to know the law of New Hampshire which it is contended they violated in this transaction. On this point Mr. Hatch read authorities in support of his positions, and denied that this court is to be bound by the decision in Dunbar vs. Locke.

The court held that the United States court is bound by the authorities of the supreme court of the state in this particular. On this point the plffs. cited further authorities, that the plffs. as citizens of another state are not bound by the decision referred to.

The question being solely of law, the case was taken from the jury, and questions of law will be heard in briefs and arguments by the Circuit judge.

Hatch for plffs.; Frink & Batchelder for Lynch.

The jurors were then dismissed, and the court took a recess.

In case on equity docket Mercantile Trust Co. vs. Portland & Ogdensburg railroad, the report of the master was confirmed, and the foreclosure ordered. The receiver was allowed to issue additional certificates of indebtedness.

The air seems full of rumors as to the prospects of the New Hampshire democrats in their hunt for the offices. The arrival of Mr. Jones in Washington is at once the signal for all the press correspondents to sharpen their pencils if not their wits, to give the world some sensational dispatch as to what is accomplished or projected, achieved or desired, and at times some very absurd statements are sent out. It has all along been generally conceded that Mr. Jones had the democracy solid, that he could so potently manipulate the republican office holders seems to add to his plumage. A man with such a following of course must be a power in these days at Washington, and the feeble mutterings of a few mossbacks, now shorn of their influence, will only serve to cause to stand out in bolder relief the bigness of Mr. Jones in the general dispensation of the spoils when he is ready to have the waters move. Since the days of Isaac Hill there has not been seen in New Hampshire any man in his party who, with apparently no effort on his part, has been able so completely to run the democracy as this gentleman, whose services in the late campaign the president seems so willing to acknowledge and reward.

The work of grading up Islington street with crushed stone and gravel was commenced on Tuesday, the 12th inst., at the academy. The job needed doing. [After the foregoing item was written, in looking over the Chronicle of 1872 in search of a record we desired to use we came across the following under date of Wednesday, May 15th, of that year: "Islington street is being crushed-stoned. Good thing!" Thus does history repeat itself.]

The "Northend Charmer" row-boat, belonging to the stevedores, is being placed in prime condition, ready for summer service. By the way, some one has mentioned her owners as "Sons of Rest," but they will not get much rest for many months to come, except one day in the week, and that they need.

The Young People's Association of the North Parish have their last sociable and supper for this season in the chapel on Middle street, this (Thursday) evening.

At a meeting of the Rockingham Bicycle club, held at the residence of Mr. Charles A. Hazletton Tuesday evening of this week, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: C. A. Hazlett, president; Harry M. Tucker, secretary; Goodwin E. Philbrick, captain; S. G. Kingbury, first lieutenant; C. Holbrook, second lieutenant; W. W. McIntire, bugler. Club committee, C. A. Hazlett, H. M. Tucker, G. E. Philbrick, J. H. Knox and A. H. Sides.

Mr. David Slaney on Tuesday, the 12th inst., brought to the wharf in his whaleboat 1000 lbs. of fish, which he sold to Daniel Clark at $1 per hundred. The schooner Rambler arrived at Commercial wharf on Tuesday evening with 2700 lbs. of cod and haddock.

The U. S. S. Omaha was running her engines on Wednesday.

The Dover Democrat is responsible for the following: "Charles Henry Porterhouse Storer of Wells, Me., well known in this city and Portsmouth, was in town Saturday for the purpose, it is said, of organizing a joint stock company to start and operate a rabbit ranche at Wells. He owns a tract of two hundred acres of land down there, and thinks to raise rabbits on it would be coining money for the stockholders. He proposes to enclose a hundred and twenty acres with a fence six feet high. He suggests that there be placed at the starting off one or two thousand, principally large sized animals from the west, and supply the Boston market with this kind of flesh. The proposition was favored by many in this city."

The Maine democrats have been in Washington recently asking "When are the refreshments to be served?" Maine lacks in its mode of presentation that "oneness" which so concentrates the applications in behalf of the New Hampshire patriots.

It seems that by actual count and weighing the money of the government turned over by the "rascals" of the republican administration, to the honest fellows designated by Higgins & Co., comes out to a cent; all is found as stated. None has been stolen. It is refreshing to find that notwithstanding the bold statements made in a Pickwickian sense by democratic orators on the stump in the late presidential contest, that the government money had pretty much all been stolen by the republicans, the honest count discloses that such statements were, as every intelligent person then supposed, mere bosh uttered for campaign purposes.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed the age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has worn golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

What is the use of suffering with backache, rheumatism, kidney diseases, sciatica, crick, stitches, chest and lung troubles, torpid liver, or soreness in any part when a Hop Plaster will certainly give you relief? Marriage and Health.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have been a great sufferer for years from complaints incident to married life. I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I can assure you that the benefits I have derived from it came not because of any faith I had in it, for I had but slight hope of any permanent good. I am not a seeker after notoriety, but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1849, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

The small-pox is prevalent at Montreal, the hospital being full of cases.

Best Goods are put in Smallest Parcels.

The old proverb is certainly true in the case of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are little, sugar-wrapped parcels, scarcely larger than mustard seeds, containing as much cathartic power as is done up in the biggest, most repulsive-looking pill. Unlike the big pills, however, they are mild and pleasant in their operation—do not produce griping pains, nor render the bowels costive after using.

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

Amos Pray, for many years a conductor on the Boston & Maine railroad, died in Great Falls on May 13th.

I could scarcely speak; it was almost impossible to breathe through my nostrils. Using Ely's Cream Balm a short time I was entirely relieved. The Highest Trees Known.

Some of the eucalyptus trees grow to a height of 500 feet, and would cast a shadow on the summit of the pyramids or the dome of St. Peter's. They were first discovered and classified by M. Labaillardieu, a French botanist, just before the beginning of the present century, and have since grown into a renown as wide as that of the giant cedars of California, some of which stood where they now stand before the Hebrew Bible was recorded or the earliest choric hymns of the Hindoos rose along the borders of the five rivers. One of these mighty trees, now hurled down and stretched along the rock, presented, when it stood erect, a height of more than 490 feet, and, by counting the annular rings upon a section of one of its coevals, it was ascertained that it was more than four thousand years old, standing there on its rocky perch unmindful of the deluges of Deucalion and Noah, and unshaken amid all the commotions of the globe.

Even this majestic altitude is surpassed by some of the eucalyptus, which thus far are the highest trees ever discovered; but there is as yet no sufficient testimony as to their longevity. It is, however, manifestly great, and some of those which are to be planted here and there by our compatriots may outlast the nation, as the chestnut tree of Etna outlasted Rome, and the giant palms beside the Bosphorus have outlasted the lions of Constantine and Palæologus.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Catfish and Her Kittens.

A Mr. Hubbard, a bay fisherman, says that late in the spring you will often see a school of about fifty small catfish, not more than a quarter of an inch in length, very near the shore, and if you look ten or twelve feet further out you will see the mother cat. It would be made she will make a sign that the little "cats" understand as well as chickens do the cluck of an old hen when a hawk is in the neighborhood, and run into the open mouth of the old catfish, who will then turn and swim off in safety with her young. Mr. Thomas Davis, of this city, some time ago told us that he had noticed this care of a mother catfish for her young. He said that he has often seen the young fish swimming about in shallow water, while the old fish would not be far off. If danger threatened the old "catty" would rush in among her young, and by a vigorous motion of fins stir up the mud until the water became discolored and the young fish could no longer be seen. When the water would become clear again neither old nor young fish would be visible.—Havre de Grace Republican.

Mark Twain's English.

There is a brass plate in Mark Twain's house on which is engraved the sentence, "The ornament of a house is the friends who frequent it." It surprised me to find such a sentence, even though on brass, in such a quarter. Its grammatical construction may not be deemed absolutely incorrect by some; it evidently was not by Mark Twain; but it is decidedly clumsy and harsh to the ear, even if it does not violate, which I doubt, some express rule of grammar. As the art of constructing sentences properly is one of no mean importance to writers and speakers, I would ask, does not the harshness arise from endeavoring to make one verb do duty for both the singular and plural noun? The ornament is the friends; the friends is the ornament. Or, does not the clumsiness arise from making the singular noun occupy a plural position, thus expressing a relationship beyond its capacity to bear? This would not be the case had the sentence been, "The ornaments are the friends," which could be transferred to "The friends are the ornaments." But Mark Twain doubtless wished to make the word "friends" emphatically set forth "the ornament" of his house. Could he do so with but one verb connecting the singular and plural noun? —Letter in Toronto Week.

The most peculiar part of a wedding festival among the middle classes in Persia is the closing. At the moment the bride leaves her father's house a shout of "Kel lel lel" announces the fact. All the guests carry lanterns on high poles to lead and light the way. As the procession approaches the home of the bridegroom several sheep are sacrificed in honor of the bride. They are slain at her feet as she steps over her husband's threshold for the first time. Then invoking blessings on the pair, all wend their way home, and the festival is over.

Adirondack Murray now keeps a restaurant in Montreal, and he finds time to study Dominion politics. He writes to the Boston Herald that there are a large class who believe that Canada is destined to be something more than a colony of the British Empire. They hope for an independent nation. They hold that her population will soon outgrow that number which can be accommodated within colonial limits, and that the day will speedily come when a natural and peaceful separation will take place between her and England.

A dog belonging to a Wanaqua, N. J., lad had for a long time been in the habit of picking up his breakfast and running away with it instead of eating it. The boy followed him on Friday, and the dog led him a roundabout trip, evidently to tire out his pursuer. Finally the dog lay down and waited for the boy to go away. The boy started abruptly as if to go home. The dog then ran very fast and disappeared in a covert, where investigation revealed a decrepit and emaciated old dog, who was engaged devouring the breakfast.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

Nobody Supposed It.

The Times, commenting on the count of the treasure in the government vaults coming out within two cents [it really came out exact, the missing two cents being found on the floor] of the amount called for by the books, suggests that it is a very small argument in support of the honesty of the republican administration for twenty-four years, and says:

Did anybody suppose that the treasury had been robbed as express trunks are sometimes robbed?—that box after box would be found to have been rifled of its gold, and stones or bricks put in its place? No.

And yet that precise charge was repeatedly made by democratic stump orators and editors during the late presidential campaign—that the treasury had been robbed of vast sums which the books called for, and that a count would show it to be so.

An Icy Ocean.

Capt. Lord of the steamer Critic, which arrived at New York from Leith on the 12th inst., reports: On May 6th, at early morning we found a solid wall of packed ice interrupting our forward progress and extending as far as the eye could reach. We looked for a passage to the south all day, but without success. The icebergs became exceedingly numerous, attaining an altitude of from 200 to 300 feet, and assuming the dimensions of large islands. The weather now becoming thick with fog, it was with the utmost difficulty that we could thread our way through them. We got into the outer edge of a field of ice and it was with the greatest difficulty that we were enabled to get out again. Night approaching, we deemed it imprudent to advance any further, and decided to stop in our present position until daylight. To avoid being caught in the ice the vessel was kept moving ahead and astern all night. The experiences of the 6th were repeated on the 7th. The Allan Line steamer Caspian was passed on this day. In one hour's steaming at the rate of ten knots we passed eighty-five icebergs, and at one time I counted fifty-two. We were sixty hours from first sighting ice until we we were clear of it. Toward the close of the day we saw a three-masted schooner, under a heavy press of canvas, trying to force through a strip of heavy field ice. May 8th we had another anxious night, similar in every particular to the preceding one. I was surprised about mid-day to find the Caspian alongside of us again, her passengers looking even more forlorn and dejected than they did the previous day. We passed several ships, all having an air of indecision about them as if wishing to pursue their course, yet fearing to do so. At four P. M. on the 9th we were in clear water again. I have never in all my experience at sea known the ice to be so thick and to cover so large an area of water. The number of icebergs passed, at the lowest estimate, must have gone into the thousands.

The fact has just leaked out that Harold B. Wallack, the youngest son of the actor Lester Wallack, was married last November to Miss Madge D. Fling, who comes of an old Philadelphia family. She is a cousin of Geo. Howell, of the banking firm of Decker, Howell & Co., and has about $250,000 in her own right. The marriage was kept quiet until early last week, when the couple told the lady's mother, and then went to Boston and told Mr. Wallack, the elder. The latter was greatly astonished. The young couple were forgiven on all sides, and are now stopping at Lester Wallack's residence at Stamford, Conn.

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

THE FREEMAN'S POINT BRIDGE.

Editor of the Gazette: I see by my last paper that the railroad people are going to "improve" things by filling in under the bridge from Noble's island to Freeman's point. By what authority do they assume the right to destroy a navigable channel? Who has given them permission to do this?

FREEMAN'S POINT.

We presume the railroad people will leave a passageway through the bridge, unblocked, if they fill in as has been reported, though we know nothing as to that point. As to who has given them permission, we would remind our evidently displeased subscriber that railroads are not accustomed to ask permission of anybody when they wish to do anything, but simply go ahead and do it, and allow the public the privilege of growling about it after it is done. If the railroad people have really decided to fill in under that bridge, it will be filled in.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner John Lenthall, Sawyer master, from Hoboken with coal for Exeter, arrived in the lower harbor on the 13th inst. Capt. Sawyer reports the collision with the schooner H. B. Diverty in New London lower harbor, before reported, to have been a comparatively trifling affair, the damage to his schooner amounting to only $13 and to the other only $100, instead of $100 and $500 respectively, as first stated. The collision was caused by the helmsman putting the wheel the wrong way in response to an order.

The schooner Ada S. Allen arrived on the 14th from Port Johnson, N. J., with 256 tons of coal, and the Ira Laffrienier from Philadelphia with 297 tons, both to E. F. Sise & Co. The schooner Charles H. Trickey, Kelley master, arrived from Philadelphia with 300 tons of coal to C. H. Trickey & Co. of Dover, and fifty tons of piping.

The brick schooners D. K. Ham, Garland master, and Lillie, Perkins master, sailed for Boston on the 13th inst. The schooner Triton, Freeman master, arrived from Boston on the 13th, light, and on the 14th was reported as beached at Dover Point, undergoing some slight repairs. The brickers Estella and G. W. Raitt, reported in the Boston shipping columns as having arrived there on the 13th from this port, arrived back on the 14th, and proceeded up river to load.

A number of fishing vessels came in on Thursday and reported the weather outside as being very heavy. The schooner Grace Choate, Capt. Ed. Jameson, arrived with her mainboom broken in three places and her mainsail badly torn.

David Slaney on Thursday picked up, two miles outside of Whalesback, a ship's boat sixteen feet long on the keel, painted white outside and red inside, planked with cedar 5-8 of an inch thick. The wind was southeast at the time.

Capt. Zach. Randall, the veteran boatfisherman of Newcastle, having thawed out recently is putting in an occasional appearance up town and relating as many fish stories as ever—all new ones, too.

The Times, as is proper, expresses its "most distinguished consideration" for our entirely unsolicited endorsement of the leading candidate for collector of this port, and for our "tender regard for the president's feelings;" and it "thinks there will be no more difficulty so far as appointments in New Hampshire are concerned." We though there wouldn't be any more trouble, when we were writing; that was what we wrote for.

Members of the Christian church and congregation, and other friends of Rev. John A. Goss, who has closed his pastorate in this city, paid a farewell visit to that gentleman and his wife on the evening of the 13th inst., assembling in the church and proceeding to their house in a body. The occasion was an interesting one, and was participated in by a large number of persons, mutual good wishes and hopes for the future being given expression to. Mr. Charles E. Hatch, on behalf of many friends, presented Mr. Goss with a purse of $55, and other articles; and a foot-rest from Strawberry Bank Lodge of Good Templars, of which he has been an active member, was presented by Mr. Joseph Philbrick. Many of those present were much affected by Mr. Goss' remarks.

The Ladies Relief Corps, auxiliary to Storer Post, G. A. R., celebrated the anniversary of the organization by a grand supper at Grand Army hall on Wednesday evening of this week, many members of Storer Post and the Sons of Veterans camp being present, with ladies.

Schools of small porpoises or "puffing-pigs" were playing about in the lower harbor on the 13th inst.

By request, Rev. C. R. Crossett, pastor of the Advent church will preach on Sunday at 2:45 o'clock upon "The Tarrying Time," showing the mistake of William Miller, and the present attitude of the church relative to the Second Advent of Christ.

The advance agent of Barnum's circus has engaged the Hall field on the south road, opposite the Proprietors' burial ground, in which to exhibit "The greatest show on earth" on Thursday, July 16th. No suitable field of sufficient size could be found nearer the centre of the city.

Messrs. Haley & Robinson brought in 600 lobsters from Duck island, Isles of Shoals, on Thursday, to Randall & Caswell. Warren Caswell brought up from Rye on Thursday, to Randall & Caswell, 300 lobsters. His early potatoes are all up and growing. Mr. Ingebredson brought in from Smuttynose island, at the Shoals, the same day, 420 lobsters.

Mr. Chester Langton of Kittery, employed at Tilton's "harness dispensatory" and trunk infirmary, made a painful mistake, and one which might easily have been attended with the most serious consequences, on Wednesday of this week. Intending to take a dose of salts from a bottle he accidentally got hold of a bottle of ammonia, and filled his mouth with the fiery fluid before discovering his error, but fortunately did not swallow any. His mouth, tongue and lips were painfully burned.

The workmen of the Gamewell Electric Fire Alarm Co. were on Thursday morning engaged in constructing the line along Elm street. The common council of Nashua at their late meeting refused, by a vote of ten to ten, to approve a bill authorizing the adoption of this fire alarm in that city and making the necessary appropriation therefor.

Very little of the seed planted two or three weeks ago has appeared above ground, with the exception of peas, which care little for cold. weather or frost. The early-planted potatoes, as a general thing, would have best remained sprouting in the cellars; on low-lying lands they have been frozen, and in many localities have rotted in the ground, necessitating replanting to a large extent.

Poultry raisers in this region say the number of chickens produced this spring is very small in proportion to the number of eggs set, two or three chicks from a "setting" of a dozen or fifteen eggs being above the average yield.

In Dover, May 13th, the property of A. C. Amazeen, livery stable keeper, was attached by Jasper H. Randlett, carriage manufacturer.

It is a fact that the painters in the construction department at the navy yard, whose departure from the yard was announced several days ago, left of their own accord without waiting to be invited out, they being displeased at the reduction of Mr. Moses Moore from the position of foreman to that of leading man. This leaves the construction paint shop in charge of an apprentice, whose gang consists wholly of himself. It is reported that Mr. Moore and Mr. William B. Colley will set up business in this city, working in partnership.

Eleven joiners employed in the construction department on the navy yard, and of late at work on the U. S. S. Omaha, were discharged on Thursday evening; also several blacksmith's helpers.

All the men employed in the construction department at the Boston navy yard, except the general foreman and chief clerk, were discharged on Wednesday evening, May 13th, by order of Secretary Whitney. The discharge included the foremen of shipwrights, plumbers, ironplaters, spar makers, laborers, boatbuilders, smiths, and moulders, all of whom were reduced to leading workmen in charge of tools and shops, a short time ago. Work in the ropewalk at that yard was resumed on Wednesday, about fifty men being taken on.

Winslow Homer, the hermit artist, says the Lewiston Journal, has returned to his haunt at Prout's Neck, Me. He has spent the most of the winter travelling in the south, but has a singular attachment for the salt marshes of York county, and will spend another summer there. Homer is wealthy and unmarried, likes to be alone, and gratified an eccentric taste by building a studio at Prout's Neck because he found studies there that he liked, and could keep out of the way of the world, against which he seems to have a grudge.

Herbert F. Jewell of Strafford has been appointed postmaster at Bow Lake in that town.

At Watertown the market for cattle has not materially changed, and the receipts were not in excess of the demand. The beef cattle were generally disposed of on Tuesday. Those that had cattle in good flesh found a ready sale. A lot of 250 Canada cattle arrived in bond for the British steamers.

Milch Cows—Nearly the usual supply and prices generally sustained. We quote sales, according to quality, at $20 @ $75 ⅋ head.

The Sheep Trade—The market was somewhat less active, there being full as many as the butchers could handle, and their bids were generally a shade lower on common kinds of sheep. We found more flocks of slimly fatted sheep upon the market than last week.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of weather, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from one of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

The Bodwell Granite company of Maine has been awarded the contract for furnishing the stone for the new postoffice building in Brooklyn, N. Y., at $94,000.

"For economy and comfort, every spring, we use Hood's Sarsaparilla," writes an intelligent Buffalo, N. Y., lady. 100 Doses One Dollar.

Just before the storming of Riel's positions at Batouche, he sent to Gen. Middleton, commanding the Canadian forces, word that if he (Middleton) did not withdraw from the attack which had then been some time in progress, the white prisoners held by the rebels would be massacred. This will not gain the half-breed leader any sympathy. The prisoners referred to were recaptured by Middleton's troops.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have been a great sufferer for years from complaints incident to married life. I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I can assure you that the benefits I have derived from it came not because of any faith I had in it, for I had but slight hope of any permanent good. I am not a seeker after notoriety, but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." Phebe C. Roop.

It is said that the fugitive Capt. Howgate, formerly chief signal officer of the army, was recently seen at Jacksonville, Fla., and narrowly escaped capture at that place by officers who were on his track. He is now supposed to be somewhere in the south waiting until his pursuers have lost a little of their zeal and withdrawn from the trail.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, golden, black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

The Winter rime is on the apple trees;
The mulberries are bare; no longer shows
The graceful pear her wealth of burnished fruit
Stripped is the slender plum; the orchard wears
A look of barren sadness; garnered in
Are all its purple, red, and golden fruits,
And sterile shall it show till blossom time.
Thus Nature, after labor, takes her rest,
Gaining fresh vigor for her teeming time,
By husbanding her strength; and so the fields,
Bronzed in Autumn glowed the ruddy corn,
Lie fallow for a season. 'Tis the time
Of universal pause from that hard toil
That is the lot of all our husbandmen;
Even the flowers are withered.
And the birds
As silent are as is the scene around
Beneath its snowy shroud; no whistle wakes
The echoes of the glade, no melody
Comes from the woodland spray—a death-like calm,
Serene and still, profound and beautiful,
Lies over Nature as she tranquil sleeps.

Chamber's Journal.

MRS. PEASLEE'S NEIGHBOR.

"An old bachelor! It's just too bad," cried Miss Jane Peaslee, excitedly. "I never could abide old bachelors, and here one of 'em's gone and moved in right next door. He's got a great, horrid dog, too. I'll warrant he'll be the plague of our lives."

"Mebbe not, Jane," mildly expostulated her sister, Mrs. Webb. "Old bachelors ain't apt to be meddlesome, gener'ly."

"Him! I mean the dog," snapped Miss Jane. "Of course he'll be running over here, tormenting the cat and digging holes in the flower beds next summer fur a cool place to lie in, or a chasing the hens an' stealing the eggs when they've made nests in the weeds. But I won't put up with it an' I shall tell him so plump the very first chance I git."

"The dog, Jane?"

"The dog! Of course not. I mean the crusty, crabbed old bachelor himself."

"Oh, Jane! You don't think he would steal the eggs and make holes in the flower beds, do you?"

"Fiddlesticks! Ain't you got no sense at all, Melancey? A body might as well talk to a close prop as you! I said the dog would steal the eggs, an' I shouldn't put up with it an' I should tell the old bachelor so, too. Now do you understand? An' so I will! I'll take the broomstick to him, too. See if I don't," she concluded, emphatically.

Miss Jane and her sister owned the little cottage in which they lived, which was about all they did own, and managed to eke out a living by doing plain sewing, dressmaking, or anything of the kind they could get to do.

"There's the gate open and Sam Pickles' old bell-cow a-tramplin' round in the truck patch, of course," and snatching up a sun-bonnet she darted out to put a summary stop to the old bell-cow's depredations among her "garden truck."

Meanwhile the old bachelor next door was taking a survey of the situation.

"Two women folks, and one of them an old maid, I'll bet a pocketknife. The other looks like she might be a widow, from allus dressing in black. Thunder! What did I ever move in here for? Paid six months' rent, too! Confound it all, a man ain't safe anywhere hardly these days. Of course, they'll both be scattling their caps to ketch me, but I won't be caught! I'll keep out of their way as much as possible, and even if I meet one of 'em face to face I'll look another way. I see they keep a parcel of old hens, too If any of 'em come a-scratching about here I'll set the dog on 'em, sure. I ain't to be pestered by old maids or their hens, either. I've hired a man servant a-purpose to keep out of their clutches, an' he's a-going to be took in by the smartest woman that ever lived."

He was by no means the crusty, crabbed old bachelor Miss Jane had declared him to be, but a rather fine-looking man, with pleasant, dark eyes, and only a few threads of silver shinning in his abundant brown hair.

Moreover, his canine follower was not a "great horrid" dog, but a very curly and frolicsome Newfoundland puppy.

"There's that dog a-worryin' the chickens agin," screamed Miss Jane one morning, and, snatching up the broom, she hurriedly gave chase.

Finding himself pursued, the puppy at once released the Leghorn rooster's tail, which he had been playfully shaking to the great disgust of its owner, and with a bark of delight seized the edge of Miss Jane's homespun petticoat which showed beneath the rim of her dress, and shook it energetically.

The outraged Miss Peaslee in the meantime beat right and left with her broom, missing the culprit at each lick, however, until thoroughly exhausted she dropped her weapon on the ground, whereupon Curly immediately seized it and scampered off with all his might.

Over the neat, gravely walk, over the tidy border of blackberry lilies and Iris versi-color, round and round he whirled, dexterously avoiding the avenging foe, until at last he espied Bonaparte, the big gray cat, leisurely taking his morning walk. Whereupon he at once dropped the broom and gave chase to the cat.

Bonaparte fled up a tree in great terror, and Miss Peaslee, seizing the demoralized broom, made a sudden sortie on the dog. Curly, however, discovering this rear attack in the nick of time, scuttled swiftly across the yard and through the fence to his master's domain, where he immediately unearthed a half-gnawed bone from its hiding place and proceeded to solace himself therewith.

"You had a real nice play with him, didn't you?" said Melancey, complacently, looking up as her sister made her appearance.

"Play! The vicious beast chawed the broom to pieces an' tore my skirts half off o' me. If you call that play," sniffed Miss Jane wrathfully.

* * * * *

"Jane! Jane! What on airth is this that dog's ben a shakin' an', walloping' round in the dust?" cried Melancey a few days later.

The dog was growling and shaking some dark object fearfully.

After a desperate struggle the sisters succeeded in rescuing all that remained of—a coat. A man's coat, of fine, heavy, dark cloth, hopelessly mutilated by the teeth and claws of the frolicsome puppy.

"Dear me, it's plum ruined!" cried Melancey. "It must belong to the ole bachelor an' the dog has stole it." And she surveyed it regretfully, holding it up by the tails.

"But—what's that?"

"That" was something that had dropped out of one of the pockets.

Jane seized it quickly. It was a letter.

"Why, Melancey," she cried, breathlessly "it—it's directed to me!"

And Jane opened it and read:

MY DEAR MISS PEASLEE: I never popped the question in my life before, so I don't know the proper way. But if you are willing to be my wife just say so, an' I'll be the happiest man in Honey Locust Holler. CALVIN CUBBERLEIGH.

"Jane, Jane, don't faint!" cried Melancey, alarmed, as her sister grew first pale and then red.

"I ain't goin' to faint," declared Jane, stoutly. "But look, Melancey, this letter is dated five years ago, when we lived over to the hollow. What on airth does it mean?"

"Give it to me," said Melancey, promptly. "I'll soon find out what it means. I'll take the coat home, too, seein' the dog's left it in our hands."

In less than fifteen minutes thereafter the old bachelor, hatless and coatless, ran frantically through the gate, never stopping till he found himself in the presence of Miss Peaslee.

"Jane, Jane," he cried with breathless eagerness, "I've come for my answer. It's five years since I writ that letter, an' thought I'd posted it, when there it was hid in the lining of that coat all the time. But you haven't said yet whether you'd have me or not."

Somehow or other Miss Jane forgot her dislike of men folks in general, and old bachelors in particular, and said she would.

"We ought to be thankful to that dog," said Melancey, with tears in her eyes, when she heard how it was all settled, and, indeed, Master Curly had no reason to complain of his treatment thereafter.—Helen W. Clark, in St. Louis Magazine.

The Fashion in Jokes.

The plumber joke is getting a little out of season, but it may be packed in camphor and will be in style when the freezes come again.

The roller-skate joke is very popular, and is worn on all occasions, either with or without trimming.

The rich editor joke does not appear to pall upon the taste. It is quite becoming when worn with passementerie or edging.

Spring poetry jokes are undergoing a revival and are quite an fait in recherche circles. With a waste basket overskirt they may be worn either morning or evening in the house.

The young-man-and-girl's-pa joke holds its own, and is really one of the most popular and fashionable seen in polite society.

The mule joke is relegated to the commoner classes, and may really be called "old fashioned." It is still in favor in the rural districts, and seems destined to continue so for several years.

The angry-wife-at-3-o'clock-in-the-morning joke is not in such favor as formerly, but still many insist upon making it part of their daily wear.

The liver-pad joke has almost disappeared. Occasionally, however, it may be seen tied in with a knot of ribbon quite prettily.

The honest-political joke is too decollete to be popular. If cut high in the neck it might reign for a brief season.

The sleeping-policeman joke had many friends and bade fair to become courtly in its style, but it lacked tone and fell into line with ordinary styles. Puns are popular with all classes. They may be worn as bangles, and in an infinite variety of ways.

The boarding-house pie, hash, or gum-shoe steak joke enjoys a periodical renaissance and seems to retain its original luster. When made up properly it is still a favorite.

The young-husband-paregoric joke may be worn on evening occasions, and it is not altogether out of style.

The fashions in other lines continue about the same as per last report. Of course, with new demands come new supplies, and though there is nothing entirely new the old things are so aristocratically worked over that they pass quite readily for original designs.—Merchant Traveler.

"Letter carriers here," says a Salt Lake City dispatch to the Alta California, "are having a unique experience. On account of the late polygamy arrests here all the Mormons have been severely warned against talking to strangers, giving their names or residence. The carriers in their rounds knock at doors, and a scurrying ensues inside. A child answers the door. It is asked who lives there, and it often refuses to tell. It does not know the neighbors or where its father or mother is to be found. The uniform is a sign of enemy, and no information is to be had."

Woman's Face.

"What furniture can give such finish to a room, as a tender woman's face," asks George Elliott. Not any, we are happy to answer, provided the glow of health tempers the tender expression. The pale, anxious, bloodless face of the consumptive, or the evident sufferings of the dyspeptic, induce feelings of sorrow and grief on our part and compel us to tell them of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the sovereign remedy for consumption and other diseases of the respiratory system as well as dyspepsia and other digestive troubles. Daniel E. Stanton, a young man who murdered his friend and companion, Frederick P. Nash, near Germantown Junction, Pa., in October, 1884, has given himself up in Philadelphia. The two youths were students at the Collegiate Institute at Mystic, Conn., and the murder is supposed to have been due to Stanton's desire to be a dime-novel hero.

Experience Taught Me.

And my money paid for it. After having Liver Complaint four years, and spending money on nostrums and doctors who didn't help me, I tried Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. I shall always use them.—G. N. Butler, Cohoes, New York.

New Orleans Speaks.

In commenting on several cases in that city where children died from the effects of taking cough syrup containing morphia, the editor of an Omaha paper remarks that opiates, poisons and narcotics are more dangerous than firearms. Mothers should note this and also that different Boards of Health, after careful analyses, have certified that the only purely vegetable preparation of this kind, and one that is harmless, and effective, is Red Star Cough Cure. The Commissioner of Health of Baltimore publicly endorses it.

Eight hundred pounds of nitro-glycerine and 3000 pounds of dynamite exploded at the Somerset Chemical works a mile from Somerset, Pa., May 14th. The works are in the middle of a large wood, and but one man was at work, he being blown to atoms. Nine buildings were scattered in splinters for thousands of feet.

Do you ever have sharp pains in the region of your heart, or any other symptoms of heart disease? if so you can find sure relief in DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR. $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

The will of Jane Holmes, a wealthy Pittsburg, Penn., maiden lady, who died recently at the age of eighty-one years, was filed for probate Thursday. The estate is valued at $1,000,000, and she distributes fully $100,000 among local Protestant charitable and benevolent institutions.

G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon has had its purity verified and excellence certified recently by Dr. H. L. Bowker, State Assayer for Massachusetts. Druggists and grocers sell it.

The board of Methodist Episcopal bishops met in St. Louis, Mo., Thursday. There were present Bishops Bowman, Harris, Foster, Merrill, Andrews, Warren, Foss, Winde, Walden and Mallalieux. Only preliminary business was transacted.

Read what Samuel G. Stiness, Supt. of Pawtucket Gas Co., R. I., under date of Dec. 18, 1884, says:—"I have used Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer for several years and consider it the best as a positive cure for a cold, and possessing all the merit claimed for it."

The War in the Northwest.

Poundmaker's band of Indians are reported to have captured a supply train of thirty-one wagons, with twenty-one of the teamsters, ten teamsters escaping after a desperate fight, in which the whites had several men killed. The train was within thirteen miles of Battleford when attacked.

Riel escaped down the river, as did Dumont, his second in command, after the rout of his forces at Batouche.

The War in the Soudan.

The British brigade of guards at Suakim have been ordered home. There is much dissatisfaction at Cairo over the British abandonment of the Soudan after all of Wolseley's boasting when his abortive campaign commenced.

Russia and England.

London advices of May 14th announced that "The negotiations which have been resumed in London between Russia and England respecting the Afghan frontier are making satisfactory progress." This means that England is yielding to Russia all that Russia demands.

The Adams Will Case.

In the supreme court at Ossipee, May 14th, the famous Adams will case was decided. Judge Blodgett's charge to the jury strongly favored sustaining the will, to which the appellant's counsel excepted. The jury were out only an hour, and rendered a verdict that Adams was sane at the time the will was executed, May 13th, 1879, thereby sustaining the will. The court then adjourned.

The Knights of Honor.

Before the Supreme Lodge of the Knights of Honor, in session at St. Louis, Mo., May 13th, the grand secretary's report was submitted, and shows that there were on January 1st of this year 2500 working lodges in the country, with a total membership of 128,848. Since then twenty-five new lodges have been added, and there has been a net gain of 2290 members, making a present membership of 131,108. During the year 1884 twenty assessments were called, which yielded an aggregate amount of $2,760,561, and the number of deaths was 1409. The supreme treasurer presented a financial statement which shows that since the last annual meeting there has been received $2,509,696, and the disbursements have been $2,264,120, leaving a balance in the Widows and Orphans' benefit fund of $145,756. The general fund report shows receipts, $36,585; expenditures, $14,578; and a balance to the credit of this fund of $22,007.

The Junction railroad, built a few years since at a cost of $75,000, to connect Old Orchard beach with the Eastern railroad, will soon be among the things of the past. It has remained idle for the last two years, and now that the Eastern and Boston & Maine roads are under one management there will be no further use for it. It was a well built and thoroughly equipped road, having at its termini two handsomely-constructed station houses, but it never succeeded in drawing sufficient travel to make it a financial success. Mr. G. F. Fairchild of Boston, its owner, has disposed of the track-iron of the entire road to the Buckfield & Rumford Falls railroad company, who propose to use it on their line. The work of taking up and transporting the rails will commence at once.

Mr. Stephen W. Clarke, formerly of this city, has been elected president of the City Missionary society of Manchester.

J. H. Barron, president, and E. G. Leach, vice president of the New Hampshire Cattle company, have returned from Wyoming territory, where they closed a trade for the purchase of R. S. Van Tassell's "Running Water Ranch" and his herd of Hereford and short-horn cattle, numbering about 6000 head, for the New Hampshire Cattle company. This is the first case on record in which a large herd has been sold upon a ranch and actually counted out. It marks the commencement of the use of methods new in the cattle business. This purchase will give the New Hampshire Cattle company, with what they now have, 11,000 head of cattle and 30,000 acres of land under fence.

WASHINGTON FREEMAN.

Dated May 13th, 1885.

Under the heading "A good man knocked out" the Biddeford Journal remarks: "President Cleveland is making a good many misfit appointments of late. It is chargeable mainly, no doubt, to his almost total ignorance of public men. Col. W. A. Cromwell, of South Berwick, late chairman of the democratic state committee, but still agent for the Lake Shore line, was a candidate for fourth auditor of the treasury. His democracy and qualifications for the place were undoubted. Having served in the auditor's office as clerk, he was well acquainted with the duties of the place. His appointment would have been a credit to the service and to the administration. Instead of taking a clean man like Col. Cromwell, the president went down to Alabama, in the solid south, and took Ex-Congressman Shelley, a man who is fit to herd with Pillsbury, Chase, Higgins and the rest. By false votes and false counts he got himself returned to Congress six times, from a district which invariably gave a republican majority. The house declared twice that he had no right to a seat, once when his own party was in power. Now he comes to the front as one of the very elect, while a good man is sent to the rear. Col. Cromwell, and democrats of his stamp, may well begin to question whether, after all, it pays to be good."

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, May 15th.

Wm. Flanders, drunk, (continued from Thursday,) was allowed to go on his promise to get out of the city without standing on the order of his going.

John Barry, for drunkenness, was ordered to pay a fine of $3, and $6.90 costs, failing to do which he will reside for a time at Brentwood.

A SCOUNDREL SENTENCED.

The case of State vs. William A. Gilpatrick, for gross and habitual cruelty to Sidney A. Tanner, the poor little eight-years-old orphan boy whose death was undoubtedly caused by the savage brutality of the heartless ruffian, came to an unexpected close at Exeter on Friday. Being brought into court, he pleaded nolo contendere to the indictment, and was sentenced to two years in the state prison. Judge Smith remarked that he reluctantly imposed so light a sentence, and that if the jury had agreed upon a verdict, he should have imposed the full sentence allowed by the law.

Another manifesto from Messrs. Hatch and Page is now in order.

THE CHERRY-BLOSSOMS.

The season is not so very backward, if we may judge by the cherry trees, some of which were in blossom on Friday, the 15th inst. The following is the record of the first appearance of cherry blossoms in this city for the past six years, as taken from the files of this paper: In 1879, May 13th; in 1880, May 11th; in 1881, May 10th; in 1882, May 25th; in 1883, May 18th; in 1884, May 16th.

ACCIDENTS.

Thursday afternoon as a team belonging to Henry Bean of Newington, driven by Fred Dame, was starting away from the blacksmith shop of Leach & Lydston on Fleet street, one of the harness straps broke. The driver stepped forward on the shafts to fasten it, and by so doing frightened the horse. The young man was thrown forward, and falling on his face on the ground, two wheels passed over him, severely injuring his back and one shoulder. He was taken home in a hack, when it was learned that no bones were broken, but that he had received some very severe bruises. His physician says that although he is very badly injured he will pull through all right.

On Friday forenoon Mr. Samuel Foye, in the employ of Mr. Moses Yeaton in repairing the buildings on E. F. Sise & Co.'s coal wharf, had a fall through the giving way of a staging, striking upon one shoulder, breaking one of the small bones and dislocating the shoulder. He was attended by Dr. Potter.

A MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

It will be remembered that Capt. Geo. M. Colvocoresses, a retired officer of the navy, was murdered in the street in Bridgeport, Ct., in 1872, which at the time created a great sensation. The captain's life was insured for $250,000, and a litigation ensued as to the cause of his death, which resulted in a compromise of fifty cents on the dollar, one company only paying its policies in full. The mystery attending his death has just been solved by the deathbed confession of Baldwin Jansen, a Danish sailor, who died off Honolulu in January last. He confessed to the master of the vessel on which he was a seaman that he shot Captain Colvocoresses, and then made his escape, with a ring and a large number of valuable bonds, on a schooner. He threw the bonds overboard, but kept the ring. Captain Donaldson, to whom Jansen confessed, has arrived in Bridgeport with the ring, looking after the captain's heirs. Capt. Colvo, as he was called for short, will be remembered by many of our readers as having been stationed at the Portsmouth navy yard from 1858 to 1860, while a lieutenant, and was a much esteemed officer while serving on this station. He made an excellent record while in the navy, and served gallantly throughout the war for the union, being retired in 1867. He was a Greek by birth, and was brought to this country when a boy by a naval officer of high rank.

WIDOW'S ISLAND QUARANTINE STATION.

We copy the following from the Courier-Gazette of Rockland, Me., of date the 12th inst.:

One year ago the surgeon general called the attention of Secretary Chandler to the fact that the United States had no suitable quarantine station, and if the yellow fever, smallpox or other contagious disease or epidemic should break out there would be no adequate place to care for the victims. The quarantine station of Portsmouth was antiquated and played out, and fit in no wise for a quarantine. Secretary Chandler recognizing the need of such a station, advised the establishing of one. The lighthouse board offered Widow island, and it was accepted. On the appointment of Secretary Whitney the matter dropped until the dispatch of troops to Panama, and the consequent danger from yellow fever again brought the subject to the fore, and the surgeon general wrote to the new secretary about it. He was told to go ahead.

Dr. A. C. Heffenger of the navy, who was stationed at Portsmouth, made the plans for the hospital, which were approved by the surgeon general, and Dr. Heffenger was ordered to proceed to this place, look over the ground, get proposals for the needed buildings, etc. This he did, and W. H. Glover & Co. secured the contract. There will be one main ward 94x25 feet, one story, and able to accommodate twenty patients. Rooms will be partitioned off for administrative purposes. Two booth-frames will be erected, which can be covered with canvas and used in case of an overflow of patients. These booths will accommodate eight each. No wharf will be built at present. There is no water on the island, and M. J. Achorn is boring an artesian well there.

The station will be under the charge of Dr. Heffenger until further orders. Steamer Rocket of 127 tons, Lieut. Tyler in command, has been placed at the doctor's disposal, and arrived here Saturday. Widow's island will be the only quarantine station on the Atlantic coast, and will be exclusively for the ships of the United States navy.

The plan of conducting the station in case of necessity will be simple. A watchman only will be stationed at the island to guard the property. If, for example, the crew of one of the sloops stationed at the isthmus of Panama should be attacked with yellow fever, Dr. Heffenger would be notified, and would see that the station was in proper trim. The ship would sail immediately for the island. On arriving, the vessel's doctors with their patients would occupy the station, the ship itself being anchored on the south-west side, where there is a good harbor, deep enough to float any of the ships of the navy.

Arrangements will be made with some resident of North Haven to supply the station with food. A boat will be anchored off the island, and the boat from the station will leave all orders in the anchored boat. The man from the island on his daily trip will get the order, and leave in the boat the supplies ordered the day before, which men from the station will afterwards secure.

There is not the slightest possibility of contagion, and the people in the vicinity have no cause for alarm. At Portsmouth, rusticators have built their cottages right down to the quarantine line, and have no fear of contagious diseases, although two yellow fever vessels were anchored there last year. Yellow fever cannot exist in a temperature below seventy degrees, and as the ships come north the fever dies out—but for all that, we think it is a misfortune to the citizens of this section to have the station located here, and we very much fear that it will have the effect of giving a setback to the summer visitors that we are always so glad to welcome on our coast.

The residents hereabouts never made any objection to the Wood island quarantine station, or seemed to care anything about it, so far as we know; but there is no doubt that its presence was a drawback to the summer hotels, as the mere name was enough to frighten many people from inland districts, and not a few disliked even to go by it in a steamer on the way to the Shoals.

The Sanford, Me., cricket club will play a game with the Portsmouth club on the grounds of the latter near Frenchman's lane to-day. The game will commence about noon.

It was reported on the street, Friday evening, that Mr. Alonzo K. W. Green had been appointed foreman caulker on the navy yard, and Mr. Arthur F. Cox, of Christian Shore, mail agent on the route between Portsmouth and Concord. The waters are moving, boys; don't be too impatient.

By request, Rev. C. R. Crossett, pastor of the Advent church will preach on Sunday at 2:45 o'clock upon "The Tarrying Time," showing the mistake of William Miller, and the present attitude of the church relative to the Second Advent of Christ.

The stone wall around the Proprietors' burial ground is being re-pointed and cemented,—a much needed repair.

Messrs. Meloon & Co. are engaged in repainting the North church.

The former steam yacht Venture which was hauled out and housed over at the Raynes shipyard last winter, has had her upperworks repaired and improved to a considerable extent since being put in the water a few weeks ago. Mr. Alfred R. Goodwin had her out on the river, Friday afternoon, trying her engine and making sure that she was all right, preparatory to taking her around to Boston the first of next week. She is no longer the "Venture," her name having been recently changed.

John Lear, formerly of this city, has been held in $200 at Dover to answer at the September term of the Supreme court for Strafford county for keeping liquor for sale. For lack of sureties he went to jail.

Mr. John Teague, a carpenter living on Cornwall street, was found dead in bed on Friday morning. He was about seventy years old.

The ship-news columns of the New York papers on the 13th inst. contained the following item of marine intelligence: "Passed through Hell Gate 12th, bound east, ship St. Mary's, (United States nautical school,) Henry Erben commander." This will probably surprise Capt. Erben, who has been supposing himself captain of the Portsmouth navy yard for some months past.

The crew of the Omaha were on Friday exercised at unbending and bending sails. From this side of the river the men looked like a swarm of flies crawling about on the rigging and yards. It was reported on that day that her official inspection would take place on Tuesday, the 19th inst.

The Mutual Life Insurance company of New York has just paid Mrs. N. B. Perkins of Salem, Mass., $11,715 on a policy of $5000 issued in July, 1855.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed mid-life are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put its evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to the frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend and blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have been a great sufferer for years from complaints incident to married life. I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I can assure you that the benefits I have derived from it came not because of any faith I had in it, for I had but slight hope of any permanent good. I am not a seeker after notoriety, but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

Dr. Edwin Bartlet, Milwaukie, says: "I have found Scott's Emulsion to be one of the best preparations in use, especially in children's diseases, on account of the elegance of the preparation, and its agreeable taste. It is very desirable in wasting diseases."

A terrible disease prevails all through the Seward valley, New York state. It first attacked Samuel McRoberts, who died, and since then funerals occur daily about there. The throat first swells, the tongue is then paralyzed, the patient cannot eat, and subsequently he becomes double-sighted. No one has recovered from the disease, which is very contagious.

Giving in Marriage.

Come, let us sit together for a space,
In this still room, remote from friendly mirth,
Afar from light and music, face to face,
Each unto each the dearest thing on earth.
Love, they have left us, our two bonny brides,
Our tall, grave girl, our winsome, laughing pet;
Ah me! How wide the chasm that divides
Our life from theirs; how far their feet are set
From the calm path they trod with us so long.
How we shall miss them, we who loved them so,
On winter nights, when winds are blowing strong,
On summer mornings when the roses blow.
But—happy but—we still clasp hand in hand,
Eye still meets eye and true hearts understand.
Love, they have left us empty of the mirth
That cheered our homestead while they sojourned here;
Yea, they have left us lonely on the earth,
Lone, but together, solitude most dear;
Ah, God, go with them to the stranger nests,
That love's own hand built for them and theirs to come.
God keep all warm and living in their breasts
Love's holy flame, the altar-fire of home.
Dear, they have left us; we no longer hold
The first, best place, however leal each heart.
Yet have we treasures left, refined gold,
Love's sterling ore, without its baser part,
The wide cold house has lost its nestling birds,
But we are left, Ah, love, what need of words?

—All the Year Round.

A CURIOUS STORY.

The writer was sitting a few days ago in the office of the Hotel Martin, Lancaster, Ohio, conversing with an old resident of that city on various topics relating to the past history of the place, when he inquired:

"Did you ever hear the story of Jacob Humbarger, the haunted coffin-maker?"

"Never. Is it out of the ordinary?"

"Yes. It is a curious story, and I hesitate about telling it for fear people will think I am trying to humbug them with a ghost story."

"I'll accept it as the gospel."

"As I have already remarked, it is a strange story and had the effect of making me believe in supernatural manifestations—you will, no doubt, call it superstition. I was a well-grown boy when the thing occurred which I am about to relate, and they made such a vivid impression on my mind that they are as fresh in my recollection as they were over a half century ago.

"Jacob Humbarger was of Pennsylvania Dutch stock and came here from Lancaster, Pennsylvania, three-quarters of a century ago. When I first knew him this city was a village with less than a thousand population. He was a cabinet-maker, and made the rough and substantial furniture in vogue among the pioneers whose sons have since been congressmen, governors, senators, cabinet ministers and generals.

"He was frugal and industrious, and left some property behind him. In addition to making furniture he made, when occasion demanded it, coffins for the people of all this region. There were no hearses and splendid undertaking establishments in those days. The dead were placed in plain home-made coffins and carried to the little graveyards in farm wagons, or by hand when the distance was not too great, except in rare instances, when there was a little more show and ostentation, and an old-fashioned carriage was used in place of the modern hearse.

"People would come from a distance to Humbarger's shop with the dimensions of a coffin, and wait until it was finished, and then take it home in a wagon or on horseback, as the case might be.

"One night, or rather one morning, an hour or two before daylight, Humbarger, arose, and leaving his wife in bed, proceeded to his shop, and lighting a tallow candle set to work. When Mrs. Humbarger awoke at the usual hour she was surprised to hear Jacob hammering away in his shop, and supposing that he had some job that must be finished early in the day, set about preparing breakfast and when the meal was ready she called her husband.

"'Vall, Chacob, vy for you go to vork so gwick the day?" inquired Frau Humbarger.

"'Vy, Katharine, did you not hear dot man who comes of der coffin by three o'clock?'

"'Nein, nein, Chacob, you make foolish of me.'

"'I not make foolish, Katharine; dot man come of three o'clock on der door an' say I must has dot coffin of ten o'clock, and he grif me the measure on dot vork bench, und I go of vork und haf him now half mate.'

"Katharine was incredulous and Jacob was firm in his asseverations. Certain it was that he had the coffin well under way and by ten o'clock it was finished, and Jacob was waiting for his customer while he smoked a pipe.

"Between ten and eleven o'clock a gentleman appeared at the shop door, and Humbarger greeted him with:

"'You vas a leetle lade, my frent.'

"'Not very late, considering that I have ridden from near Somerset since half-past seven.'

"'Vy for did you go back home after you vake me up?'

"'I didn't. I have just got to town.'

"'But you come of mine door last nide und called me oud of mine bed to make dis coffin.'

"'Oh, no, my friend, but it looks as though it would suit my purpose. Let me measure it.'

"The stranger measured it, and it was just the size of a coffin he had been sent to procure, and he asked Humbarger if he could have it to take back immediately.

"'Dot was your coffin anyway, since you order him und leaf der measure,' promptly responded Mr. Humbarger.

"'The price of the coffin was agreed upon, it was paid for, and the farmer took it away in his wagon. Jacob related the circumstance to his wife, who "knowed

"'I told you, Chacob dot no one voke you up of der nide. You have been haunted.'

"Humbarger, however insisted that he had been called out of his house during the night and that he had readily recognized the man who subsequently got the coffin and pretended that he had not ordered it.

"Of course, the story soon circulated throughout the village, and the gossips added to it. A month later Humbarger had another nocturnal visit, and a child's coffin was ordered, to be finished in the afternoon. Later in the day a farmer, living a few miles west of the town called on Humbarger to secure his services, one of his children having died.

"'Oh, yes; I know dot. You come of der nide und told me, and mark de size on dis vork-bench.'

"The farmer protested otherwise, but as the coffin was of the exact measurement desired, he took it home. Then Mr. Humbarger began to have an indefinable fear that he was haunted.

"The thing was of regular recurrence, and almost every one who came to Humbarger for a coffin found it all ready, made to order. The villagers began to fear the coffin maker and the coffin maker avoided the villagers as much as possible. The women and children, and not a few of the men, believed he was in league with Satan, and he suffered a great deal in his trade.

"To those of his neighbors, with whom he conversed on this subject—and among them was my father—he said that the orders were delivered in the night by persons whom he immediately recognized when they called for coffins, and then where they were ordered he found the exact dimensions in chalk marks on his work bench the next morning. His wife no longer chaffed him on the subject of his ghostly orders.

"One morning he said to his wife that a coffin had been ordered during the night, but that the man had concealed his face, and he feared that he would not recognize him. He proceeded, however, to make the coffin in accordance with the measurement on his work-bench and at last finished it to his satisfaction.

"I was on pleasant terms with Uncle Jake, as we called him, and happened in the shop just as he was finishing it.

"'Dot man vas somepody who will be buried mit dis coffin,' he remarked. 'I not see who he has dat order him, but I know it vas for some big man or somepody, so I make him of der finest wild cherry and line him of silk und satin. Vy, my poy, I would not be ashamed to be buried of that coffin mieself.'

"A sudden pallor overspread Humbarger's face, he stretched out his hands and fell dead across the coffin he had just finished.

"He was buried in it, and the story of Jacob Humbarger was more than a nine-day's wonder here in Lancaster fifty-four years ago."

The writer was fain to acknowledge that the story of Jacob Humbarger largely discounted the general run of ghost stories.—Philadelphia News

Detective O'Day of Worcester, Mass., has under arrest at Hudson, N. Y., Adam W. Smith of Stamford, N. Y., charged with personating the owner of a farm in Westborough, Mass., and obtaining $1500 on a mortgage of the same from William H. Dexter, treasurer of Worcester academy, in 1883.

William R. Marshall, a farmer of Brighton, Mass., was murderously assaulted in his barn early Friday morning, the 15th inst., and left for dead, by some unknown person. Joseph P. Barnabee and a young man named Fielding, each of whom had made threats against Marshall, were arrested on Friday, but neither was held. Up to Friday at midnight Mr. Marshall had not regained his senses, though he was still alive.

Mr. A. Nichols, of this place, says he suffered from catarrh for years. He purchased a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm of us. He is now almost cured, and says he cannot recommend it too highly. We are selling more of Ely's Cream Balm than of all other catarrh remedies, can hardly keep a supply on hand.—Evers Bros., Druggists, Independence, Iowa.

Mr. Horace Wilson of Concord met with a serious loss recently. It appears that sometime during the night the barn floor fell to the cellar, and left five of his cows suspended to the stanchions where they were tied. Four of the cows were dead when discovered, and the fifth injured so that she will be worthless. The loss to Mr. Wilson is about $200.

The naval statue in bronze of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, executed in Florence, Italy, by William G. Turner, and which is to be unveiled on Sept. 10th, the anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie, which was fought in 1813, has arrived at Newport, R. I. The unveiling of the statue will be made the occasion of a grand naval display.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

Joseph H. Barnabee, his son Herbert, aged sixteen years, and an employe named George McDougal, aged eighteen, have been arrested for the murderous assault on Wm. R. Marshall in the latter's barn at Brighton, Mass. Mr. Marshall on Friday night regained sufficient consciousness to tell who his assailants were.

"100 Doses One Dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

Emerson Carpenter, aged twenty-three years, hung himself at Waterville, Me., May 15th, while despondent from ill health.

A fin-back whale seventy-four feet long drifted ashore at Sandwich, Mass., last week.

Variety the Spice of Life.

There is variety in the letters received by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, testifying to the cures effected by her Vegetable Compound and the great relief afforded to thousands of women in all sections. Mrs. C—— of Toronto, says: "I have taken three bottles with very gratifying results." Mrs. Stephen B—— of Sheffington, Quebec, says: "I am now using the fourth bottle and have derived great benefit already." Sarah C—— of Eugene City, Oregon, says: "It is the best medicine for the female sex I have ever found." Mrs. C—— of Santa Fe, says: "Your compound has done me a great deal of good." Mrs. H. S. D—— of Portland, Me., says: "It has done for me all it claimed to and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering as I have done." Mrs. D. H. E—— of Lexington, Va., says: "I have taken one bottle and I assure you I feel a great deal better, I feel strong as ever, and I've never felt a pain in my back since the second dose."

In affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we may consider it our most reliable agent. In a perfectly elegant and agreeable form."

Brought Home in a Wagon.

Louisville, Ky.—Mr. J. Helmus, vice president of the city brewery, was brought home in a wagon, carried upstairs by two of his men and laid on the bed. He was suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism contracted in the ice vaults of the brewery. He refused to have a doctor, but dispatched a servant for a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, with the result that in one week he was entirely cured and able to return to his desk.

Forty state convicts employed on a farm in Brazos county, Texas, were liberated by a mob of armed men who attacked and overpowered the guards on May 14th. The outrage is due to the public objection to the employment of convict labor outside the penitentiary.

Wilbert N. Auspland was arrested at Rockland, Me., Friday forenoon, charged with the murder of the infant found buried in the woods on the previous Wednesday. The body was found in a box marked "C. A General Manager Wanted.

In regard to the collector at Wiscasset the president is delighted to know that there is one appointment in Maine which gives satisfaction. The democracy of Maine seem to lack what their brethren in New Hampshire enjoy, a controlling directory which can select the best man for a place and shut off all other applicants. The New York Tribune calls this a "boss system," and says it defeated the republicans. This to some extent may be true, but the democracy always follow their leaders, while in the republican ranks less implicit obedience to orders from superiors in command is seen. In the democratic party there has always been an aristocracy of political power, which filled the offices and shaped the policy of the party. To-day it is the aristocracy of wealth, which subscribes to the campaign fund and runs the party. There has, in some states, been seen a little friction as this change has been brought about, and an occasional revolt has been attempted, but the party have great respect for the source that supplies the sinews of war, and to this element the power is promptly passed over and as readily accepted and used. Things change in political affairs, and this is the latest phase of the democratic idea. Had there been in Maine a suitable Boss,—and we use the word with no offensive intent,—there would have been no occasion for Mr. Cleveland informing the Maine gentlemen last week that in regard to the offices in Maine "he would allow no dictation."

A suitable General Manager of the Maine democracy would have saved the president much annoyance as to the postmastership of Augusta, which seems to give a deal of trouble when there are claims upon executive attention for more weighty affairs.

As Bad As Gilpatrick.

Mrs. Isaac Hendricks, described as a fine looking woman and a member of the salvation army, is in jail at New Brunswick, N. J., for the most fiendish cruelty to a little orphan girl aged eight years, whom she "adopted" from a charitable institution. The child, though horribly injured, will live, and the woman will get a long term of imprisonment. She "only punished the girl to make a good woman of her."

The War in the Northwest.

Father Moulin, the parish priest of Batouche, says the rebels had fifty-one killed and 173 wounded in the recent fighting at that place. This shows that the rebels suffered far more than the storming party.

A despatch of the 14th from Clark's crossing says the half-breeds in large numbers are surrendering to Gen. Middleton. Charles Nolin is said to be the instigator of the half-breeds, and one Monkton the agitator of the Indians. The bodies of forty rebels, fifteen of them being Indians, have been found at Batouche.

Advices received at Winnepeg on the 16th announced the capture of Riel by Gen. Middleton, and that his followers had scattered in all directions. The rebellion is considered over.

Worse Than Gilpatrick.

Mrs. M. P. Hunting, a baby-farmer of Chicago, on the 15th inst. stopped a police officer on the street, and gave him a dying infant which she said had been left on her doorstep. An officer was sent to her house, and seven other infants, in two beds, each with an empty nursing-bottle by its side and all in a dying condition from starvation, were found there. The register of the place showed that the woman had received forty-seven babies to care for since last July, besides twelve that she had at different times given to the police, claiming that they had been left on her doorstep, every one of the twelve having been nearly dead when handed to the officers.

The inventory of the estate left by the late Wendell Phillips shows a beggarly account of empty boxes. The personal estate of about four thousand dollars consists for the most part of the wildest of wild-cat securities, showing that this man, who essayed to teach among other things the principles of finance, was a veritable tyro in money matters. Mr. Phillips inherited considerable estate, and at times received large sums for his lecture engagements, but he seems to have been utterly careless and credulous in the matter of investments. His real estate is inventoried at about $4000.

The condition of the new despatch boat Dolphin seems to be just what was predicted by the opponents of the contract system. The Chronicle while Mr. Chandler was in the office of secretary of the navy warned him that the contractors were sharp, and might deceive him. Mr. Chandler seems to have had confidence in his quondam client, Roach, and to have presumed that it would be all right if he paid him large sums on account of his contract. The result shows that the wily contractor carried too many guns for the ingenuous Chandler, who does not seem to have profited by a residence in Washington, as to having his eyes opened to the wicked ways of those who seek to enrich themselves at the expense of their Uncle.

The Providence Journal says: "The Mormons may sing rebel hymns and compare the people of the United States, in a general way, to the Philistines, but the days of secret murder and of Mountain Meadow massacre are gone by. They must yield to the law, or they will be compelled to. So much is certain, and the more intelligent of them are apparently by this time convinced of it. As for the armed resistance to officers of the government in a backwoods settlement of Idaho, it was probably nothing more than a sporadic incident, and not a part of any general and organized movement."

Curious things happen in the treasury department. One of the reasons assigned for the desire to have Bruce, as register of the treasury, resign, was that he was not an accountant. As a matter of fact the sole duty of the register of the treasury consists in writing his name. He does not need to be a bookkeeper. On the other hand General Shelley, the new fourth auditor of the treasury, is a carpenter by trade, and has informed his subordinates that he knows very little of accounts, and will be obliged to rely almost wholly upon them. The duties of the fourth auditor are solely those of an accountant.

At Long Island City, L. I., May 15th, the colored ruffian Charles H. Rugg was hanged for the murder of Mrs. Lydia Maybee and her daughter Mary at Oyster Bay, L. I., nearly two years ago. He died without a struggle.

Sylvester Hale, of Lowell, Mass., aged twenty-eight years, married and having several children, was fatally shot Saturday by a farmer named Wm. Duncan, whose hen-roost he was trying to rob.

Benjamin F. Evans, of Providence, R. I., publisher of the Citizen, has been held in $1000 to answer a complaint of criminal libel on William A. Carroll.

We understand from good authority that although there are over 100 men employed at the Portsmouth Machine shop, work is booming right along, and with that large force there are enough contracts taken to last the company until next winter. Mr. Carman has been down east for several days estimating on several large contracts for heating apparatus, in the vicinity of Auburn, Me. Considerable new and improved machinery is about to be put in to facilitate and enlarge the capacity of the shop. We are glad to see this enterprise flourish. May its prosperity never grow less.—Times.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

100 Doses One Dollar

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, May 16th.

Patrick Cassidy, an old customer of the court, and recently discharged from Brentwood, was in once more, for the old offence, drunkenness. He must have been drunker than common, this time, for he was fined $10, with $6.90 costs, which he will work out at the county farm.

CRICKET.

A game of cricket was played at the grounds of the Portsmouth club on Saturday, between the Portsmouths and the Sanford club of Sanford, Me., and was won by the visitors in one inning. The grounds were in very bad condition from the recent heavy rain. The game was commenced at one o'clock, the Portsmouths going to wicket, and closed shortly after four. The score was as follows:

THE FREEMAN'S POINT BRIDGE.

Mr. Editor: The tide at ebb and flood sets strongly through the Noble's island bridge piers, and rapidly dissipates and carries off the offensive waters from the north millpond. If, however, as rumor has it, the Dover railroad bridge between Noble's island and Freeman's point is to be filled in with gravel, there will be another filling up with filthy mud in the little bay to the westward of the Noble's island bridge, as of course the tide will nearly cease running there, and there will be need of a still bigger drain down to the Concord railroad wharf from the head of the pond to carry away the refuse of the breweries, which would require a large percentage of the whole valuation of our small but beautiful city. The water of the basin inside the Noble's island bridge has hitherto frozen over only about once in thirty years, and then only for a few hours at a time; but should the Dover bridge be filled in, the boys would have a fine skating rink there in winter, as of course the rapid current would nearly cease to flow, at least nine-tenths of the water which runs in through the Noble's island bridge now running around the island and out again through the Dover bridge, the millpond absorbing but a small part of it. Filling in the Dover bridge would make the tide run so much stronger through Portsmouth bridge; but the final grand result would not be seen for several years, when the north pond nuisance would be "abated" by the creation of so much worse a one in the Noble's island basin and in Cutts' cove, west of the Dover bridge, that the old one would be forgotten. J. C.

MARITIME NOTES.

During the blow on Thursday night of last week the schooner Clement, of Machias, Me., lumber laden and bound for Boston, ran into Little Harbor and rode the gale out there in comfort and safety, while larger crafts were forced to remain outside. She is a little vessel, registering only forty-five tons, and if she had touched the rocks would probably have tumbled to pieces at once, as she was built fifty-eight years ago.

The schooner Mary Willey, Williams master, arrived on Saturday from Bangor with lumber to John H. Broughton, —her first trip this season.

The schooner John Lenthall, Sawyer master, from Hoboken for Exeter with coal, was towed up the river on Saturday by the tug Ann.

The brick schooners Triton and Estella sailed for Boston on Saturday, and the G. W. Raitt on Sunday. The Hattie Lewis arrived from Boston on Sunday, light, and proceeded up river to load.

The Concord railroad and Noble's island wharves were entirely bare of vessels on Saturday.

SUNDAY ROWS.

On Sunday afternoon about four o'clock three men pretty well filled with fighting rum (which they must have procured in some other city, as there are no open bars allowed in Portsmouth on the Sabbath,) were making considerable disturbance near the foot of Daniel street, when a respectable resident of the locality came out of his house to induce them to go away, and was assailed by the trio, one of whom was armed with an iron bar. For a brief space there was a lively time, the new comer wrenching the iron bar from the man who had it and giving him a crack on the head which "knocked him out" and started the blood to flowing freely. The neighbors quickly mustered and stopped the circus, and after peace was restored and the wounded removed a solitary policeman appeared on the field of battle, but of course there was nothing for him to do. To the casual observer it would appear that the lower end of Daniel street is quite as much in need of regular police supervision as Congress street.

About an hour later two other men, not engaged in the first row, had a warm argument about the respective fighting qualities of the combatants, and ended by starting another fight, which was however soon stopped by the neighbors.

On Saturday there were more teams and visitors in town than on any day for months before, though there was a raw east wind blowing. On Sunday the wind was southerly and the weather very pleasant, and many pedestrians took advantage of the fine day to stroll outside the city; they reported the roads to be mostly in good condition, but the underbrush and leaves in the woods rather too damp for comfortable tramping. The cherry and pear trees were beginning to make a good show of blossoms.

Hon. Frank Jones has given three hundred dollars toward the liquidation of the debt on the Freewill Baptist church in Pearl street. The efforts of Rev. J. D. Waldron to wipe out this debt have been appreciated recently by Hon. Marcellus Eldredge, Edward S. Fay, Fisher Eldredge, and James W. Goodwin of the Kearsarge house, each of whom has generously contributed to this worthy object. The prospect of paying the remainder is quite encouraging.

One of our leading physicians was called upon recently by a young gentleman who was troubled with what he feared was a hopeless case of heart disease, but who was greatly relieved by the doctor's discovery that the ominous creaking sound which the patient had heard at every inspiration of his breath was occasioned by a little pulley on his patent suspenders! Such patients always appreciate the knowledge of their cases displayed by medical mem who broaden their ideas by constant study and a careful examination of the diagnoses of the many causes attributed to imperfect action of the heart.

The president told the committee of the city government of Boston that he could not come to the hub next month, but some other time he hoped he should be able to visit Boston. Perhaps when he comes to the "Wentworth" this summer Mr. Cleveland will conclude to stop over a train, and lunch with William Everett at some good house in the Back Bay region.

Commander William C. Wise and Lieut. Francis H. Delano have been detached from the Portsmouth navy yard, and ordered to the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., for instruction in torpedo duty.

Mr. James McSweeney, proprietor of the Union house on Russell street, died on Saturday last after a long illness.

Mr. Horace Mitchell, Jr., of Kittery Point, and wife, started on Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the National Convention of the Order of the Golden Cross.

Mr. Alonzo K. W. Green denies that he had up to Saturday received any official notification of his appointment as boss caulker at the navy yard, though he understood that he was so appointed two weeks ago, and is of the opinion that it ought to be thusly. Notwithstanding the very pronounced democracy of the jovial Alonzo, the republicans very generally hope the rumor of his appointment is well founded.

It was reported on Saturday that the dead body of a man, entirely nude excepting for boots, had been picked up at Wallis' sands, Rye beach. No other particulars were given.

Morse & Ilsley, real estate agents, on Friday sold to Mr. George Scott the house No. 9 Chapel street, for $1400.

Where is the salvation army? The small boys are getting anxious, for fear it has got lost. There was one small "skirmish" in this city, which seems to have ended the war. It is worse than the Afghan campaign.

A fine picture of the schooner Grace K. Green, painted by Stubbs of Boston, and belonging to Ex-Alderman Green of this city, is on exhibition in Mercer Goodrich's window, corner of Daniel and Market streets.

The Cocheco Manufacturing Co., at Dover, pays a dividend of three per cent June 1st.

A despatch of the 14th inst. from Portland, Me., says "the schooner Wide Awake, from Fairhaven for Portland with a cargo of rails, ashore on Wells beach, is full of water. The cargo, which is insured, has been abandoned to the underwriters. The vessel may be saved."

Lieut. William I. Moore has been ordered to the Hartford, Pacific station.

The U. S. S. Hartford arrived at Honolulu on April 30th, and is expected to arrive at San Francisco on the 25th inst. There will be a general change in her officers and crew before she leaves San Francisco.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed the middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We place in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first noticeable slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until July, 1883. One day then at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave a prescription. It did no good. Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was assaulted taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

Some serious marine disaster has occurred near Cape Pine, Newfoundland. On the 14th inst. the Allan steamship Nova Scotian passed through a vast quantity of debris from a very recent wreck. Several portions of the hull of a large wooden vessel were floating about, besides numerous pieces of deck houses, cabin doors, masts, booms, gaffs and fragments of bulwarks, stanchions and rails.

SICK HEADACHE.—Thousands who have suffered intensely with headache say that Hood's Sarsaparilla has completely cured them. One gentleman thus relieved, writes: "Hood's Sarsaparilla is worth its weight in gold." Reader, if you are a sufferer with sick headache, give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. It will do you positive good. Made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all druggists. 100 Doses One Dollar.

HORSE FLESH FOR FOOD.

The Horse Slaughter-Houses of Paris—Eight Thousand Horses a Year Slaughtered for Human Food.

About a mile outside the fortifications in the little old suburban village of Pantin is located the abattoir, where the horses that are eaten in Paris are slaughtered, and, judging from the fourscore of horses on hand, one would think that everything in and about the city in the horse line that did not die suddenly while in harness was sent there to be killed for food. Eating horse beef is about the only thing that the better class of French do not care to talk about, and about the only thing among their many customs and peculiar institutions that they appear to be a little ashamed of; as they never speak of the "Abattoir des chevaux de l'alimentation," the sign that is printed in large letters on the side of the red-tile-roofed slaughter house of Pantin. From the answers received to many inquiries as to where this establishment was located it appears that but few Parisians know anything about it, and, like all other disagreeable things, they probably think the less said about it the better. One thing is certain, that if many French people who occasionally eat the fillet of horses and declare it to be delicious were to visit the abattoir they would never eat any more.

With now and then an exception, the horses killed are all about alike, all "crips," blind, maimed, battered, bruised, and scarred with a lifetime of hard service, hoofs worn out, joints weakened, swollen and out of shape pulling heavy loads over slippery streets on smooth shoes—faithful brutes, worked until they could no longer earn their daily rations, and then sent here—if sick at the time—to remain in the care of men who are bigger brutes than the creatures confided to their care—a horse hospital, asylum for the blind and aged, and fattening establishment at the same time, and then to furnish food for the Lord only knows who, and the less one thinks about it the better. The foreman told me they pay 30 francs apiece for such as the poorest in the stable or that stood in the courtyard on they outside—a proof of the brutes that I followed from the end of the tramway as the led him between two others to keep him from falling, as he reeled and staggered at every step. I asked the foreman what they were going to do with him. Oh! he will be made up into "Lorraine sausage." The price paid for what I judged to be an average one was 60 francs, and for the best 100 francs. An acquaintance said he bought a saddle horse for which he paid $300, but he became unmanageable, would buck, kick, bite, and strike a la cayuse, so he sold him to the Pantin abattoir for 30 francs.

They slaughtered on an average about twenty-two per day, or 8,000 a year.

The first we saw killed was the only decent one of the lot—a large Percheron stallion, not so old but there were still some dapples on his broad hips; he was, to all appearance, healthy and all right, except that one foot and pastern had rendered him useless—only a plug now—but his eyes were as clear and bright as at 2 years old, and he still carried his head as high as the proudest of thoroughbreds as he unhesitatingly followed his butchers on to the floor where he must die. One placed a leather blind before his eyes, another drew his long, thick, curly foretop back from his broad forehead—a forehead that showed much intelligence and strength—while a third stood before him with a short-handled ten-pound hammer, who, with a swift overhand stroke, struck so deadly sure that the high royal head struck the floor before his body. Life was long in him and he died hard, but two or three more blows ended his struggles. It seemed almost like murder. We confess a feeling of pity for these poor creatures—man's best friend—but here, in a country thickly populated, where the struggle to live makes all beings strive there is no time nor place for feelings of sentiment.

The next was one not crippled but blind, so old that he was as white as snow; his ears bent forward as he hesitated in the, to him, eternal darkness, and did not move fast enough, but willing hands with clubs from behind forced him forward, stumbling into and across the drain against the slaughter-house door, where he stood trembling with fear and shivering with pain. One blow from the sledge put him beyond the reach of his tormentors.

A hole is cut in the skin on the inside of the thigh, the length of the steel that the butcher carried was run forward between the skin and body, the nozzle of a bellows inserted, and after about five minutes of pumping the skin was as tight as a drum—the skinning is necessarily slow—like skinning a hog or a beaver, as the hide sticks close. The whole legs and hoofs are left on the hind quarters, the fore-legs are cut off at the knee, but so as not to allow of any deception—one-half the head is left on each fore-quarter.

When one of the butchers had divided the flesh on the back of the broad neck of the grey first mentioned, there showed an abundance of fat; the fellow put his knife in his scabbard, jerked off his cap, and, holding it between his knees, parted the neck, inserted his head, and, with a twist and a rub up and down, his hair was oiled to perfection, and then rubbing the oil well through his hair he spat on his steel and knife before sharpening it, and proceeded with his work.

The wholesale price at the abattoir varies with the condition of the meat from 4 cents per pound up, and it is distributed about the city in wagons with the French for horse beef, "Viande de chevaline," printed on the sides, and is sold by the retail dealers for from 20 cents per pound for the fillet down to 6 cents for the poorest parts, soup bones and the like.—Drovers' Journal.

How Long An Advertisement Serves.

One of Commissioner Ham's adventures at New Orleans is related by him as follows:

"A little thing that made a great impression on me when I was a lad was an advertisement in rhyme, printed in the Maine Farmer when it was published at Winthrop by Dr. Holmes. It ran as follows:

"Ezra Whitman to his friends,
This humble notice, greeting sends!

"That couplet has come to me a hundred times in the course of my life. With Mr. Whitman I was not acquainted, and it was such a simple thing that I don't see how it became so fixed in my memory. One February day, at New Orleans, while my thoughts were far away from Winthrop, a fine-looking, elderly gentleman, apparently about 75 years of age, came into the Maine headquarters.

"'Are you from Maine?' I asked, as I asked scores of other people.

"'I am. My name is Whitman,' he replied.

"'In what part of Maine do you live?'

"'Winthrop.'

"'Mr. Whitman,' I said, 'do you remember a rhyme like this:

"'Ezra Whitman to his friends,
This humble notice, greeting sends?'

"'I guess I do; I wrote it,' said he.

"'Well, how long ago was that printed?'

"'Fifty-two years,' said he after thinking an instant.

"'Pretty good advertisement to last all that time, wasn't it?'—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

"Frozen Facts" is a purely American expression, and one, too, of recent origin. It has the merit of attracting attention, and also seems to bear conviction of truthfulness on its face. We make room in our issue of to-day, for a fact of this character. A correspondent, Henry Whiting, Esq., of Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. R. V. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my son of a fever-sore of two years standing. Please accept our gratitude." We believe it to be a fact, whether "frozen" or otherwise, that America needs more men like Mr. Whiting; men who act, men who investigate truths, and seize opportunities.

Variety the Spice of Life.

There is variety in the letters received by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, testifying to the cures effected by her Vegetable Compound and the great relief afforded to thousands of women in all sections. Mrs. C—— of Toronto, says: "I have taken three bottles with very gratifying results." Mrs. Stephen B—— of Sheffington, Quebec, says: "I am now using the fourth bottle and have derived great benefit already." Sarah C—— of Eugene City, Oregon, says: "It is the best medicine for the female sex I have ever found." Mrs. C—— of Santa Fe, says: "Your compound has done me a great deal of good." Mrs. H. S. D—— of Portland, Me., says: "It has done for me all it claimed to and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering as I have done." Mrs. D. H. E—— of Lexington, Va., says: "I have taken one bottle and I assure you I feel a great deal better, I feel strong as ever, and I've never felt a pain in my back since the second dose."

At Locust Gap, Pa., May 17th, Miss Julia Krawer, aged eighteen years, while talking with her accepted lover, a Mr. Neumann, was shot dead by Peter Knolbauch, whose addresses she had rejected. The murderer attempted to shoot his rival also, but was caught and put in jail.

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

Ho! Every Man That Thirsteth.

The postmaster general seems to be the last member of the cabinet who is ripe for the spoils while remembering that the president is nominally committed to civil service reform.

The republicans have no reason to complain of the democrats for desiring to fill the offices with men of their own political faith. The democratic idea announced years ago by Gov. Marcy that "to the victors belong the spoils" has been acquiesced in by the republicans to a most liberal degree. What is condemned in Mr. Vilas is, his lack of manliness in straddling between the demands of his party and the protestations of his president in this respect. It were far better, instead of his attempt to describe "offensive partisanship," a role with which the new appointees must of course begin a service, for him to come out squarely in favor of the grand bounce of every republican post-office official. A more ridiculous spectacle than that of the president on the one hand hanging back, insisting that he will suffer no dictation,

"His energetic fist being ready to resist
A dictatorial word,"

And that he shall proceed slowly and in order, to fill the vacancies properly, and on the other hand the hungry and thirsty urging the cabinet ministers to the work of "reform," has never been seen in the history of the spoils system of this great and happy country.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., May 18th.

The building of the road between the two beaches is being pushed vigorously. It is rumored that the contractors, J. P. Norton and Dr. Stewart, will clear a thousand dollars on the job. The road machine is doing wonders for them. A strong pressure is being made on the town authorities to induce them to purchase the machine for the town. We think it would be a profitable investment.

The building of another proposed road at Union Bluff is to be let to the lowest bidder on Saturday, 23d inst., at three o'clock P. M.

Geo. F. Plaisted, at the Corner, is doing business on a large scale—i. e., he is putting in a new five-ton wagon scale in place of the old one, which is used up.

A whirlwind of small dimensions but of tremendous power displayed its ability on Sunday last, on Mr. Everett Moulton's hot beds at Cider hill. The sashes and glass covering his hot beds are of large size, and weigh seventy-five or more pounds each. Several of them were lifted and carried into the air, and landed at various distances. One of them was seen at an estimated distance of thirty-five feet in the air, and landed one hundred and ten feet from where it was taken. Fifty-two panes of glass were broken. It is said, by those who have seen the ruins, to be a remarkably singular case, as small articles within a few feet of where the damage was done were not disturbed at all.

Rev. George Moore Payne has preached at the Christian church for two Sabbaths last past. Why don't the society employ him permanently? I opine they will hunt some time before they would do better.

Our schools are all running now on full time, and no sign of any strike—unless teachers strike pupils.

On Wednesday evening last at about half-past ten o'clock some person "with a slouched hat and baggy clothing" threw a stone weighing some seven or eight pounds through a window of the residence of the late Hon. N. G. Marshall. The house is occupied by Miss Sophia Marshall, and a lady friend was stopping there that night. The party is known, having been met immediately after the crash by two of the members of the Methodist church who had been attending a society meeting at the parsonage near by the Marshall mansion. It is thought no action will be taken in the matter, owing to the somewhat peculiar circumstances of the case.

A new carriage-painting shop has been started at the village, to run a few months, by parties from Concord, N. H.

J. P. Norton contemplates making five million bricks at his yard this season; this will beat any previous season by two millions. And Plaisted, at the Corner, is selling the best molasses there is in York, for forty-five cents a gallon. Try it and "tell the truth!"

The name of the Goodwin house at the harbor has been changed to the "York Harbor house," and it is to be run this season by Mr. G. A. Goodall of Campello, Mass., who will visit the house weekly. The management will be by Mr. Horace Mitchell, Jr., of Kittery, and his lady. The house is now under the painter's hands. Mrs. Goodwin, the former proprietor, will remove into what is termed "The Cottage," near by. P.

The crew of the Norwegian barque Magdalena, thirteen in number, have arrived at Halifax, N. S. in another vessel, their own having been crushed by ice May 6th. They were rescued after three days exposure. The boatswain of the Magdalena, who was in his berth when the vessel was abandoned, having previously been injured, refused to allow himself to be placed in the boat, saying he might as well go down with the barque as to starve on the ice; he is undoubtedly lost.

Hugh Riley of Boston was tarred and feathered at Lee Centre, near Rome, N. Y., on the night of May 15th, for cruelly abusing his young wife, a respectable girl of Lee Centre whom he married not long ago. Mr. Riley disapproves of the people of Lee Centre, and has left the place.

Albert E. Bosworth, treasurer of the Strafford mills of Fall River, Mass., has been arrested on a charge of sending an obscene letter through the mails to a respectable Providence lady who advertised for employment.

Francis Murphy is a very successful temperance advocate, but he does some queer things. At a meeting in Pittsburg, last week, an old soaker told Mr. Murphy that he was willing to swear off, but wanted to take one more drink first. The lecturer not only let him go, but gave him money to buy the drink. Strange to say, the toper after getting his "tod" came back and signed the pledge.

Martin Burkes, who was born in Boston in 1788, died on the 16th inst. in Somerville, Mass. He was the last survivor of the crew of the United States sloop-of-war Hornet, which captured the British sloop-of-war Peacock during the war of 1812-15, after a desperate battle.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

THE WEATHER.

For New England To-day:

Cloudy weather and local rains, slight changes in temperature.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 50 degrees above zero

Raining.

THE LOAVES AND FISHES.

A Washington despatch to a Boston paper published on Monday states that the remaining collectors of internal revenue will be at once removed and democrats appointed in their stead, and as soon as this is accomplished, the collectors of customs all along the New England coast will be turned out for their "offensive partisanship," and quiet and inoffensive democrats will be led up to the public crib. In relation to local offices, there is a little rumor in the air, that some portions of the custom house programme are not fully appreciated by some of the democratic workers. It seems there has been an over-issue of promises. Just exactly how seven men expectant, nay, confident, of places can be provided for with three inspectorships, is a question in mathematics which may temporarily disturb the committee on distribution. Indeed it creates a little ripple among the otherwise peacefully calm democrats, but the programme is to hasten the distribution in order that the disappointed may be in proper temper to come up and support the ticket in August, when the appointments are expected to be unqualifiedly endorsed and a formidable candidate for mayor put in nomination. Still, the perplexing duty of distribution is not without its annoyances, and there will of course be a few who will in quiet whispers vent their wrath, but on the whole an obedient acquiescence is anticipated, as a matter of course.

BODY FOUND.

About noon on Saturday, the 16th inst., Mr. Aaron Locke found the body of an unknown man on the beach at Wallis' sands, in the edge of the water. He immediately called two of the neighbors, who took charge of the body and notified the selectmen, who requested Hon. Emmons B. Philbrick, coroner, to hold an inquest.

Mr. Philbrick summoned as jurers Dr. Warren Parsons, Sylvanus W. Foss and J. Freeman Locke, and commenced an inquest which was not concluded on Saturday. On examination the deceased appeared to be about fifty years of age; was five feet four inches tall, and had dark brown hair; head nearly bald. There was no clothing on the body except a pair of heavy boots and blue woollen stockings; a few rods from the body a pair of drawers were found, marked with the letter "R." Just above the right ear was a hole that looked as if made by a bullet from a large pistol; on probing there was found to be a free opening for five inches in depth. With the exception of a little discoloration about the left eye, there were no other marks on the body, which appeared not to have been in the water more than a few days at longest. After the examination of the body by the jury it was placed in a box made for the purpose, and decently interred in the town cemetery.

COMMO. JONATHAN YOUNG, U. S. N.,

Commandant of the naval station at New London, Conn., died in New London on Sunday, May 17th, of remittent fever, contracted while in Washington as a member of the Wales court martial six weeks ago.

He entered the navy as a midshipman from Illinois in 1841, and his life was active and eventful. He rendered excellent service during the war of the rebellion, and in 1867 was recommended for promotion by the board of admirals for gallant and meritorious conduct.

In 1865-67, being then a lieutenant commander, he commanded the receiving-ship Vandalia at the Portsmouth naval station. In 1867 he was promoted to commander, and in 1873 to captain. In March, 1874, he was ordered to this navy yard as captain of the yard and equipment officer, and remained until June 30th, 1876, when he was ordered to command the flag-ship Tennessee of the Asiatic squadron. In November, 1878, he was again ordered as captain of this navy yard; in June, 1882, he was promoted to commodore, and since Jan. 1st, 1883, has been in command of the New London station.

Commodore Young was widely known and highly esteemed in this city. He was a member of Washington Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, Davenport Council of Royal and Select Masters, and De Witt Clinton Commandery of Knights Templar; and was a Mason of the 32d degree.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Emily A. Staples, Coleman master, which this season is running between Saco and Boston, taking bricks from Saco and carrying back general cargo, put into Portsmouth lower harbor on Monday on her east-bound trip, on account of the storm, and Capt. Coleman took advantage of the unavoidable delay to visit his family at Newington, leaving the vessel in charge of the mate, Mr. James S. Brewster, formerly master of the schooner Hattie Lewis, but who was unable to take charge at the opening of this season owing to a bad cut he gave one of his feet with an axe not long before. Capt. Coleman reported the sloop Stephen Orr, Aderton master, from Boston for this port on Sunday, light, as having probably put into Cape Ann on Sunday night.

The fishing schooner Sadie C. Pyle, of Gloucester, Mass., while heaving up her anchor off Thatcher's island last week brought up the Mackay-Bennett cable. The captain let the anchor go rather than injure the cable.

The marine who was some time ago reported as having been killed at Aspinwall soon after the arrival there of the United States expeditionary forces, was David Irving of Company C, from the Portsmouth navy yard. He was attempting to run the line in citizen's clothes, and the sentry, a sailor named Thomas Brennan, belonging on the U. S. S. Alliance, after hailing him three times without receiving an answer, fired, and shot him dead.

The U. S. S. Omaha, Captain Thomas O. Selfridge commanding, left this navy yard at 9:40 o'clock Monday forenoon, the 18th inst., and went down the river under her own steam, bound for Newport, R. I. It is anticipated that the bottom will drop out of the navy yard now.

The rite of confirmation will be administered at the Church of the Immaculate Conception in this city on Thursday, May 28th, by Bishop Bradley.

The Sagamore Camp & Hunter's club have nicely fitted up their hall at the corner of Daniel and Penhallow streets. The club is composed mostly of young working men and clerks, who keep themselves well supplied with reading matter, and some of them are good musicians as well. They will spend their summer vacations camping out at Gerrish's island.

A great improvement has been made on Hanover street by Mr. Nathan Jones, who has built new stables and carriage houses on the long vacant lot near High street. The old cellar bordering on the street, which for many years has been found very convenient as a receptacle for rubbish of all sorts, has been filled with gravel, and graded. Mr. Jones' horses, carriages and harnesses are all entirely new, and his patrons can depend that he will always keep things in order. He conducts a livery and sale stable, and also deals in carriages, harnesses, whips and other paraphernalia pertaining to the business.

A correspondent of the Manchester Union, discussing the means to be employed to prevent the capture of that city by a hostile force landing at this port, concludes his essay as follows: "To prevent an enemy who lands at Portsmouth from capturing Manchester, don't let him land at Portsmouth!" The idea seems to be a sound one, from a strategic point of view.

Workmen were putting down poles on Gates street, Monday, for the fire alarm.

Alonzo Jessup, a former of Dorchester, prosecuted before the supreme court at Plymouth, Judge Carpenter presiding, by State Agent Marvin of the S. P. C. A., on a charge of cruelty to a steer, pleaded nol. con., and was fined $100 and costs, the whole amounting to $155. Cruelty is getting to be an expensive luxury in New Hampshire. While in Plymouth attending the sessions of the court, Col. Marvin discovered a horse badly affected with glanders hitched to a post in front of a store on the main street of the village; prompt and energetic action was taken, one well-aimed pistol shot putting the suffering animal out of misery, and ending his liability to communicate the dreaded disease.

The York County savings bank, of Biddeford, has re-elected Hon. John M. Goodwin as its president and R. H. Ingersoll as treasurer. Mr. Goodwin has been at the head of the institution since its organization in 1860. Since that date the bank has received $4,021,797.68 in deposits, and $3,164,096.25 has been withdrawn, leaving a balance of $857,701.43. It has paid $460,442.50 in dividends.

A fire at Berwick, Saturday afternoon, considerably damaged the building owned by John Emery, the lower story of which he uses for a gravestone manufactory. Two families lived in the upper portion. The damage is $1500; insured.

Van Amburgh, Reiche & Brother's circus gave two performances yesterday on Brown's lot on Wetherefield avenue, to large audiences. It is a Simon-pure one-ring show of the old-fashioned style, and has a way of producing under its canvas just what it promises in its advertisements. The menagerie is a large one and offers a better zoological display than some of the big shows. Particularly good is the ring business with its equestrian feats, trapeze and horizontal bar business, tumbling and clown acts. The Japanese balancing was an attractive feature.—Hartford Courant.

This company will exhibit in this city on the 30th inst., at twenty-five cents admission.

The lieutenant who was in charge of the boat with captured Paul Boyton and his party after Boyton had attached an empty torpedo to the British war ship Garnet in New York harbor, has been court martialled at Halifax for not taking the party on board the Garnet as prisoners, instead of letting them go. The statement is made that "if the sentry on the Garnet had not been the stupidest man in the ship, Boyton would have been shot as soon as discovered."

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable remedy for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar testimonials:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter by trade, living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first communtrylc slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who gave me pills, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend and blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all —your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

ON A SLEEPING-CAR.

The Peculiar Experiences of a Pullman Porter on the Pan-Handle.

"Yes, we do have some peculiar experiences," said an intelligent Pullman car porter on the Pan-Handle road to a Pittsburg Dispatch reporter. "We run up against all sorts of people, I can tell you. I remember one case which left an impression on my mind which will not soon leave it. It was on this same train, Pan-Handle No. 4, and we had just run into the station at Mingo Junction. A well-dressed young man, who looked as if he was sick or in trouble, came up to me and wanted to know if he could get a berth. Well, I had nothing to do with letting him have a berth, for there was but one parlor car on the train and that was full. So I told him that every berth was taken, and that it would be impossible for him to get a place. He turned around and walked away about fifteen feet, stopped suddenly and pulled a revolver from his hip-pocket, and before any one could stop him shot himself through the head. He lived a few minutes. He was out of his mind, evidently, for he kept moaning: 'I didn't murder him! I didn't murder him!' We found out afterward that his name was Frank Leighton, and that he lived in St. Louis, where he had relatives of high social standing. He had become dissipated, and in some club quarrel a man was killed. He was never charged with the crime, but he got the idea that suspicion rested on him, and he disappeared from his home, and his friends did not know where he had gone until they heard of his suicide.

"Another case I shall remember as long as I live happened in New York. Hebrew, named Nathan, died in my car. He was broken down in health and went south to get well. He spent the winter down in New Orleans and Galveston. He didn't get any better, and in the spring started home. He knew he was going to die, and was terribly down-hearted. I had to be with him most of the time on the way up. I made up his berth early in the evening, and he went to bed. I helped to undress him and tucked him in. Two hours later, when we got in Pittsburg here, I looked into his berth, and he was dead. Well, he was taken out here, but we didn't know any of his friends and could not telegraph them. They were waiting for him, though, when we got to Jersey City. They didn't know he was dead. His father, a white-haired old man, and his sister, a beautiful girl not more than 18 years old, were at the depot, and were almost the first people I saw when I stepped down from the car. I had an idea that they were his friends as soon as I saw them, and it made me feel shaky, I can tell you. 'Is Mr. Nathan with you, porter?' asked the young lady, looking kind and anxious. Well, I just looked at her and then at the old gentleman, and I couldn't say a word. I couldn't bear to tell them that he was dead, and so I just said: 'No, ma'am, he got off at Pittsburg.' She turned as white as a sheet, and said: 'Why, was he worse?' The old man was so nervous that he just clung to the lady as if he was afraid of falling. 'I don't know, ma'am,' I managed to say. Just then a young man came up, who I took to be her brother. I called him to one side. I thought it would be better for him to let them know than for me. Well, sir, he was so badly broke up that he just blurted out: 'My God, brother is dead.' It was the hardest thing I ever saw. I thought the girl would just go wild. They could hardly get her away to the carriage. The brother came back to Pittsburg and took the body on home. I never heard from them again.

"One of the funniest cases I ever ran across," he continued, "occurred this winter with a newly married couple on their wedding trip. He was a young army or navy officer. I don't know which. His wife was a bashful, blue-eyed little girl, not a day over 17 years old. About 11 o'clock at night I saw her stick her head out of the curtains and look up and down the aisle to see if the coast was clear. She then slid out and pottered up to the water-cooler after a drink. When she started back she forgot her berth, and her bashfulness only made it worse. She got back to what she supposed was her berth and piled in. Well, I heard a swear and a scream, and then the little woman, frightened half to death, shot out of the curtains and up the aisle to the state-room, when I met her. You see she had climbed in with an old gentleman and lady from down in Texas, whose berth was next to hers. The old man was a cattle-dealer and a rough old fellow, and his wife was a nervous, fidgety old lady. She just screamed and yelled 'thieves, murder,' till every passenger in the car had his head out of the curtains. The young husband had been woke up and missed his wife and he was almost wild, and came running up the car to where his wife was crying in the state-room. She just fell in his arms and pretty near fainted. He couldn't understand what had happened and wanted to go back after his revolver and shoot some one. I just locked them in the state-room, and then went back and explained matters to the Texas pair and got them quieted down. Then I told the other passengers that there was nothing the matter, and they pulled in their heads. The young fellow and his wife wouldn't go back to their berth for about an hour—until they were again sure every one had gone to sleep. I managed everything so that no one but the old couple ever knew anything about it or who it was that raised the disturbance. When they left the car the next day he slipped $10 in my hand. Their names? Oh, no! I couldn't give you that.

"I had another experience, though, that floored me once. There is a pretty little black-eyed boy who lives over in Alleghany, who first saw the light of this world in the Pullman car of which I was porter. The boy is about 3 years old now, and he and his mother and father went down over the road with me this winter on their way to New Orleans."

Tall Oaks from Little Acorns Grow.

Great and good results often spring from small deeds and so fatal diseases come of a seemingly trifling neglect. Colds neglected often lead to serious catarrhal troubles. If this is your case lose no time in becoming acquainted with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its healing virtues will surprise you. It is simple, efficacious, speedy, sure. Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges from the nose into the throat are symptoms of this horrible complaint.

At Hubbard, Neb., May 18th, a freight brakeman was shot dead by one of two tramps whom he attempted to eject from his train. The tramps fled, pursued by a large number of armed men intent on lynching them. In the afternoon there was a grand round-up of tramps at Sioux City, eleven being captured after a fight in which one tramp was shot.

Variety the Spice of Life.

There is variety in the letters received by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, testifying to the cures effected by her Vegetable Compound and the great relief afforded to thousands of women in all sections. Mrs. C—— of Toronto, says: "I have taken three bottles with very gratifying results." Mrs. Stephen B——, of Sheffington, Quebec, says: "I am now using the fourth bottle and have derived great benefit already." Sarah C—— of Eugene City, Oregon, says: "It is the best medicine for the female sex I have ever found." Mrs. C—— of Santa Fe, says: "Your compound has done me a great deal of good." Mrs. H. S. D—— of Portland, Me., says: "It has done for me all it claimed to and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering as I have done." Mrs. D. H. E—— of Lexington, Va., says: "I have taken one bottle and I am sure you I feel a great deal better, I feel strong as ever, and I've never felt a pain in my back since the second dose."

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

Hamlet's Countryman's Happy Fate.

There was sold a number of lucky tickets in the Monthly Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, Tuesday, April 14th, including a fifth of No. 54,675, which drew the capital, $75,000, held by a young Dane named F. BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

Police Sergeant David H. Crowley, of New York city, has been sent to the penitentiary at Sing Sing for seventeen years and six months, for a brutal outrage on Maggie Morris, a respectable young Irish girl whom he met at a dance, and invited out to have refreshments. Crowley was a man of much "political influence;" and a barkeeper who was accessory to the crime swore that he did not dare to interfere because Crowley had him in his power for violation of the liquor law. The ruffian would probably have escaped all punishment had not a reporter of the World got hold of the facts, and made it so hot that even the corrupt courts of New York city did not dare wink at his crime.

Senator Logan Re-Elected.

The Illinois legislature on Tuesday re-elected Gen. John A Logan to the United States senate, after one of the longest and sharpest contests of the kind on record.

The Union Pacific Railway.

New Hampshire residents to the number of 359 own 10,033 shares in the Union Pacific railway.

The report of the directors for the past year makes a large folio pamphlet of 218 pages. It has a carefully prepared index. The report shows that the net earnings of the 4476 miles of the Union Pacific, after deducting every kind of a charge, are over $2,962,485 applicable to dividends, equal to five per cent on the sixty millions of its capital stock.

The recent advance in the market price of this stock is owing to a prospect that the company will sell securities, of which it has in stock and bonds (calling Union Pacific shares at forty-five) $3,445,555. Its income from stock and bonds in 1884 was $1,736,945, a decrease over '83 of $829,736.62. It is contended if these securities were sold and the debt of $3,237,696 should be paid, the payment of dividends could be resumed.

The present holdings are largely for investment, and the efforts of the managers seem to be decidedly toward the resumption of dividends rather than speculation in the stock. The road has immense assets, large liabilities, and needs all the brains it has at command to bring it up to the place in the market which it is expected ere long to attain.

The War in the Northwest.

Riel is still held prisoner at Batouche. Dumont has not been captured yet. Most of the prisoners have been allowed to return to their homes, but the ringleaders have been taken to Prince Albert.

Naval Intelligence.

Lieut. Comdr. Wm. Welch is detached from duty on the ironclads at City Point, Va., and Lieut. Aaron Ward from the torpedo station at Newport, and ordered Hartford.

Captain Byron Wilson, Commanders Silas Casey and George W. Hayward, Lieutenant Commanders George C. Ide, George W. Pigman and Charles H. Rockwell, Lieutenants James M. Miller, Jacob J. Hunker, A. B. Speyers, C. A. Foster and John C. Nicholson, and Ensigns William A. Gill and Henry Minett, have been ordered to the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., for instruction in torpedo service.

Passed Assistant Surgeon A. A. Austin has been ordered to the naval rendezvous at Philadelphia.

The sick leave of absence of Assistant Engineer W. O. Chrisman has been extended four months.

Over 400 of the marines sent to the isthmus of Panama arrived back to New York last week.

Paymaster Stephen Rand, having returned from duty on the isthmus of Panama, has been ordered to settle his accounts and then wait orders.

John Roach's steamer, the Dolphin, had a third trial trip on Long Island sound on Monday, and for the third time failed to work satisfactorily, her journals heating so that her engines had to be stopped.

The tug boat Mary Lee, Capt. Lowden, 117 tons, of and from New Orleans for Bath, Me., caught fire off Small Point, Me., at eleven o'clock on the night of May 17th, and is a total loss. The fire caught in the bulkhead betweed the boiler and galley, and was burning furiously and beyond control when it was discovered. The crew put off in a boat, and were picked up by a fishing vessel and landed at Small Point. But three minutes after they left her the boiler exploded, and some of the debris fell about the boat, but no one was injured. The tug had been chartered by the Maine Central railroad to do their towing on the Kennebec this season, and was valued at $35,000; partly insured.

The frequenters of Dr. Southerland's church in Washington, D. C., were surprised last Sunday by seeing Fred Douglass occupying with his white wife the pew just in front of that held by the president, who did not go to church that day. They professed to be greatly scandalized, and wanted Dr. Southerland to ask the Douglasses if they wanted to come there to hire some less conspicuous place. The doctor refused to do so, and the president said, when he heard of the fuss, that he did not care who sat around him, and as for Mr. Douglass, he (the president) had never heard any reason why he should not sit where he chooses. This is likely to settle the disturbance.

J. J. Stanley was killed by a locomotive at Taunton, Mass., May 16th.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, May 19th.

Franklin C. Hoyt, for drunkenness, was fined $5, costs being taxed at $6.90. Jail in default of payment.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

A despatch of Tuesday, the 19th inst., from Fall River, Mass., reported that 150 marines from Panama passed through that city that morning "on their way to the Portsmouth navy yard." This probably referred to the marines who went from the Boston navy yard, who arrived back on that day.

The orders detaching Comdr. Wm. C. Wise from this navy yard and ordering him to torpedo instruction at Newport, R. I., have been revoked.

MARITIME NOTES.

A despatch of May 18th from Provincetown, Mass., was as follows: "Arrived at seven P. M. the United States ship Omaha, from Portsmouth. She is apparently ashore on Long point, but will float at high tide to-night." A despatch of the 19th reported her as having floated at high water without damage, and anchored in the outer harbor. This accident, if it can rightly be so called, was probably due to the ship being needlessly hurried to sea without an opportunity for the proper adjustment of her compasses—the same cause which so disastrously wrecked the Huron on Kittyhawk beach six or seven years ago.

On Sunday, the 17th inst., the schooner Sea Foam of Bangor, Me., was picked up derelict thirty miles off Boon island by the schooner Urania S., of Vinalhaven, Me., and towed into York harbor by that vessel and the schooner Eddie H. Weeks of York. The Sea Foam registers 157.84 tons, and was built at Bangor in 1855; she is loaded with planks, the value of her cargo being estimated at $2000. When fallen in with by the Uranus she was completely stripped of everything easily removable except a flag set as a signal of distress, and there was nothing found to indicate what had become of her crew or when or where she was abandoned.

The schooner Agnes E. Downs, Capt. Levi Downs, arrived at New York on the 17th inst. with 100 barrels of mackerel.

The case Solon S. Andrews of Biddeford vs. schooner Satellite was heard in the United States district court at Portland before Judge Webb last week. The facts of the case as alleged are that on the 28th day of April, 1883, Andrews was engaged under a contract with the government in excavating and removing Gangway rock, so-called, in the Piscataqua river. For the purpose of so excavating and removing the rock, Andrews had built a structure of timber and iron for use as a drill-stand and tide-breaker; that on the morning of said April 28th the schooner Satellite (with a light westerly wind, and the ebb tide running five knots,) collided with Andrews' structure and the sloop moored to it, doing injuries, including the loss of the sloop's anchor, as alleged at four or five hundred dollars, to recover which sum the libel is brought. The defence pleaded, first, that the court had no jurisdiction; secondly, that when the Satellite got under weigh about 4:30 o'clock in the morning on the day of the collision it was at the top of high water, the current being still "soaking up" river, and the wind was northwest, a commanding breeze of two or three knots; that the wind died away when the schooner was within about quarter of a mile of the drill stand, and she let go both anchors, but dragged them both over the rocky bottom, and the collision was the result of inevitable accident. Hon. Wilbur F. Lunt conducted the case for Andrews, and Hon. Thomas B. Reed for the defence. Decision not announced.

The schooner Lottie, Creighton master, arrived from Port Johnson on Tuesday with 312 tons of coal to E. F. Sise & Co. The Ira Laffrienier sailed for Bath, to load ice for Petersburg, Va., and the Charles H. Trickey, which came down from Dover in the morning, sailed for Lanesville to take in a cargo of paving stones for Philadelphia.

The steam yacht formerly named the Venture (now called the "Leether" it is said, though where in the world the outlandish name came from or what it means we cannot imagine, and are inclined to think her new name is "Lethe,") was being run on the river Tuesday by Capt. Alfred R. Goodwin, who announced his intention of starting for Boston with her on Wednesday morning, wind and weather favoring. She looked well, and made good speed.

The old steamer Pioneer, built at this port in 1864, is still running, and makes daily trips between Vinalhaven and Rockland, Me. The old river men here tell remarkable stories of her exploits at the time she was owned here. They say that she planed down her track in a seaway so that it could be seen all the rest of the day, and when approached by a particularly big wave would jump clear out of water and come down on it with a spank which would send the spray a quarter of a mile in every direction, and make a smooth spot which would remain for a week in spite of wind and weather. She was not a sample of the work of the Piscataqua river shipwright, having been built by a house carpenter.

The coroner's jury at Rye on Tuesday returned a verdict that the unknown man whose body was found on the beach at Wallis' sands on Saturday was murdered by some person or persons unknown.

Mr. John Gannon, Jr., of Manchester, closed a contract on Saturday with Hon. Frank Jones for frescoing the new Rockingham house. It is the most extensive frescoing contract ever made in New Hampshire. The work will begin about July 1st.

The Portsmouth cricket club will go to Lowell, Mass., next Saturday, to play a game with the Arlington club of that city.

The firm of Thomas E. Call & Son has been dissolved by mutual consent, the senior partner retiring. The business will be continued by Thomas E. Call, Jr.

The pear trees in the gardens in this city were nearly all in full blossom on Tuesday.

The gravel train arrived on Tuesday at the Portsmouth & Dover railroad bridge between Noble's island and Freeman's point; it was about quarter of a mile long, and commenced filling in without saying so much as "by your leave" to either municipal, state or United States authorities. It is understood that the whole bridge will be filled in this week. There was also a report that a dam is to be constructed between Noble's island and Market street, and extensive grist mills erected there, to lease to the city after the lease of the north mill and pond expires.

Mr. James White had part of the middle finger of his right hand jammed off on Tuesday, while engaged in shackling cars in the yard of the railroad station in this city.

In some places about the city the fences have been disfigured with charcoal, chalk and pencil marks, it is supposed by boys. The penalty for this offence is confinement in jail.

The remains of the late Dr. Wm. H. Flynn of South Boston, formerly of this city, arrived here on Tuesday morning from Bonito, New Mexico, where he died on the 5th inst., having been brought home for interment.

Mr. George F. Plaisted, of York Corner, not only runs a well stocked country store with hay-scale attachment, and does printing on occasion, but is also a constable of the town and a coroner for York county, and has just been appointed a notary public. All business (by mail or otherwise) pertaining to either of his official positions will be promptly and faithfully attended to; but what he most prides himself on is "selling the best molasses in York county at forty-five cents a gallon."

We clip the following from the Biddeford Journal: "The Portland Press says there is good prospect for the immediate establishment of a new weekly democratic paper in Kittery. A live democratic paper in this county would undoubtedly supply a long felt want. We have a notion, however, that what the democrats of Kittery are more interested in than in newspapers is the 'immediate' possession of those fat berths in the navy yard."

The following transfers of real estate in York have been left for record in the office of the register of deeds for York county: Ezra A. J. Sawyer et ux of Deerfield, N. H., to C. A. Colby of York, lot of land at Union Bluff, York, for $225; Josiah Norton of York to Stephen Adams of the same place, one-fourth acre of land for $50; Elizabeth L. Smiley of York to Hannah E. Smiley of the same place, real estate for $400.

Peter Gagne and Cecilia Thibeau, French Canadians, who eloped from Biddeford on Saturday, were arrested in Dover, N. H., on Monday, and taken to Biddeford. Gagne has a wife and three children in Franklin Falls, N. H.

—An experimental fire alarm was rung in Bangor. One of the firemen was out in the country three miles on a snipe hunt. Hearing the alarm he flew to his team and ran his horse into the city at a breakneck speed, to be most gloriously disappointed. He said there was a misunderstanding, and that some one had blundered.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes, and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble for two years. In July, 1883, one day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good. Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fevers in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

— Elsie (seeing for the first time a calf)—"Oh, mamma, these must be the little cows that give condensed milk!"

— "Mamma," said Johnnie, who had just been reading the war news, "I am afraid we are short of sauce for supper. Hadn't you better call out the preserves?"

— A genius has invented a trap with which he expects to catch cholera germs, and thus put a check on the disease wherever it appears. The trap will be baited with green apples, tramps, and a section of sewer pipe.

— There are some occasions when it doesn't pay to be parliamentary—as for instance, when a Fairhaven, Mass., fire engine company stopped in the street to elect a foreman pro tem. before putting a stream on a burning building.

The Maine democrats have been in Washington recently asking "When are the refreshments to be served?" Maine lacks in its mode of presentation that "oneness" which so concentrates the applications in behalf of the New Hampshire patriots.

LANGUAGE OF THE EARS.

The Appearance of the Auricular Appendage Indicative of Character.

"I used to notice when a lad," said a successful business man lately to a reporter, "that in making the final awards at country fairs on the quality of all sorts of blooded stock, the judges universally examined the ears of the animals. Whether it were a thoroughbred horse, a Berkshire hog, a dog of any special breed, from a toy terrier to a bull or a pointer, or whether it were a Cotswold or Southdown sheep, the ear was always one of the chief points, and if that were faulty, all the other good qualities went for naught. This set me thinking that, as men represent every quality known to the brute creation, the ears of men would be likely to serve as pretty sure indices of character. I then commenced studying. First of all I procured a good specimen of what we will call the normal human ear, one taken from the head of a man of good character and in whom all the various qualities and propensities had been about evenly balanced, a level-headed, practical man of the world. This ear I studied until I had thoroughly mastered all the convolutions and surfaces that it presented. I've bought hundreds of them and now have

that I'll show you." With this the old gentleman unlocked his safe and produced two packages tied up in oiled silk, soft and flexible as kid, and semi-transparent. Untying one of these packages, there fell out on the table a number of nondescript fragments of mummified-looking stuff, which, on examination, proved to be dried, or rather partially tanned, human ears, all in a perfect state of preservation, so far as the retention of shape is concerned. "Why, where did you get all these?" "Bought 'em of course." "Of the hospitals?" "No, of the undertakers. The ears of criminals and paupers would be of no use to me. They would serve no purpose in the way of study; the character of the criminal is so clearly marked that one type is sufficient to know all by, while paupers have no character at all. It would make some people stare if they should examine their deceased relatives and find that they are sleeping the last sleep with only one ear to help them listen for the last trump. The most obstinate fool I ever had to deal with was a half-starving artist whose ear I wanted to get on account of its remarkable formation. He was a man of extraordinary business affairs, but a genius. I offered that man and the stupid fellow refused it. He was poor, half starved; didn't I believe, know where to get the next meal for himself and his wife and children, and one would have thought that he would have jumped at the chance to get $500 for such a trifling inconvenience. I offered to supply him with a false ear, so as to keep up appearances, but he would not listen to me, and I missed one of the finest opportunities of my life. I opened this particular package to show you one very remarkable example. Here are all sorts of ears; ears of men who are greatly imbued with religious feelings—there's an ear, for instance, of a revivalist; ears of pronounced atheists, ears of honest men and ears of rogues; ears of cute lawyers and ears of dull, money-grabbers, whose only study in life has been how to hold on to a dollar. Here's the ear of a somewhat noted newspaper man. Now, just see how the lobe of that ear goes down into the cheek; in front there is no lobe to the ear at all. I don't say, mark you, that every one who has an ear of that formation is a thief, but I do say that he has the propensities of one, and only needs opportunity or temptation to develop them. This ear, in its principal characteristic, is almost the counterpart of a pair that are worn by a man of former high standing in the business world, but who is now serving a term in the penitentiary. It is only a week or two ago I had an occasion to let a contract for building an extensive wall, and among the bidders was one who offered to do the work half a dollar a thousand lower than any one else. But when I saw the man not to trust him. I know he would have robbed me in some way had he got the contract. Here's another typical ear. You see this thin cartilage, with the roll disappearing in the northeast corner and the ear itself coming almost to a point, somewhat like a fox's. That is the ear of a keen, unscrupulous, hard-hearted money-lender; one of those who seem to take a positive delight in oppressing the unfortunate and in wringing from them extortionate interest for small accommodations. Some of these ears set well back like a fox's when it is snarling; they are the worst cases. In others the upper point stands slightly forward; such men are rather shrewd and cunning than cruel, but they are not very pleasant folks at the best. Others of this sort, again, are movable at the will of their owners. These chaps add to their other amiable qualities a quarrelsome disposition that will make them snap and snarl at everything and everybody. The only way is to select a few noteworthy specimens. Study the ears of some men whose character you are well acquainted with, and mark their respective peculiarities. Then compare those of men of similar characteristics, and see where their strongest resemblances are; the first discovery of a principle for yourself is the only difficulty. If any one is about to get married, I could tell him whether the woman he is about to wed is likely to agree with him or not. Oh, you may set it down for a fact that the ear is the true index of character. Tell me before you print anything about this, and I'll corner the ear-muff market, and we will divide the profits."—Boston Sunday Times.

HIS EARS TOLD ME

Practical Joke on Gen. Sherman.

Some War reminiscences published in the Cleveland Leader record a laughable practical joke perpetrated upon Gen. Sherman. The General was visiting the headquarters of Gen. Howard while at Goldsboro, N. C., and while there felt the need of a small draught of whisky to drive off the effects of malaria. Gen. Howard's rigid temperance principles precluded the idea of obtaining whisky from him, but when Dr. John Moore, the Medical Director, came in Sherman gave him the wink and said: "Doctor, have you a seidlitz powder in your quarters?" The doctor said he had. Gen. Howard said: "Gen. Sherman, it is not necessary to go to the doctor's quarters; I have plenty of seidlitz powders here, and good ones, too. I will get you one." If there was anything in Howard's quarters that Sherman did not want it was a seidlitz-powder, and therefore said to Howard: "Never mind, General; give yourself no trouble. [Howard was then getting the powder and glass of water ready.] I will be going by Moore's quarters after a while." Dr. Moore quickly took in the situation and became a party to the joke on Gen. Sherman, to whom he said: "By the way, General, I don't think I have a seidlitz-powder in my quarters, and you had better take the one Gen. Howard has." By this time Howard had the powder all ready for use, and handed the glasses to Sherman. Rather than offend Howard by refusing the pleasant whisky he drank the foaming stuff, much to his own disgust, to the satisfaction of Gen. Howard and to the amusement of the staff officers.

Mrs. Nutting about three years since lost her arm nearly to the elbow, and while engaged in household duties about three weeks ago accidentally injured it again, necessitating the second amputation, which was skillfully done, and the patient is fast recovering.

Baltimore, Maryland.—State Inspector of Steam Boilers P. A. Our New York Fashion Letter.

FASHIONABLE HEIGHTS.

A stylish tournure if stood on end would be highest among fashionable heights. Turned horizontally, it is of lengths the longest, and more than counterbalances high hats, high-dressed hair, high necks and high heels. The most perplexing, too, since what modiste may bring about a graceful fall of drapery over such sharp projecting cliff of whalebone or stuffed hair, or what manufacturer may render light what nature has made heavy? They all try it, and they fail. Hat manufacturers in comparison have an easy time of it, since crowns may readily be sent up to any height. Dressers of high hair have an equally light task. In this case it is the wearer who suffers, since gravitation sets to work so soon as it is over, and pulling at loose hairs, would soon bring down the edifice but for bandoline, and often does so despite that time-honored glue. Glue being a failure, one betakes to curling the loose hairs at the back, but now comes the high ruff or collar, and by friction makes a greater-than-ever tangle. These high necks are, moreover, quite at variance with the ears. Sawed upon perpetually, they never quite come off, but remain obdurate subjects for perpetual repetition. As to high shoulders, inexorable is the fiat regarding them. Than not to be high-shouldered, it were best not to be. In such high complications, it is to the "undeveloped," as they have been termed, that we look with hope. These, in comparison, have turned only somewhat aside. Some even wear their hair low, and have sensible heels, while the tournure, in the eyes of a veritable fashionist, is contemptibly small.

BRIDAL COSTUMES.

June wedding bells jingle, a sequence to wintry flirtations. A grand spring drawing of matrimonial lottery tickets will soon take place; far more uncertain than the Louisiana state, since Gens. Beuregard and Early do not supervise the drawings made in the lottery of love. But the bride expectant ventures smilingly, and believes that she of all others has secured a prize. Her chief anxiety is her wedding dress. If very youthful, she will choose some light material, such as silk tissue, silk mull, surah, India silk, or perhaps satin, leaving to the more mature, silk or brocade; although with brides of all degrees satin is very popular. Favorite flowers are lilies of the valley, snow drops, azaleas, spires, pond lilies or white lilac, while the delicate tints of Marechal Niel buds and pale pink roses have much prestige. Gloves are always long and usually white, but a pearl tinge is preferred occasionally. Slippers or boots of white kid or satin. As to ways of making, dressmakers vary, or ought to vary, according to stature, slenderness, etc. Trimmings likewise, but this being a season of lace, lavish use is made of it. Trains are long, sometimes reaching five yards. The veil usually of tulle, but sometimes of fine lace.

MIGHTY IS THE PIN

In jewelry. Little gold-headed, silver-headed, pearl-headed, and many other headed pins. Headed by anything and stuck about in any way. These, in the army of pins that now invades us, may be reckoned as privates; but taking rank upward, degrees are many, until some grand specimen is reached, such as a crescent formed of nine different colored pearls, the largest a centre piece from which soft and diverse flashings grow gradually less, but are the prelude to a brilliant surrounding of small diamonds. The day of the lace pin is indeed at meridian height. In the glitter of great fashionableness it shines, and earth and heaven are searched to find semblances or new ideas. Chiefly at present are flowers in favor, the colored leaves simulated by enamel, while precious gems portray other portions. English violets are greatly sought after; buttercups with yellow enameled leaves, clusters of daisies and clematis, while especially pretty is the imitation of dew drops by small diamonds strewn at random. Insects are popular, and for example one sees a black pear-shaped pearl doing duty as the body of a spider with enameled legs and diamond eyes.

LUCY CARTER.

Gen. Gytan, with 2000 rebels, assaulted Carthagena on the night of May 7th, but were repulsed with a loss of 800 men. Eckert, an American commanding the rebel flotilla, was killed. Prestan, who burned Aspinwall, commanded one wing of the rebel army.

While John Evarts and son, farmers, were driving into Youngstown, Ohio, May 18th, a whirlwind picked up their rig, horse and all, and after whirling it around several times dropped it in a field with terrific force. The buggy was smashed to pieces, but the men and horse escaped with their lives, though all were severely bruised.

Reports from Canada northwest state that unless immediate assistance is rendered, starvation and misery stare the French half-breeds in the face. None of them have done any seeding, they have slaughtered all their domestic animals, and are now in a state of abject poverty.

The Canadian government has not yet considered the case of Riel. The best lawyers at Ottawa say that he will be tried for treason-felony under the treason-felony act of 1869. In either case the trial will take place in the northwest, probably at Regina.

Naval officers expect that Secretary Whitney will soon revoke the (to them) unpopular order issued by Ex-Secretary Chandler, which forbade the wives of officers to accompany them to foreign stations. Secretary Whitney has recently made an exception to this general order in one instance.

Robert E. Odlum, thirty-three years old and unmarried, formerly proprietor of a swimming bath in Washington, but of late clerk in Willard's hotel, jumped off the Brooklyn bridge about four o'clock P. M. on the 19th inst., struck the water on his side, and lived but a few moments. The distance from the rail to the water is 135 feet, and he was 3 1-4 seconds on the descent. He was picked up by Capt. Boyton, who with reporters and others was on a tug close by to witness the feat; but he died before the tug could reach the shore.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. FIELDS, Rochester, N. Y.

ARTISTIC EMBELLISHMENTS.

The city is being ornamented in preparation for the advent of summer visitors. A large number of poles, which will no doubt prove very attractive when once the public taste becomes educated up to the point of distinguishing their elegance, are being set out by the fire alarm people; and several new and finely proportioned bill boards have been erected, one huge one on Pleasant street shutting off to a considerable extent the view of the south pond and its beautiful surroundings, including the marginal road, so that persons driving by will not have their attention taken from their horses, except by the esthetic circus poster on the board. Another one has been put up along the front of the skating rink lot on Vaughan street, and still another on Fleet street, at the rear of the Ladd estate.

MARITIME NOTES.

The U. S. S. Omaha, from this port for Newport, R. I., via Provincetown, Mass., passed out by Cape Cod at 2:40 P. M. on the 19th inst.

The schooner Mary Willey, in leaving the harbor on the 20th inst., went ashore on the Seavey's island side of the Narrows, but was hauled off by the steamer James Sampson, and proceeded on her trip to Bangor apparently uninjured.

The steamer Appledore came off the ways at Kittery, and was towed across the river to her wharf by the tug Clara Batemen, on Wednesday.

The steam yacht Venture, alias "Leether," Lethe or some other name, started for Boston at three o'clock in the morning on the 20th inst., with the following crew: Alfred R. Goodwin, master; A. R. Goodwin, chief officer; Mr. Al. Goodwin, cook and deck hand; Charles W. Hart, chief engineer; C. W. Hart, assistant engineer; Charley Hart, fireman and coal-passer.

The illustrated advertisement of G. W. Simmons & Co., of Boston, which will be found in another column, deserves a careful reading. The business which this house commands, not only from Boston and New England cities, but from all parts of the United States, is something enormous. The daily mail of G. W. Simmons & Co. sometimes contains from three to four hundred letters.

Harper's Magazine for June is now ready for delivery to subscribers, or for sale by the single number, at Moses Brothers' news room and M. Goodrich's book and room-paper store.

Wednesday, May 20th, was the regulation day for "driving the cows to pasture," but the milkmen and farmers turned their herds out to grass a week before that date. The spring feed is generally abundant, but warmer weather is needed to sweeten it. M.

The Red Stocking base ball club of this city will have a social assembly in the town hall at Rye this (Thursday) evening.

Mr. Frank P. Downing, in the employ of C. E. Walker & Co., was badly hurt by a piece of coal falling from the coal pocket and striking on his back while he was at work shovelling on Wednesday.

The obsequies of the late Dr. Wm. H. Flynn took place on Wednesday, the 20th inst., a large number of persons attending to show their respect for the deceased and their sympathy for his aged father and other surviving relatives. The floral tributes were many, and the funeral cortege very long. The remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery near the Plains.

An unusually large number of loads of hay were brought into the city, and found ready sale, on Wednesday.

The collections of internal revenue for the district of New Hampshire during the month of April amounted to $31,439.55.

Mr. G. H. Jenness, recently appointed to a position on the navy yard, was on the 20th inst. discharged owing to the paucity of funds for current expenses for the remainder of the year ending June 30th.

Mr. Heman F. Eldredge's fine driving horse, while hitched to a post in front of the Eldredge Brewing Co.'s office on Bow street, Wednesday forenoon of this week, took fright at a piece of paper flying through the air, and breaking the hitching rein ran through Bow and Market streets as far as Staples' dry good store, where he collided with a wagon and was thrown down, wrecking a nice new buggy, but sustaining no injury himself. So much for the reprehensible custom of sweeping rubbish into the street. The wagon that was ruin into belonged to Mr. Daniel A. Hill of Kittery, and was not injured.

Mr. H. Gates Wentworth, driver of one of the city teams, had one of his feet quite badly injured on Tuesday, the 18th inst., by being stepped on by one of the new horses recently purchased by the city.

The May term of the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county commenced at Alfred on Tuesday of this week, among the jurymen present being Charles A. Bowden of Kittery, Timothy Dame of Eliot, Charles W. Junkins and John K. Weare of York, Edwin W. Hanscom of South Berwick, George Roberts of Berwick, Henry S. Kidder of North Berwick, Alexander Maxwell of Wells, Edwin Ward and George E. Littlefield of Kennebunk. Mr. Dame of Eliot was appointed foreman of the first traverse jury, and Mr. Maxwell of Wells foreman of the second one.

Wm. M. Hunnewell was on the 19th inst. commissioned as postmaster at Exeter, vice George S. Leavitt, suspended.

The corporate existence of the Ocean national bank, of Kennebunk, has been extended twenty years.

From Coos County.

KILKENNY, COOS COUNTY, May 16th.

Mr. Editor: Having an interest in some wild land in this almost unknown region of our state, I determined to view my inheritance and obtain an idea of its location and value.

The township of Kilkenny was granted by King George in 1774 to Jonathan Warren, George Libbey and fifty-eight other men of Portsmouth, loyal subjects of his majesty. Leaving the railroad at Bennett's Landing, in Jefferson, a ride in a wagon took me and my guide to the base of Starr King (formerly Pilot) mountain. After several hours of hard climbing through dense forests of spruce and many drifts of snow we reached the summit, and had a grand view of the White hills, far stretching valleys, and the foaming current of the "wild Ammonoosuc," which frets and chafes along its rough and often precipitous channel like a train of steam enveloped cars thundering through a ravine.

My guide was a hardy mountaineer, well versed in woodcraft, and soon located the two lots of land which the deeds to an ancient family of Portsmouth describe by "lot and "range." By the aid of the surveyors' marks, which time and the growth of the trees have nearly obliterated, we learned that the line of the towns of Kilkenny and Jefferson runs between the lots I had been searching for and a part of the princely domain of Messrs. G. W. & N. W. Libbey of Whitefield, the timber kings of Coos, who own the whole township of Kilkenny, 2400 acres of old growth spruce, into which no axe has been struck since the royal surveyors blazed the trees when the townships were laid out.

The Libbeys have been getting lumber off a 5000-acre lot in the adjoining town of Randolph for two years past; before two more they will have a railroad from Jefferson Depot to their woods in Kilkenny, arrangements having been made with the railroad company for building the branch, and the shipment of logs, lumber and cordwood. It is estimated that the Kilkenny woods will yield 200,000,000 feet of spruce lumber. M.

A Queer State of Affairs.

A Washington press despatch says "a novel question has been raised in connection with the recent court martial of Paymaster Bellows on the Pacific coast. He was tried on the charge of disrespect to a superior officer. The charge was that he purchased supplies in Peru above the market price. His answer is that he was ordered by Rear Admiral Upshur to purchase goods at a certain business house, and was told to pay the prices charged. For this Bellows was tried for disrespect to a superior officer, and found guilty. The fourth auditor, however, on this statement, has charged the entire purchase, $10,000, to the account of Rear Admiral Upshur, and it is possible that the court martial case may be reopened. Naval officers are much interested in it, as it involves the extent of the authority of the commander of a squadron."

If this statement of the case is correct, any naval officer is absolutely at the mercy of his superior in rank and command. The senior can order the junior to do what the latter knows is wrong, and which it is his business to know about; yet of course he must obey the orders of his superior. Then if, when called to account for his wrongdoing, he pleads in bar the order of his superior, he is to be court martialled and punished for disrespect to that superior! If this is naval law, then naval law in an ass.

Profitable Prtriotism.

A despatch of the 19th inst. from La Libertad, San Salvador, says that President Zaldivar left San Salvador because his life was in jeopardy. He departed in the middle of the night, and went directly on board the German ship Warda. It is also rumored that when he came into power he owed large sums of money, but he is now possessed of large amounts, chiefly invested abroad. The revolution in the country still continues. Menendez is holding that part of the country bordering on Guatemala, while Gen. Figueroa is holding San Salvador. It is said that the late President Barrios of Guatemala saved $14,000,000 during his presidency.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with severe pain and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are the most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1882. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me no opinion. He did no good. Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case It has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malaria fever in the world. It is specially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy instantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

MELANCHOLY ANIMALS.

A Physician Who Treats Domestic Animals for Melancholia.

There is a peculiar hospital on Callowhill street, a visit to which amply rewards curiosity or a desire to obtain knowledge of an uncommon kind. It is no more or less than a cat and dog hospital, but, strangely enough, the inmates do not lead "a cat and dog life." Mutual sufferings and infirmities seem to have a sedative effect, and these proverbial enemies lie down together even as the lion and the lamb, and take their medicine with a good grace. The place is conducted by Dr. Robert J. Janvier, who devotes his whole time and attention to the treatment of canine and feline diseases. The doctor is an old practitioner, and is acquainted with all the ills to which cat and dog flesh is heir to.

A regular physician, he retired from practice about twenty years ago in Paris, and devoted himself to the study of animal maladies. He came to Philadelphia about six years ago and established his "dog hospital," which he has made a success.

A reporter visited the place yesterday, and was shown around by the doctor and treated to some novel sights. The rear of the house is well ventilated and lighted and partitioned off by fence-like gates, making about thirteen small apartments, which can be thrown into one by the removal of the gates. In each of these rooms, or wards, as the superintendent chooses to call them, are from one to five cats or dogs.

Misery makes strange bedfellows, and it is by no means unusual to place a cat and dog or two cats and one dog together. Indeed, the doctor says this arrangement is frequently the best, and more conducive to the health of the patient.

"For example," he said to the News inspector, "here are a dog and cat. They have been living together for eight months, and are as fond of each other as two such ascetic creatures can be. The dog, you see, is a fine 'coach,' which, by infusing energy into the operations of the stomach, promotes, nay, insures thorough digestion and assimilation, and consequent nutrition. A gain to appetite, vigor and flesh, is invariably found to follow in the course of this deservedly popular tonic which is, moreover, a reliable preventive of malarial fevers. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

"The dog exhibited the most intense sadness, and would not notice any of the other patients, and would seldom accept food, though I offered the most tempting dainties. The cat was the same way, only she seemed to have a thorough disgust for the society of other cats, and the only time she would ever give a show of spirit was when some other cat would come near her. Then she would curve her back in disdain, and, with a contemptuous hiss, walk away. It became evident that she was proud and felt herself above her companions. I concluded at last to try the dog, who was also a supercilious animal, and it was not long before the arrangement proved satisfactory. Disappointment in love, I imagine, is the cause of their sorrows. These haughty aristocrats get along well together, and I have hopes of bringing them out of their 'slough of despond.'"

"Where did you get them?" was the curious inquiry.

"The dog belongs to a wealthy and old New York family, and the cat is, or rather was, an inmate of the household of an aristocratic Baltimore maiden lady."

"Do you believe in class distinctions among animals?"

"Most assuredly. I have evidences of it all the time. Even under ordinary circumstances, you know, neither dogs nor cats fraternize. They are not gregarious animals, and solitude is preferred, as a rule, except where man is concerned. Over there, you see, is a cur dog. His life there is miserable in the extreme, but it can not be helped. All my other patients are blue-blooded, and ignore the vulgar antecedents of the cur. He does not seem to appreciate it much, as his sensibilities are not fine enough, and his want of cultivation prevents any annoying reflections which might be engendered by an injured amour propre. The only time he ever displays any consciousness of the insults hourly placed upon him is when that magnificent tortoise-shell cat you see over there visits her spite upon him.

"She is a high-toned cat, but mean as she can be and is always creating trouble by her meddlesome and swell-headed manners."

Just then the cat referred to came near, with a mincing gait. She was indeed a beautiful animal, all save the tail, which dragged on the floor, and was of unnatural size, and gave her the appearance of two cats joined together. At the first glance one would take her for a feline Siamese twin.

"She is suffering from elephantiasis," explained the doctor. "She not only has the big head, but the big tail, too. Yes, I am afraid she will die by becoming all tail. It is strange that the dog she despises so much should have an affliction the opposite from hers. He is slowly wasting away and is incurable. I would have him killed but for the fact his case is a peculiar one, and I desire to study it. He is afflicted with acute muscular atrophy, a disease not extraordinary in human beings. There is a gradual ossification of the muscles and a consequent loss of flesh. His food is not assimilated to the system, and he is rapidly becoming a dog skeleton. After a while he will be a good addition to the 'freaks' in the museums."

The doctor continued a very interesting narrative, explaining the diseases of the various animals under his care. There were about twenty in all, two-thirds of them dogs, embracing Newfoundlands, terriers, Skye, black-and-tan, and bull, and two Pomeranian or coach dogs. Four dogs and two cats had consumption, but the majority were suffering from disease brought on by accidents. One of the cats had no hair whatever, and was as bald as the most confirmed front-seat portion of the ballet. He was a funny sight, and was used by the convalescing patients, when in a good humor, as a roller-skating rink.—Philadelphia News.

Fits and Fits.

A tailor had been elected to the legislature and he felt his oats so considerably that he gave up his thimble and scissors. One day a gentleman went to see him about further legislation providing against certain evils existing under the very nose of the law.

"Can you do anything for us?" he asked after narrating the facts and animadverting upon the negligence of legislators.

"Certainly I can, sir."

"What will you do?"

"Do? Why, sir," he said, swelling himself up in a large manner, "I'll make a law that will fit the case exactly, sir; fit the case exactly."

"Well, I hope so, but I have my doubts."

"Doubts, sir? Why doubts?" he questioned with some show of feeling.

"Simply because I never knew of your making anything to fit before you went to the legislature, and I haven't heard of any improvement since."—Merchant Traveler.

Will McDonald, 2542 Dearborn St., Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Eczema on his face, from infancy, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, by which he was completely cured, after suffering for seventeen years; not able to walk except on hands and knees for one year; not able to help himself for two years; tried hundreds of remedies; doctors pronounced his case hopeless; permanently cured by CUTICURA RESOLVENT (blood purifier internally), and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP (the great skin cures) externally.

Chas. Houghton, Esq., lawyer, 28 State St., Boston, reports a case of Eczema under his observation for ten years, which covered the patient's body and limbs, and to which all known methods of treatment had been applied without benefit, which was completely cured solely by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, leaving a clean and healthy skin.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered untold tortures from Eczema, which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. After the most careful doctoring and a long series of physicians failed to relieve him, he used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and was cured, and has remained so to date.

Mr John Thiel, Wilkesbarre, Pa., writes: "I have suffered from Salt Rheum for over eight years, at times so bad that I could not attend to my business for weeks at a time. Three boxes of CUTICURA and four bottles RESOLVENT have entirely cured me of this dreadful disease."

Sold by all druggists. Price: CUTICURA, 50 cts.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25 cts. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

"Frozen Facts" is a purely American expression, and one, too, of recent origin. It has the merit of attracting attention, and also seems to bear conviction of truthfulness on its face. We make room in our issue of to-day, for a fact of this character. A correspondent, Henry Whiting, Esq., of Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. R. V. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my son of a fever-sore of two years standing. Please accept our gratitude." We believe it to be a fact, whether "frozen" or otherwise, that America needs more men like Mr. Whiting; men who act, men who investigate truths, and seize opportunities.

Howard Cooper, the negro charged with criminally assaulting Mrs. Katie Gray, April 2d, in Baltimore county, Md., was convicted May 20th. The penalty for that crime in Maryland is death, and it is believed that Cooper will hang, as the assault was particularly brutal and aggravated.

Your system is now more susceptible to the benefit of a reliable medicine than at any other season. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The widow of Max Hoffman, who was secretary of state in Indiana from 1869 to 1871, and who died in poverty after wrecking himself by dissipation, supports herself and her children by selling newspapers on the streets of Indianapolis.

Mr. A. Nichols, of this place, says he suffered from catarrh for years. He purchased a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm of us. He is now almost cured, and says you cannot recommend it too highly. We are selling more of Ely's Cream Balm than of all other catarrh remedies, can hardly keep a supply on hand.—Evers Bros., Druggists, Independence, Iowa.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Underwood of Burlington, Vt., has been taken to the Brattleboro' asylum. He has been deranged for some time. Formerly he was a leading railroad lawyer of that state.

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

Thomas Huston of Dixfield, Me., aged seventy, was found in a pig pen on the 19th inst., with his face mangled beyond recognition. He is supposed to have been prostrated by a paralytic shock.

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

Louise Morgan Simpson, six years old, the daughter of Capt. John Simpson, U. S. A., now stationed at San Antonio, Texas, earned $18 by doing fancy work, which she sold, and has sent the amount to the New York Tribune "Fresh-air fund."

Advice to Mothers.

If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

"De Mortuis Nil Nin Bonum."

We had supposed that this rule might apply in politics as in ethics. We had surmised that the democracy, who all along professed to believe that in the administration of naval affairs Mr. Chandler was not weak, but wicked, would be content to know that such alleged maladministration had come to an end, and as far as navy yards and navy contracts were concerned, everything from the advent of Mr. Cleveland's administration would be pure and honest.

Mr. Whitney, however, seems pregnant with the idea that his predecessor in office has been not only loose in his operations, but we fear the new secretary surmises ill behavior on the part of our New Hampshire ex-cabinet officer. One day we hear that the books and accounts for the past four years are being overhauled, another that the great outlay of $700,000 on the Mohican at Mare Island is being scrutinized, as if it did not cost money to keep a navy yard in California in operation. Again it is suggested that Mr. Roach's contract is not what it should have been; that the ex-secretary, with lawyer-like confidence in the integrity of his former client, may for the time being have forgotten that a change of relations had occurred, and have supposed that the Dolphin would have been completed, accepted and paid for ere he went out of office; and so there appears no end of the unfortunate suggestions which are poured into the ear of the present head of the navy, by men who have been held off at a distance or snubbed by the little secretary, by officers who fancy he was especially hard upon one set, or decidedly partial to another, and there is more criticism upon the navy department's operation under Mr. Chandler than upon all the other late cabinet officers, including the wearer of the white beaver from Philadelphia. Mr. Chandler, should he possess any ambition to become a public man, instead of filling the role of a public character, will doubtless court a thorough and searching investigation of his official career. If he has been honest and faithful in the administration of his office, the proper thing to see brought about is not an ex parte prying into his acts when the motives which may have induced them may be misunderstood, but a full and fair investigation of all and singular the alleged shortcomings, the mere mention of which has so paralyzed the democratic body politic and led the rank and file of the party to suppose there may have been something rotten in the state of Denmark.

At all events, should Mr. Whitney in his search after revelations of the nature referred to, find anything out of joint, let him pass it over. The people of New Hampshire will not quietly submit to have one of their public servants improperly accused or unjustly suspected of wrong actions, however apparent may have been his errors of judgment. In the mean time, Mr. Chandler, instead of being "amazed and alarmed" at Mr. Blair's public record, might perhaps read that passage of scripture which speaks of the party entitled to cast the first stone.

Offensive Partisanship.

Postmaster Palmer of Chicago was suspended by President Cleveland on account of his "offensive partisanship" as a republican, though his office was one of the best managed in the country. Judd, appointed in his place, during the just-ended struggle over the United States senatorship from Illinois has been at Springfield, the state capital, actively working to defeat Gen. Logan's re-election. In view of these facts it is surmised that the senate next winter may regard Mr. Judd's conduct as "offensive partisanship," and decline to confirm him.

The Central American War.

On Tuesday, May 19th, after five hours sanguinary fighting at the town of Armenia, in San Salvador, the Salvadorian army routed the revolutionists, and captured a large quantity of arms and two cannons. The revolutionists were led by Menendez, and the arms and guns captured were supplied him by Guatemala. Many prisoners were taken by the Salvadorians, who followed in hot pursuit of the retreating insurgents.

The War in the Northwest.

The French Canadians at Quebec say that Riel must not be hanged, and their chief organ, Le Canadien, is out in a strong article favoring magnanimous treatment of the vanquished, and searching investigation to ascertain their grievances.

News and Notes.

Frederick F. Frelinghuysen, one of the most prominent men in public affairs for many years, died at his home in Newark, N. J., May 20th. His public career was long and honorable; his last public position was as secretary of state in President Arthur's cabinet. He was a grandson of Gen. Frederick Frelinghuysen, of the revolutionary war, and a nephew of Theodore Frelinghuysen, who ran on the ticket with Henry Clay against Polk and Dallas.

In November last Sergeant-at-Arms Canaday of the senate and Architect Clark of the capitol, acting under a resolution of the senate, leased for one year, at $500 per month, Gen. Butler's house on Capitol hill, Washington, for committee rooms. Near the end of the last session the senate passed a resolution rescinding the resolution which authorized the leasing of the building, and Gen. Butler was notified that the government would terminate the lease. Gen. Butler, however, refused to receive the keys of the building, and has instructed his law-partner in Washington to hold the government for the full term of the lease.

Louis Francis, a Frenchman, was captured by a New York policeman at three o'clock in the morning on the 20th inst., carrying on his back the mutilated corpse of his wife, whom he had murdered by strangling because she allowed his pet dog to get lost. He was carrying her body to the river to throw it in when caught.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, May 21st, Mayor Page in the chair:

Present the full board except aldermen Coffin and Eldridge.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Applications of J. C. Brown for leave to open sewer on Court place, and of Lawrence K. Lydston to encumber High and Hanover streets for building purposes, were granted.

Request of H. W. Tarlton relative to sewer on State street was referred to committee on sewers.

Matter of making communication between police station and fire alarm battery room, for heating purposes, was referred to committee on city lands and buildings, with power.

Application of David H. Montgomery for widening of Cabot street was referred to committee on widening streets.

Resignation of Rev. John A. Goss as a member of the board of instruction was accepted, and Rev. Alfred Gooding was elected to fill the vacancy.

Capt. Marcy, T Salter Tredick, Esq., and Dr. Langdon were present in support of the proposal to widen Washington street near Court, and $200 was voted for that purpose.

Samuel P. Treadwell was appointed collector of taxes.

Question relative to sprinkling the streets was referred to the committee on streets.

The Common Council reported the passage of the appropriation bill, amended by the addition of $200 to the item for public library, making the appropriation for that purpose $1000. The amendment was concurred in by the aldermen.

Adjourned for two weeks.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Lizzie Guptill, Capt. Frank Smith, arrived at this port Thursday forenoon. 21st, with a cargo of 800 bbls. lime to J. Albert Walker, from Rockland, Me., on Saturday, the 16th. She had had the winds light and baffling, with some sea and much fog — the hardest chance Capt. Smith has had for some years.

The U. S. S. Omaha arrived at Newport, R. I., from this navy station, about seven o'clock in the evening on the 20th inst.

The steamer Three Brothers, Capt. Upton, arrived from Salem, Mass., early in the morning on the 21st inst., having in tow the water boat belonging to Mr. Symonds, whose dredging flotilla is now at work in Salem harbor. After berthing the water boat at Union wharf, the Three Brothers took in tow the scow Daisy, coal laden, and proceeded up river with her to Newmarket.

Music Hall.

The work of strengthening the trusses supporting the roof of Music Hall is now nearly completed. Our reporter called at the hall this forenoon to see how it had been done, to satisfy his own curiosity, and to obtain the facts in the case for publication as a matter of public interest. Five of the trusses, having shown a perceptible weakness, are now being strengthened by large and substantial turn-buckles connecting both sides of the building by well adjusted iron straps, each of which is equal to a tension strain of 100 tons. These five iron supports have been constructed in accordance with a most approved design by Mr. Sears of Boston, under the direction of Mr. Solomon Littlefield. They have been placed in position by Mr. Charles W. Stimson, who informs us that by applying the power obtained in the turn buckles, the truss strain upon the walls is entirely relieved. All those persons acquainted with mechanical matters who have seen this iron work as it is being placed in position are satisfied that it is amply secure and abundantly capable of having the desired effect.—Times.

The report on the production of ale and lager in the United States last year, presented at the Brewers' convention in New York, placed the total at 7,451,777 barrels, of which Frank Jones made 200,087, only six establishments in the country turning out more.

An Italian lady en route from New York to Saco to visit a relative in the latter city, passed through Portsmouth on Wednesday of this week. The native of sunny Italy eschewed parlor cars, and promenaded the way, stopping over night at Hotel Norton on Market square.

At the meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge of New Hampshire, held in Concord on Wednesday of this week, Col. John Pender of this city was appointed senior grand deacon.

Chief Marshal C. W. Tracy has appointed Mr. Oliver M. Knight as his chief of staff for Memorial day.

The members of Henry L. Richards Camp, Sons of Veterans, will meet at Grand Army hall on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, to attend divine service.

PER ORDER OF CAPTAIN.

Mr. Frank A. Foote, late of this city, has opened a restaurant and dining room in Saco. Mr. Foote was a favorite with a large circle of acquaintances in this city, and they will be glad to know of his successful entry into business. Portsmouth parties visiting Saco or Biddeford will of course give him a call.

Capt. J. A. Stover of Kittery has been elected on the board of directors of the New Hampshire iron works at Franconia, N. H.

Mr. David Rines, of South Berwick, left his home on Saturday, the 16th inst., to visit his mother at South Berwick Junction, and did certain errands for her, after which he started for home on the railroad track, and up to the evening of the 20th had not since been seen nor heard from, though parties of men had been searching the woods. He had just been paid off, and had considerable money.

The president has appointed Frank H. Pierce of this state to be United States consul at Matanzas, Cuba. Mr. Pierce is a nephew of the late President Pierce.

The horse railroad at Dover, two and one-quarter miles long, running from Sawyer's mills to Garrison hill, having proved successful, business men are now agitating its extension from Garrison hill to Great Falls, four miles. The cost would be about $25,000.

Michael Broadbent and Harry Glidden of Dover, who had a bare-knuckle fight on the 18th inst., were brought into the police court on the 20th, and both pleaded guilty to simple assault. The judge said that owing to the youth of the prisoners he would only fine them $5 and costs each.

"The United Service" for May has for a frontispiece a fine likeness of Gen. Grant, and a list of contents of absorbing interest, including "Something about Five Forks;" the concluding paper on "British military operation in the Egyptian Soudan," by Gen. Stone, (Stone Pasha,) late of the Egyptian service; a second paper on Madagascar, by Lieut. Shufeldt of the navy; a memoir of Commodore John Barry, senior officer of the United States navy from 1783 to 1803, by the late Rear Adm. Preble; two chapters of "One of the Duanes," a charming story by Alice King Hamilton; a paper on the Thirty Years' War, by J. Watt de Peyster, supplementary to his valuable series of articles on that subject; the usual summary of news, editorial notes, book reviews and notes on "service literature."

This magazine, which started out with good promise, has steadily improved in value, and there is rarely a number which does not contain some single article worth the price of a year's subscription. In the April number, for instance, was an account of the fight between the Monitor and the Merrimac, written by the late Comdr. S. Dana Greene—not a carefully prepared article written for the public eye, but a letter from the young officer, fresh from the fight, to his mother—which in our opinion is worth more than all the other stories of the fight we have seen, all put together. The United Service is published by T. H. S. Hamersly, New York, at $4 per annum.

Capt. Ingraham, of the steamer Cambridge, at Boston May 19th from Bangor, Me., reported that on the previous night, off Owl's Head, near Rockland, he collided with a small schooner, name unknown. The steamer's bulwarks were slightly damaged; damage to the schooner unknown, but thought to be slight. Capt. Ingraham states that the collision was due to the fact that the schooner carried no colored lights, and the intense darkness that prevailed. He states that a second before the collision the schooner hoisted a small white light, but too late. Complaints are continually being made by steamer captains that many vessels sail at night without lights, or in many cases have them so placed that they are very deceiving.

Out in Tennessee the democrats do not view the liquor question with the same complacency as they do in Iowa and Massachusetts. The prohibitionists there are demanding that the democrats shall adopt prohibition principles, or take the consequences; the "consequences" are, republican ascendency in the state. In Texas, too, the prohibitionists are threatening separate action politically, and the Texan papers deprecate any such movement as it would "imperil the integrity of the democratic party of Texas."

Hints to Hotel Guests.

The following notice is posted at one of the Nantasket hotels:

POINTERS FOR OUR PATRONS.

Hotel clerks are human beings and it pays to treat them as such.

Paste it in your hat that the people of the highest position and greatest importance, as a rule, make the least trouble.

It may seem an absurd proposition to some people, but hotel clerks really were not invented for the sole purpose of answering fooling questions.

It isn't the "loudest" or most lordly person who receives the greatest attention. Every hotel in the land has sheltered bigger men than you.

Don't spend half your time in trying to devise ingenious ways to make trouble for the servants, and the other half in making a row over your bill.

A little genuine civility to waiters and employes goes further than an attenuated "tip"—and further than a big "tip" with the politeness left out.

The hotel was not built for the express convenience and exclusive accommodation of any person. This is official and it will pay you to remember it.

There may be plenty of faults about the hostelry you honor with your presence, but don't make the mistake of trying to reform them. There is nothing in the constitution of the United States to force you to remain if you are not satisfied.

Fond of Prison Life.

Charles Langheimer, who was for over forty years an inmate of Cherry Hill prison, in Philadelphia, and during his imprisonment was made famous by Charles Dickens in his "American Notes," in many respects has his counterpart in the person of "Doc" Vanscoy, until a few days ago a convict in the Colorado penitentiary. Langheimer's cell was always left vacant during his discharge, for it was only a question of time when the old man, in later years known as "Dickens' Dutchman," would again be sentenced to another term of imprisonment. Vanscoy on last Friday finished serving out a three-years' term in the penitentiary at Canyon City for the crime of horse-stealing in Park county. Next day after his release he was again at his old trade of horse-stealing in Pueblo, where he had immediately gone after leaving prison, and now Vanscoy is confined in jail at Pueblo, awaiting trial on the charge.

Vanscoy is a man about 50 years of age, and has for seventeen years been confined in the penitentiaries of various states. His hair has become gray, but he shows no other signs that his prison life has been detrimental to his welfare. He is a man of unusually large proportions. He has the form of an alderman in prosperity, and strides his cell and the prison walls with as much dignity as a banker behind his counter. He is jovial, keeps well informed by reading the newspapers and is a man universally known in the prison. He says he gets into prison because he likes it better than "roughing it" on the outside.

He has served sentences at Sing Sing, New York, Columbus, Ohio, Jackson, Mich., and at a half-dozen other penitentiaries. Horse-stealing is his principal mania, and, like Charles Langheimer, "Dickens' Dutchman," he is no sooner released than he is imprisoned on a similar offense. It is natural for him to steal. With him it is a kind of mania. The experience of seventeen years in various state prisons has not in the least quieted his kleptomaniac tendencies.

Over 200 Per Cent. Profit.

As the crowd of passengers on the early morning trains come surging down Park row from the City Hall elevated station, the familiar cry of the street-venders scattered along at short intervals attracts very little attention. An old man with a voice which dies away in a sweet cadence, sings out: "Fine leather shoe-strings, five cents a pair." He has stood there for years and offered for sale nothing but long leather shoe-strings. He pays a license to peddle on the streets and has a right to select his locality.

"How is the shoe-string business now?" asked a Mail and Express reporter of the old man.

"Not so good as it was ten years ago. Too many button and elastic-fastened shoes are made nowadays. Poor people are getting high toned and wear button shoes. Times are said to be hard, sir, but I manage to live well and support my family."

"Then you must sell a great many pairs of shoe-strings a day and make large profits?"

"Well, no; I don't sell so many, but my profits are large. I buy the strings by the wholesale and make over 200 per cent. on them. I don't have to pay any clerk hire, gas-bills, or rent; everything is clean, clear profit. Some rainy days I don't sell any, but on fair days I make up generally. Saturday afternoon is my best day."—New York Mail and Express.

Female Plumbers.

A book has recently been published in which it is said that the author advocates the right and duty of admitting women to the plumbing as well as the medical profession. It is proper that women should study medicine in order to be able to take care of their own health and that of others of their sex it is equally proper that women should study plumbing in order to protect the health of members of their own household. Doubtless this idea will meet with favor among progressive women, and before long we shall have female students of plumbing as well as female students of medicine.

There is no insuperable physical obstacle in the way of the practice of plumbing by women. A woman could call at the house where pipes are frozen, and inform the household of her inability in the theory that frost will freeze water pipes almost as well as a man could accomplish the same feat. She could send an assistant female plumber to the shop for tools; she could go home to dinner as soon as the tools arrived, and later in the day she could tear up the floor in the bathroom, and break the plastering in a businesslike way. The matter of "wiping a joint," or of soldering a faucet is not beyond the physical ability of woman, although, of course, she would burn her fingers and set the house on fire with greater ease than a man. She could not take longer to do a job than does the male plumber, and in all probability she would be less densely ignorant of all the laws of hygienic plumbing.

Still, a woman could not be a successful plumber, for the reason that no person possessed of less than $1,000,000 could afford to employ her. Woman has far more imagination than man, and in making out a plumber's bill she would give free run to her imagination. Already the bills of plumbers represent the highest flights of the masculine imagination, but they would be left far behind by the bills of female plumbers. The male plumber has in his opinion, reached the utmost limits in the invention of items with which to swell his bill, but he still adheres to the rules of arithmetic and adds up his columns correctly. The woman who can add up a column of figures correctly has not yet appeared, for the feminine conception of the sum of twelve and fifteen is thirty-six. In other words, a woman adding up a column makes the result at least one-fourth greater than it should be. A woman could take the bill of items presented by a male plumber, and by simply adding the items together could increase the total amount fully one-fourth. It is this peculiarity of the feminine intellect that will ever prevent women from succeeding as plumbers, for the feminine plumbing bill would in all cases be so enormous that a householder, sooner than run the risk of having it presented to his wife, would tear up all his water-pipes and substitute beer for water, both as a beverage and as a means of cleanliness.—N. Y. Times.

Little children ask queer questions sometimes. A bright little boy about 3½ years old to whom his mother had on several occasions repeated the Lord's Prayer surprised her by asking one day: "Mamma, what is God's other name? Is it God Hallowed?" This same little fellow wants to know "if the birds take off their feathers when they go to bed."—New Orleans Picayune.

Irish wit never found happier expression than in the following, which we have just received from the Soudan by private wire: An Irish soldier was bringing in an Arab prisoner, when the latter said: "You blow Arab man's head off, I suppose?" "Faix," replied the soldier as he wiped the perspiration off his brow, "I'd rather blow the head off a pot of porter this minute than the heads of half a dozen of the likes of ye."

Its effect is magical, is what all those say who try St. Jacobs Oil for pains.

By the giving way of a scaffold at the new postoffice building in Baltimore, Md., May 20th, seven men were precipitated to the ground, a distance of seventy feet. John Rogers was killed, Geo. W. Miller fatally injured, and the five others hurt more or less seriously, but not fatally.

My wife used DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR with great relief; it is the only relief from heart disease. I cheerfully recommend it.—J. B. Miller, P. M., Mulberry Grove, Ill. $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

Missed His Connection.

Our friend and former townsman, Col. William A. Cromwell of South Berwick, Me., is one of the returned pilgrims who has visited Washington on a political mission, but finds it more to his taste to continue to hug the Lake Shore.

Cromwell relied on the fact that in the busy times of twenty years or less ago he was the industrious man in the office of the fourth auditor of the treasury, and had been the chairman of the democratic committee in Mr. Blaine's state when it cost a man some effort to resist the personal magnetism of the Maine statesmen, and further, upon his acknowledged business qualifications, to be selected for the place. It is even hinted that he was endorsed by Mr Frank Jones, but whether it was anything more than in a general way it doth not become us, who are not conducting the obsequies, to conjecture, much less to divulge.

Howbeit, Mr. Cromwell, armed with his credentials and certificates of orthodoxy, visited the president. It is needless to remark that Cromwell's language is eloquence itself. Mr. Cleveland was charmed. Dan Lamont said confidentially, afterward, that in his statement of the case "he scalped all competitors." But it didn't work. All our Quanphegan friend could get from Cleveland, as he chewed the end of a cigar (from a box sent him by Mr. Ward after the appointment of our new postmaster) in a dry smoke, was—

"Cromwell, I charge thee, fling away ambition."

The versatile and too-confiding chairman of the unterrified hosts of Maine saw at once that this meant that he was to remain among the offensive partisans in the outs, and not to share in the honors of the auditorship. He returned to his hotel, settled his bill, drank a glass of Appolinaris and was soon seen at the B. & P. station with the evident intent of making close connection with the east, the land of hope, and fleeing from Washington, the land of disappointment.

Our rotund and rubicund ex-townsman can now be seen on any day at his old post of duty,—shall we not say honor? at the Washington street side of the Old State House in Boston. Over the entrance to his office reads a new sign—

"Emi petit placidam sub libertate quietum."

Which a former student of South Berwick academy writes is Cromwell's new motto, and means

"He sought an office in the treasury,
But has a quiet place in the Old State House."

Several Cambridge scholars will endeavor to have the legislature enact that this shall be the English of the sign. In the meantime, the stock of the Lake Shore has gone up in the market as soon as it was learned that Cromwell was to remain at the old stand, Mr. Vanderbilt has skipped over to Europe in the expectation of increased receipts, and the New York & New England passenger agent still continues to furnish transportation between the Atlantic and the Pacific, at the lowest rates consistent with the rules of the pool. Thus what is the loss to the general government, becomes the gain of those who go west by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway.

The War in the Northwest.

A despatch of the 22d from Battleford, Northwest territory, says Chief Poundmaker has sent in a flag of truce, along with the captured teamsters, two women, a priest, and a scout previously reported killed, and asked for terms of surrender.

Another Death Trap.

In Cincinnati, May 21st, fire broke out on the second floor of Sullivan & Co.'s printing establishment, being caused by the explosion of a can of benzine near the elevator, up which the flame and smoke shot to the roof. The only stairs wound round and round the elevator well, and were instantly rendered impassible, the escape of the girls employed in the printing office and in two dye houses which were also in the building, being thus cut off. The mass of telephone and telegraph wires prevented the firemen raising their ladders readily, and though the fire was quickly extinguished the loss of life was appalling. Eight girls and women, and one man, jumped from the fifth story windows, six of the women and the man being killed, and the others terribly injured. Ten girls were suffocated in the building, among them being twin sisters named Dollie and Lizzie Handel, and three daughters of a Mrs. Leaton.

News and Notes.

Pennsylvania has another new kind of disease, which broke out at Paris Roads, eighteen miles from Pittsburg, a few days ago. In one family alone there have been five deaths, and the mother is insane. Eight persons have died, and eight more are sick. The local physicians have refused to attend the patients, and Steubenville physicians are there. The disease is spreading rapidly, and all cases prove fatal.

At Pittsburg, Pa., May 21st, while Frank Babbet, aged sixteen, was playing with a little four-years-old girl named Lizzie Lippech, at the latter's home, he suddenly drew a revolver and fired, killing her instantly. He then fired at Mrs. Lippech, but she ran from the room and was not hit. The murderer then shot himself twice, and fell dead near the little girl's body. No cause for the crime is stated, but the dime novel, "boy's story paper" and "illustrated police news" were probably the incentive.

At Meriden, Conn., May 21st, a number of families were poisoned by eating cream cakes. Rev. A. T. Randall (Episcopal) and wife, three children of Robert Bowman, Chester Lombra and wife, the latter's sister and her daughter are among the victims. In the case of Mr. and Mrs. Lombra and the three Bowman children their condition is very serious and fatal results are feared. The cakes were made by a local baker, who protests that they were made after the usual formula. They will be analyzed.

Mrs. Lavis E. Hill reported to the city marshal of Dover, last Thursday forenoon, that Hiram Bean, recently a prominent salvation army officer, went into her house on the previous Wednesday morning while she was in bed, stole more than $40 and some jewelry, and skipped. A warrant was sworn out, and the police commenced their search for the warrior.

David Rines, who disappeared from his home in South Berwick on Saturday, the 16th inst., was forty-five years old, married, and with a family. He worked Saturday in the shoe shop where he had been employed, and in the evening purchased seven 22-calibre cartridges. On the 19th and 20th parties from the shoe shop were searching the woods near the Junction, where he formerly lived, in the expectation of finding his dead body, suicide being supposed.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Damon Lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias, was visited on the evening of the 19th inst. by three officers of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire, K. of P., namely: Dr. C. B. Nichols of Franklin Falls, grand chancellor; Frank J. Pillsbury of Concord, grand keeper of records and seals; Herman Manson of Portsmouth, grand prelate. The exemplification of the work was satisfactory, and after its conclusion an oyster supper was served.

The officers of Damon Lodge are as follows: E. T. Furbish, past chancellor; John Parkin, chancellor commander; Stephen B. Yeaton, vice chancellor; William C. Laws, prelate; Thornton Betton, keeper of records and seals; Andrew P. Wendell, master of the exchequer; John K. Simpson, master of finance; William P. Pickett, master at arms; George H. Sanderson, inside guardian; James O. Spinney, outer guardian. The lodge is reported in a flourishing condition.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Mr. Edgar Robinson of New York city, who with his wife has been stopping in this city for some weeks, first at the Kearsarge house, and latterly at Mr. Charles H. Hutchins' on State street, died on Thursday evening from an overdose of morphine, presumably taken to relieve the pains of heart disease, to which he was subject. He and his wife returned from a drive to Dover at about 9:30 o'clock, and Mr. Robinson, complaining of a severe pain in the region of the heart, went to his room; shortly afterward his wife heard him groaning, and on entering the room found him with his teeth clenched, he having taken a large overdose of morphine. Doctors Sherburne and Potter were summoned, but death quickly ensued.

The deceased was about thirty-five years old, well educated, speaking three or four languages fluently, and was connected with a Philadelphia paper. He was a member of Samaritan Lodge of Masons, of Phelps, N. Y., and has a brother in Haverhill, Mass., to which place his remains will be taken for interment. It is said his father was a Greenland man, and his mother a native or Exeter or one of the adjacent towns. He passed the summer at the Isles of Shoals a few years ago, in the interest of a metropolitan paper.

NAVY YARD REFORM.

A Washington despatch of the 21st inst. says: "Secretary Whitney proposes a complete reorganization of the navy yards. He will personally make a thorough inspection of the eastern yards, and will also examine the systems employed in the large private ship yards with a view to finding out the organization best adapted to most efficient and economical management. He finds the present system is expensive and cumbrous; that work and duties are duplicated, requiring two sets of bosses and workmen to accomplish the same purpose. He will make the management of the yards simpler and cheaper, and will avoid evils which have made the department the synonym for inefficiency and wastfulness.

He also intends to investigate the expenditures for the repairs of the Omaha. The Omaha has been undergoing repair and reconstruction since 1881 at the Portsmouth navy yard. The bills, as appear from the books of the department, amount to $546,208. The Omaha is a wooden vessel. She left the Portsmouth navy yard on May 18th to be inspected at Newport, and is now ready for sea. The secretary has ordered her to proceed to New York. He has also ordered the naval constructor who had charge of the hull, and the engineer in charge of the repairs of machinery, to go to the same place. It is his purpose to ascertain what repairs and reconstruction of the Omaha cost $546,208."

Secretary Whitney has also ordered an investigation into the manner in which from $850,000 to $900,000 has been spent in repairing the Mohican at the Mare island navy yard, where she has been since 1872.

MARITIME NOTES.

The Omaha arrived in New York on Friday forenoon at eleven o'clock, having left Newport, R. I., at two P. M. the previous day. It is reported that there is to be an investigation into the cause of her grounding on Long point, Provincetown, where she put in on her way from this port to Newport.

The steam yacht "Leether," which started from this port for Boston early in the morning on the 20th inst., arrived there early in the afternoon of the same day, making the run in about ten hours.

The British schooner Arizona arrived at this port on the 19th inst., and the Dahlia, Ocean Belle and Pleasantville (also British) on the 22d; the last named is from La Have, Nova Scotia, and the other three from Bridgewater, N. S., all bringing ties to the Boston & Maine railroad.

SUMMER DRINKS.

Mr. Charles E. Boynton, who for thirteen years has to a large extent supplied the people of this vicinity with light drinks such as lager, cider, soda and mineral waters, tonic, birch, strawberry, pine apple, ginger and lemon beers, of quality unsurpassed and at as reasonable rates as a good and wholesome article could be furnished for, is still running the manufactory and bottling establishment on Bow street, and his teams delivering articles ordered for families, hotels or stores. His reputation is well established, and there is no deterioration in his goods. The lager bottled by him is the product of Milwaukee and the Eldredge brewery, the latter being preferred by very many connoisseurs, and the porter is the excellent article of the Portsmouth Brewing Co. The light drinks, made by him, are equal to any manufactured.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Since the departure from the navy yard of the U. S. S. Omaha, the rigger's and sailmaker's gangs in equipment department have each been reduced to three men and an apprentice, this force in each case including the foreman, reduced to a first class mechanic. The force of three men in the equipment store is kept on, to take the inventory ordered by Sec. Whitney, but their pay has been cut down.

Naval Constructor Thomas E. Webb and Chief Engineer William B. Brooks left the navy yard on Friday for Washington, in accordance with orders from the navy department, to give information as to the expenditure of $545,208 in the reconstruction of the Omaha.

Mr. John J. Laskey, the new chief clerk in the postoffice, seems to have promptly and successfully mastered the intricacies of his new position, which he shows himself abundantly competent to fill. Mr. Laskey is a good accountant and a correct business man, and Mr. Gerrish has shown excellent discrimination in selecting him for the position. The administration of the affairs of the office seems to be conducted by the new officials to the entire satisfaction of the public. In postoffices, the insatiable patrons care but little who fill the places, but the service must be always prompt, efficient and courteous, or the officials will hear a constant criticism and a continued complaint.

A family of Gypsies, consisting of two men, a woman and numerous small children, and occupying a large covered wagon, have been encamped on Middle road, near the Plains, for two or three days this week. Thursday afternoon the woman was hard at work washing, one small girl was tending a little baby, and the two men were lying in the sun by the stone wall, watching their horse feeding on the grass.

The "Great Miratorium" of the late civil war, claimed to be the largest painting in the world, will be on exhibition in Franklin theatre all next week.

Commodore Lewis Holmes has hoisted the broad pennant of his yacht fleet at the rendezvous on Commercial wharf.

Hon. Frank Jones and Col. Charles A. Sinclair have been in New York this week in attendance upon the convention of the Brewers' Association of the United States. The brewers assert that in the matter of licences and other fiscal matters, there should be a separation between malt and ardent liquors.

Mr. William Marvin has moved with his family to Newcastle, intending to reside there permanently.

Osgood Lodge, I. O. O. F., gave a grand closing entertainment on Thursday evening last at Odd Fellows' hall, complimentary to the Osgood Dramatic club. There was a large attendance of the brethren and their ladies, and the exercises were of much interest, not the least attractive number on the programme being the excellent and abundant supper.

Besides the bill-boards mentioned by us a day or two since as having just been put up or extended, there is one on Noble's island, and the biggest one of all around the old gravel pit on the corner of Middle and Wibird streets.

There will be an address delivered in the North church, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, to Storer Post, G. A. R., the Woman's Relief Corps and the Sons of Veterans, by Rev. W. A. McGinley; the public generally are invited. In the morning, by request, Mr. McGinley will repeat his Fast day discourse, "Christ's Bible."

Asst. Engr. F. B. Randal, U. S. R. M., of this city, has been detached from duty and placed on waiting orders.

T. E. Moseley & Co., of No. 469 Washington street, Boston, carry an immense stock of American, French and English foot-wear, in such variety of pattern and style that it is hardly possible that any desired kind of boot or shoe should not be found there. Tennis, base-ball, cricketing and yachting shoes, French-heeled affairs, "common-sense" bootsand shoes with wide soles and low heels, and Waukenphast's celebrated English goods, are all kept in stock, and men, women, boys, girls and babies can all be fitted with just what they want in that line, and at reasonable prices.

Tenney, the artist, is in Philadelphia, painting the portrait of Hon. E. Ashton Rollins.

The members of Henry L. Richards Camp, Sons of Veterans, will meet at Grand Army hall on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, to attend divine service.

HE FELL IN THE STREETS

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is thought and attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed minor age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable remedy for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the world to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work I felt my loins suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was stretched and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persisted with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I can well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an invaluable friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

A French Canadian family in Lewiston recently contracted smallpox from Montreal. The case was discovered on the 20th inst., and the whole family taken to the hospital.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

The clerks of the New Haven, Conn., postoffice presented a piece of statuary to postmaster N. D. Sperry when he recently retired from office to make way for a democrat.

Housekeepers are cautioned against vile counterfeits on JAMES PYLE'S celebrated Pearline, with names of a similar sound, and in packages of a similar shape. Pearline is the only safe article to make washing easy, quick and cheap.

The Confederate Soldiers' Home at Richmond, Va., was opened May 20th.

Experience Taught Me.

And my money paid for it. After having Liver Complaint four years, and spending money on nostrums and doctors who didn't help me, I tried Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. I shall always use them.—G. N. Butler, Cohoes, New York.

The solid south is in the side-saddle, says the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, because the new postmasters in that region are mostly women.

Tens of Thousand Colds

Lead to consumption, fevers, settled coughs, asthma, bronchistis, croup, whooping cough, etc. Immediate relief by Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer.

A democratic postmaster in Michigan, who has just been appointed, immediately started a reform by hanging out the sign, "Look your own stamps."

Mothers, teething and fretful children need Dr. Arnold's Soothing & Quieting Cordial. Druggists 25c.

Norman H. Camp, superintendent of the assay office at Boise City, Idaho, is reported as an absentee. A shortage of $12,478 has been found in his accounts.

Physic is necessary at times for biliousness, costiveness, etc. Use Dr. Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

During a quarrel at New Straitsville, Ohio, May 21st, Marshal Aner was fatally shot by Albert Guest. A stray bullet fired by Guest struck a boy also, inflicting a fata. wound. Guest was arrested, but a mob of 200 masked men broke into the jail that night, took him out and lynched him.

BEWARE OF FRAUDS.—Be sure you get the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It cures colds, coughs, asthma, deafness and rheumatism.

The Mexican General Carbo had a bloody engagement with the Yaquis Indians on the 21st inst., in which fifty-seven Mexicans were killed and many wounded. The stronghold of the Yaquis was captured. Their loss is unknown.

How many people say: "your plaster beats everything I ever tried." The Hop Plaster really cures backache, stitch, sciatica, lame side or hip, or pains in any part. The best porous plaster known. 25c.

Jim Haggart, a man who acted as a decoy to draw the attention of the Brooklyn bridge police while Robert E. Odlum climbed to the top of the railing and made his fatal leap, has been held to answer for conduct tending to incite a breach of the peace, aiding Odlum to commit an act endangering the latter's life, and carrying concealed weapons. The autopsy showed that three of Odlum's ribs were broken, and his spleen, liver and kidneys badly ruptured, by the force with which he struck the water.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or pale-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

"Mothers Should Note This."

Under this caption an old physician writes to a Cincinnati medical journal, that in view of the fact that people living at a distance from cities are frequently obliged to resort to cough mixtures already put up for use, they should provide themselves with only such remedies as are known to be free from opiates, poisons and narcotics; thus avoiding not only danger, but even fatal results. He recommends the recently discovered Red Star Cough Cure which analyses and tests by various boards of health proved to be purely vegetable as well as prompt, effective and entirely harmless.

Frank Grover of Rochester, a fireman on the Nashua & Rochester railroad, was run over May 22d by an engine, the driver passing over his leg near the body. The accident will probably prove fatal.

I am using Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator with great results; had heart disease for nine years, so bad could not lie down. John McGuff, Pike Station, O. The Heart Regulator cures all forms of heart disease, nervousness and sleeplessness. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

Joseph Lacasse, employed by the Great Falls Manufacturing company, fell two stories through an elevator well on the 22d inst., breaking his arm and receiving severe internal injuries, which it is thought will prove fatal.

BOURBON WHISKEY is a necessity in every household. A really reliable brand may be found in the "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon," bottled by Messrs. C. H. Graves & Sons, of Boston, and to be obtained in bottles only, bearing their signature over each cork, from leading grocers and druggists everywhere.

Giles Wheeler has been appointed superintendent of construction of the government building in Concord, vice Nahum Robinson, resigned.

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

The Coming Election of Senator.

The long-delayed election of United States senator in Illinois seems providentially to have at last been achieved.

The attention of every one interested in these contests, now turns to New Hampshire. The question is asked daily, not who will be chosen senator in June, but will the republican members of the legislature, with a view to a short and decisive action in this respect, properly and promptly make a nomination and ratify it by an election. The feeling all over the state seems to be that any repetition of the absurd course of action at the last session should, by all means, be avoided. The only fair and judicious mode of action, it would seem, must be achieved by a caucus of the republicans, at which the candidate receiving a manifest preference over his competitors, shall be the candidate to be voted for at the election in the legislature. Individual preferences should give way to the expressed desire of the major part of the members, and there can be no fairer or better way than a predetermination of the candidate by proper caucus action.

The members of the legislature who two years ago failed to early and properly agree upon a candidate and support him by their votes, added nothing to their reputation as republicans, their record as representatives of the people of the state, or the estimate in which they were held by their constituents. In positions like these, members much postpone their private ambition, and consider their duty to their party and the country. The republicans have such a majority in the legislature that the frittering away of the time of the session and increasing the expenses to the state by a needless delay, will be chargeable to them by their opponents, and justly too. Let us hope then, that the gentlemen who at the assembling of the legislature take upon themselves the oath of office, with its consequent obligations, will remember that they have been selected to serve the state, not themselves, in these positions. The people will be impatient of any delay of the public business which may be postponed that some would-be candidate may take the possible chances of an election when all others fail. It is as true now as ever before, that the republican party is of more consequence than any one of its members. The proper course for the republican legislators is to early designate their candidate according to the custom so long observed in our state, and when fairly nominated let him be heartily and honorably supported on the day designated for the election. The evil of any other course than this should not be reproduced.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

A CIRCUS AT HALF PRICE.

It is now some thirty years since Mr. Hyatt Frost advanced the price of admission to the Van Amburgh show from a quarter to a half dollar. As Mr. Frost admits, one reason for the increase was the large expenditures in advertising the show; little by little they had grown to extravagant figures, rendering it necessary to add to the price of admission. The expenses were greater, but the show was no better. In equipping the establishment for its sixty-fourth tour, Manager Frost associated himself with the Reiche Brothers, the famous wild beast importers. This new alliance permitted him to collect the menagerie at first cost. In the advertising department he is assisted by a practical working staff. The usual vehicles for communicating the coming of the show to the public will be judiciously employed, but without wasteful extravagance. Predicating his receipts upon full houses at all performances, the price of admission has been placed at twenty-five cents, and we venture to remark that at this reasonable price there will be a less number of fathers to sneak alone to the show to see the bold riders and hear the funny clowns, leaving their children at home. In our opinion the veteran showman has not counted without his host, and Van Amburgh, Charles Reiche & Brother, will be welcomed here on Saturday, May 30th, by those who will enjoy the circus and menagerie all the better from the fact that it is A 1 in every respect, but at the same time only "half price all 'round."

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Sinbad, which arrived on Friday, the 22d inst., from Rondout, N. Y., with cement, was towed out on Saturday by the Clara Batemen, bound for Belfast, Me.; also the British schooner Arizona, bound for a Nova Scotia port. The brick schooner Gold Hunter arrived from Boston on Saturday, and the D. K. Ham and Triton, loaded and bound for Boston, were in the lower harbor, where also were about fifteen westward-bound lumber schooners.

The schooner Satellite, Aderton master, from Boston, arrived in the lower harbor on Friday, and sailed the same day for Cape Neddick to O. F. Philbrick & Co.

NEWINGTON.

The church here has extended a call to Rev. Mr. Thompson of Acton, Me., to become their pastor for one year commencing the first of June. The church has been without a settled pastor during the past year, and the pulpit has been supplied in the afternoon by Rev. Edward Robie of Greenland.

The trustees of the "Rollins Fund" have finally decided on a plot for the new parsonage, by accepting the lot of land belonging to the town which they voted to sell at the recent town meeting, for that purpose. Already nearly one thousand dollars have been raised by subscription for this good cause, which, together with the sum left by the late Lydia Rollins, will afford a nice building that will ever be an honor to the town. Ground will soon be broken for the cellar, and it is expected the building will be completed before winter.

A wooden building two stories high and ninety feet long is being erected by Dr. Langdon at his farm at Fox point, to be used as a bowling alley below, with five sleeping rooms above.

The insurance business heretofore carried on by the late F. W. de Rochemont will be continued by Clarence M. de Rochemont, a son of the deceased.

CITIZEN.

The Portsmouth high school nine went to Dover last Friday, to play a game of base ball with the Dover high school nine, the contest resulting in a victory for the Dover boys by a score of twenty-seven to ten. The Democrat of that day reports that "Six young men from Portsmouth coming up to see the game were thrown out of their carryall this afternoon on Central avenue, and were all more or less scratched. The carryall was also injured." The Portsmouth boys were evidently unlucky all around.

The last time Barnum exhibited his "greatest show on earth" in this city was July 14th, 1876, nine years ago.

Mrs. Ely, widow of Charles Ely, died on the 11th inst. at her residence in New York city. She was a daughter of the late Col. Timothy Upham of this city, who was appointed major of the 12th Infantry in 1812, promoted to lieutenant colonel of the 21st Infantry in 1813, and mustered out with his command in 1815, being afterward collector of customs for the port of Portsmouth. The remains of Mrs. Ely were taken to West Springfield, Mass., for interment.

Mr. John McEvoy left this city Sunday afternoon for Springfield, Missouri, where he will be engaged in business. He was escorted to the depot by the Sagamore Camping & Hunters' Club, of which he is a member.

Persons having flowers to contribute for the decoration of the graves of the soldiers and sailors of the union, are notified that they will be gratefully received on Friday or early on Saturday morning, at the court house.

The Young People's Association of the North church will have a drive up through Newington and Greenland, following the river and bay as much as the roads will allow, on Wednesday, starting at 2:30 o'clock P. M., and arriving at Stratham hill about five o'clock. There a picnic supper will be had, the party returning by moonlight in the evening.

The veterans of Storer Post, G. A. R., to the number of nearly ninety, attended the special service in the North church on Sunday afternoon. The Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans also attended, and also many persons belonging to neither of the organizations named.

The Dover Democrat of the 22d inst. reports the presence in that city of Mrs. John J. Pickering and Hon. T. E. O. Marvin, in the interest of the anti-cruelty society.

John Lear, formerly of this city, who was some little time ago sent to jail in Dover in default of $200 bonds for his appearance before the supreme court in September on a charge of keeping liquor for sale, was brought into court at his own request on Friday last, pleaded guilty to the charge, and was fined $50 and costs, which he will board out in jail. When he was committed for trial he left his house in care of two women, and on going there Friday he found about everything had been removed. Warrants for the arrest of the women were placed in the hands of City Marshal Fogerty of Dover, who came to Portsmouth, and aided by City Marshal Norton found the women and took them back to Dover, where they were each fined $5 and costs in the police court Saturday morning.

Rev. James DeNormandie of Boston Highlands will preach in the Unitarian church in this city next Sunday, morning and evening.

Mr. George Stott, who came out of the war of the rebellion unharmed after doing his country good service as a brave soldier, at the restoration of peace went into business in this city, in which he still continues. The late Jeremiah Young, for some years agent of the Portsmouth Steam Mills, in searching for skilled workmen for the cotton mills then just starting at Ballardvale, Mass., found Mr. Stott, then a young man but an experienced cotton spinner, at Manchester, England, and induced him to come to the United States; and after remaining two years at Ballardvale with Mr. Young, he accompanied that gentleman to this city. They embarked for this country in 1844 on board the ship Susannah Cummings, which was built some years previous by the late George Raynes for Messrs. Coues & Goodwin of this city, and George B. Cummings, a noted cotton merchant of Savannah, Ga. The ship was commanded by Capt. Emerson of York, Me.; James Newberry, long since deceased, was first officer, and Thomas A. Harris, (since captain,) then a very young man for so responsible a position, which however he showed himself abundantly qualified to fill, was second officer.

VIATOR.

Sunday was very pleasant in the early part of the day, and many pedestrians were out in the surrounding country. The wind varied from south to southeast, and about three o'clock in the afternoon a thick fog came in from seaward, bringing with it the sound of the Whalesback fog-horn.

The Dover papers of last Friday published what seemed a rather "thin" story of a highway robbery committed in that city on the afternoon of the previous day, a Gonic man being stopped on Broadway between four and five o'clock by a burly-looking fellow who demanded his money, and who was accompanied by another apparently hard citizen. The Gonic man handed over a pocket-book containing $55, and the highwayman handed back $15, saying $40 was enough for him. This magnanimity so dazed the Gonic man that he did not report the robbery till next day. The story seemed a queer one; but from descriptions given, the Dover police on Friday arrested Thomas Ryan for complicity in the crime, and on Friday evening a Dover officer arrived in this city in search of Anson Niles, alias Rattlesnake, who was soon found by the Portsmouth officers, arrested, and sent back to Dover.

We have seen Gen. Samuel D. Leavitt's name mentioned in connection with the office of collector of the port of Eastport. Every one on the coast, from Kittery Point to Quoddy head, will admit that the noble general is just the man to stand on the frontier and protect the revenue from the illicit commerce of the Provinces, which seek to flood the temperance state of Maine with foreign liquors and imported luxuries free of duty. The general is a time-honored democrat, and if fitness is to be taken into account by the president, and the recent raid of the Maine democrats will result in the best man being preferred, Sam will be selected. As the first representative of the administration to be met by those coming from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia the general would fill the bill. We really have no voice in this matter; still, on general principles, we are for Sam, every time.

The steamship City of Berlin arrived at New York on the 23d inst. with her bowsprit and headgear gone and bow stove in nearly down to the water line, having run into an iceberg on the morning of the 19th, in a dense fog and with engines at half speed. A mass of ice weighing many tons fell on the forecastle deck, and went through into the hold, but no one was hurt. There were 1423 persons on board the steamer.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know by my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done for others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

Andrew Jackson's Home.

The proposition which has been made, and which is now before the legislature, to tender the Hermitage farm, a first-class tract of some 500 acres, the property of the state of Tennessee, to the United States government, for the purpose of having built thereon a home for the soldiers of the war of 1812, the Floridian war, the Mexican war, and all wars prior to the late Confederate war, is now before the Tennessee legislature.

The other day a legislative committee went out to the Hermitage to "spy out" the property, and their arrival and their presence quite completely broke up the quiet colored people located on "old marster's farm."

They came to town to see Gov. Bate about it. They had heard that the farm was to be sold, and its occupants turned out to shift elsewhere. The speaker of the delegation was Uncle Alfred Jackson, now 82 years old, one of Gen. Jackson's old-time servants. He was in great trouble. He said to the governor:

"Gin'l Bates, I done heard dat you're gwine to turn all us old Jackson niggers out, and I come here for to find out about it."

"Pshaw, Alfred! Somebody has been fooling you," said Gov. Bate. "Don't trouble yourself; go home and rest contented. You can live at the Hermitage a long time yet, and I will see that you are not disturbed."

The old darky took the governor's assurance with such good grace, and seemed so well satisfied with the turn things had taken, the World reporter ventured to pump him as to Gen. Jackson's peculiarities.

"Uncle Alfred," said the reporter, "wasn't the general pretty high-tempered!"

"Well, young marster, dat depins on de circumstances. He wouldn't allow no man for to cry him down. He were jokey and full of fun, but whenever he said 'By the eternals God!' den everybody knowed just what he said."

"Dis here statue out dar," said Uncle Alfred, pointing to the bronze general rampant, "dis here statue looks like him about the head and face, but de one at New Orleans is de best. I was dar at home when Mr. Healey and Col. Earle painted de portraits of de general."

"And you remember their visits?"

"Ob course I dose. I ain't lived wid any odder white people. I were born at de Hermitage in 1803, and I were 12 years old when old marster left Nashville for to fight de battle of der New Orleans. I remember when old marster died in 1845, for I wer standin' right dar longside of his bed. He wer de greatest man what ever lived; everybody said so, and all of his black people believed it."—Nashville World.

The Mecca of a Mother.

It may be only a Barlow knife with a rusty blade and a broken point, or it may be a peg top half split down in the middle, or only half a dozen bat-tered marbles on a knotted string. But there it lies, whatever it is, stowed carefully away in the far-off corner of the bureau drawer, under a yellow pile of little linen and stockings, patched and darned at heel and at knee. But all the gems of Golconda cannot buy them; no, nor the gold of all the wide world size their preciousness. For they are the holy of the holies. It is not often that she goes to that drawer, not often she looks upon the treasures there. But once in a while, sometimes, the time when a knock come to the heart, that comes to mothers' hearts alone, like the famished and thirsty she goes to the nest of her jewels. Slowly, with soft hands, the little linens are laid aside, and slowly, with trembling hands, the knife, the top, or the string of dingy spools are drawn forth. Ah, how gently they are pressed to the heart and lips! What words are they saying, what sad, sweet songs are they singing? Kissed and cried on, and cried on and kissed. Then yearningly, reluctantly, clingingly back they go to their nest in the far-off corner, and the yellowing little linens are put back one by one. All alone, jealous that mortal eyes should see her worship at the shrine, the drawer is closed, and she who knelt before it comes to earth once more.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Pen Paralysis.

Many stenographers and persons who make their living by constant use of the pen or pencil are afflicted with pen paralysis; and, although, as a general thing, this trouble can be cured by a few months' rest, some of those writers afflicted with it never recover. Nobody knows the strain of incessant penmanship upon the muscles and nerves of the hand and wrist better, or perhaps as well, as those who pass through a daily experience of that nature.

Telegraph operators are likewise afflicted with paralysis of the same muscles. A Times reporter had a conversation recently with a first-class operator, and asked this question:

"I understand that first-class telegraphers are the only ones who get telegraphers' paralysis; why don't the second and third-rate operators get it?"

"Because," replied the Morse man, "a good operator is paid a good salary, and is consequently kept constantly working at the board, while a second or third-rate man has many resting spells, which allow him to stretch his arms, and thus escape paralysis. Many men who have been working for the company for years, and were getting good wages, have been compelled to give up their lucrative employment by telegraphers' paralysis. You notice it first in the muscles of your arm, which becomes numb after a hard day's work, and within six months after the first shock the stoutest operator will succumb. This paralysis, however, does not destroy the use of your arms and fingers entirely, but while you are able to lift and handle objects of any considerable size, you will not be able to button your coat or suspenders."

"Don't that account for some mistakes made in telegraphing?"

"Yes, indeed. Many mistakes in telegraphing, charged at first to defects in the machinery, have been traced to paralysis in the operator, because it soon becomes evident that the operator has lost his sense of touch. You see, the slightest pressure on the key over what is required will produce another letter than the one intended by the operator, and so it soon comes about that what the unfortunate operator at first attributes to overwork finally comes to be an evident loss of sensitiveness of touch. This usually occurs from six to eight years after an operator has been working steadily as a first-class man."—Hartford Times.

Lord Wolseley has the sight of but one eye. When he was doing duty in the trenches before Sebastopol, a shell exploded in a gabion full of gravel, in moving which he and two sappers were engaged. The sappers were both killed outright; Wolseley got so severe a peppering with the gravel that he was literally stuck full of stones from head to foot. There was not a square inch of his face that had not a gravel pellet embedded in it; part of his shinbone was carried away, and his eyesight was in so great danger that for weeks he was kept in the gloom of a cave near Balaclava, and so missed being present at the fall of Sebastopol.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mellinor of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. "Mothers Should Note This."

Under this caption an old physician writes to a Cincinnati medical journal, that in view of the fact that people living at a distance from cities are frequently obliged to resort to cough mixtures already put up for use, they should provide themselves with only such remedies as are known to be free from opiates, poisons and narcotics; thus avoiding not only danger, but even fatal results. He recommends the recently discovered Red Star Cough Cure which analyses and tests by various boards of health proved to be purely vegetable as well as prompt, effective and entirely harmless.

Is Prohibition a Failure?

In an address by Vice President Clausen at the closing session of the convention of the Brewers' Association in New York last week, prohibition was denounced as follows:

Prohibition is as much of a failure in Maine as in any other state where it was tried. Besides, Maine is not a state that the average American need be proud of. She has made no progress at all within a great many years; her population decreased from 1867 to 1870; in the succeeding decade (during which the population of the United States increased at the rate of thirty-three per cent) she gained three per cent. Although her population (of 648,936) is smaller by 131,837 than that of Minnesota, she has six times as many paupers; she is, in fact, the most pauper-ridden state in the Union. Delirium tremens is proportionately more frequent there than in any other state, and her public morality compares unfavorably with that of states similarly situated. If these be the fruits of prohibition—and I conscientiously believe they are—what American would not wish that his own state may be spared these so-called blessings.

We think this is stating the case rather strongly.

A prominent democrat from Maine informed us recently that there was quite a change in the sentiment of the people of Maine regarding the prohibitory law. In Portland, for example, its enforcement is brought about. The democratic mayor and his police force look after republican law breakers, while the republican sheriff of Cumberland county keeps an eye on the democratic transgressors. The democrats have been encouraged by the prohibitionists to come to their way of thinking. The latter say that they are tired of aiding the republicans, and are ready to help the democrats, for a consideration. The democracy have no local liquor interest in Maine to guide and govern their party, and are likely to stampede into the ranks of prohibition or else borrow its livery for the purpose of attaining power in the state. The next democratic convention will draw it mild in its resolutions regarding the Maine law, and singular as it may seem, the party will affiliate with the "fanatical temperance men" unless a goodly share of the thirty thousand dollars of the surplus fund of the United States Brewers' Association and a like bonanza from the liquor interest should find its way into this benighted region of jim-jams and pauper-ridden population, where perhaps missionary work with the proper kind of a barrel may be able to keep the party in accord with the "principles" advocated by its friends who import, manufacture and sell this great factor in democratic politics, in other commonwealths.

Gunner Cecil C. Nell is ordered to the Independence; Gunner E. A. McDonald to the Mare island navy yard; Gunner John J. Walsh the Washington navy yard; Gunner Moses H. Henderson from the Wabash to the naval magazine at Chelsea, Mass.; Gunner John Gaskins from the League island navy yard to the naval magazine at Fort Mifflin; Gunner Cornelius Crown to the naval magazine at Ellis island.

Asst. Naval Constructor John L. Shock, on special duty at the Royal college at Greenwich, Eng., killed himself with a revolver May 24th.

The Marion sailed from Suakin, Africa, for China, on the 25th inst.

By all means let us know how the Omaha cost so much, exclaims an enthusiastic democratic country editor, "and only a second rate twelve-gun steamer at that!!" It is perhaps possible that the average country editor is not informed as to what "rate" in regard to naval vessels means. Now that the democrats have the administration to defend it is well to know what these things mean. They perhaps have heard the guns, but the rating is what strangles them.

The following improbable story is found in the Sunday Tribune: "Ex-Secretary William E. Chandler, of New Hampshire, was here for three or four days last week, on his way from Washington to his home, where it is understood that he will take part in the contest for the senatorship. The ex-secretary spent one day in a thorough inspection of Ehret's big brewery, and the ice machines in operation there. I am told that a law has been or is likely to be passed in New Hampshire making the manufacture of alcoholic drinks an offence. The ex-secretary has been engaged as counsel by the opponents of the law, and took this occasion to get posted up. One of his conclusions, I hear, was that beer could not be classed strictly as an intoxicating beverage, since only about four per cent of alcohol enters into its composition."

Language of the Hair.

Each of our features is supposed to have a language—eyes, nose and mouth. But the language of the hair has been formulated in the following manner: straight, lank, stringy looking hair indicates weakness and cowardice. Curly hair denotes a quick temper. Frizzy hair, set on one's head as if each individual hair was ready to fight its neighbor, denotes coarseness. Black hair denotes persistent resolution in accomplishing an object, also a strong disposition to avenge wrongs and insults, real or fancied. Brown hair denotes fondness for life, a friendly disposition, ambition, earnestness of purpose, capacity of business, reliability in friendship in proportion as the hair is fine. Very fine hair indicates an even disposition, a readiness to forgive, with a desire to add to the happiness of others. Persons with very fine auburn hair inclined to curl or frizz, are quick tempered and are given to resentment or revenge. Light brown hair, inclined to redness, with a freckled skin, is a certain indication of deceit, treachery and a disposition to do something mean to a friend who can no longer be used to advantage. We give the information as we find it and it is about as true as such things generally are, and our advice to all who desire a rich brown or a lustrous black head of hair, is to use Batchelor's Hair Dye, which produces shades and tints equal to nature and never fades.

MONDAY, May 25th.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, of this port, cleared at Windsor, Nova Scotia, on the 15th inst., for Alexandria, D. C., with a load of plaster. The schooner Annie F. Conlon, from Georgetown, D. C., with coal, arrived at Boston on the 24th.

The schooner Mary Willey, Williams master, from this port arrived at Portland on the 22d inst., and took on board a cargo of corn for Bangor.

The steam launch Gypsey, belonging to the hotel Wentworth, was towed down the river last week from Exeter, where her boiler and engine have been overhauled and repaired.

Capt. Avery, of schooner Sea Foam, picked up abandoned on Jeffries, May 17th, and towed into York harbor, as previously reported, passed through this city on the 23d inst., on his way to York to look after the vessel. He reports that he abandoned the schooner on the 16th, about thirty miles off Cape Ann, and was taken into Boston by a Nova Scotia schooner, the Sea Foam then having seven feet of water in her hold, and the wind blowing a strong gale; only a hawser was taken from the Sea Foam at the time she was abandoned. The Sea Foam was on the passage from St. John, New Brunswick, to New York, with a cargo of deals.

The lighthouse department buoy-steamer Putnam arrived at Newburyport on Friday, and sailed Saturday morning to locate buoys off Bear's Head, Hampton beach; after completing that work she was to return to Newburyport and re-locate the harbor buoys there.

The Miriatorium of the War.

This novel and popular entertainment will be given every evening this week at Franklin Theatre, with special afternoon performances on Wednesday and Saturday. Many features of interest are embraced in this production, not the least of, which is the pictorial representations of important events in the late civil war. These paintings are the largest ever placed on exhibition, and are from the pencils of many of the leading artists of the country. An interesting and graphic descriptive lecture will be given, and many of the old stirring war songs will enliven the occasion. The entertainment is one calculated to please all classes, and the price of tickets is placed within the reach of everybody. An entertainment calculated to instruct as well as to amuse our community, should have the encouragement of all of our citizens, and we do not doubt that the efforts made by the management to inaugurate a series of clean wholesome entertainments will be appreciated. Tickets may now be secured at Buzzell's.

NEW TRAIN SIGNAL.

A strong company has been formed to manufacture and introduce a new electric train signal, intended to take the place of the old (and invaluable, so long as there was nothing better) bell-cord. This new contrivance is simply the application of the familiar electric bell system to trains of cars, and is applicable to freight as well as passenger trains, one of its most important advantages being that by its use the oftimes disastrous collisions between the two sections of a broken-apart freight train will be obviated, as the separating of a train will cause the bell in the locomotive's cab to ring continuously, thereby informing the engineer at once what has happened, and placing him on the lookout. It is the invention of a Maine railroad conductor; and it is the testimony of the officials and conductors of the Maine Central railroad, where it has been in use six months, that it has never once failed, in any kind of storm, and they are satisfied it never will. An electrician who has examined it and witnessed its practical working says he is satisfied it will never fail to work if kept in order and that it will, require very little care. The company formed for its promotion has for directors Frank Jones, Payson Tucker, H. E. Chamberlin, superintendent of the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, J. B. Gardiner, George C. Barrett, M. J. Pratt, J. C. Moore of the Manchester Union, R. F. Straine and H. E. Judkins. The cost, including the right to use, is said not to be greater than that of equipping with the bell rope, and the cost of maintenance will be far less.

A NEW FACTOR IN THE SHOW BUSINESS.

Hyatt Frost, who has been before the public for almost forty years in connection with the Van Amburgh show, has created a sensation by a very bold movement on the part of himself and his new associates. Firstly, he has formed an alliance with Charles Reiche & Brother, the great capturers and importers of wild animals. Having induced the Messrs. Reiche to embark in the show business, all their great facilities are enjoyed, and as a matter of dollars and cents much money has been saved. Manager Frost intends to give the public the benefit of it, therefore the admission to Van Amburgh, Charles Reiche & Brother's New Railroad Shows will be fixed at half price all around—admission twenty-five cents. The demand of the paying public of late has been for good shows at popular prices, and Frost and the Reiches have taken the tide at the flood which leads to popular favor and fortune. The proprietors announce that they are fully equipped in every department, and propose to give twice as good a show as anybody else for half the money. The circus company is made up of the cream of the profession, and contains Mitsura's Royal Dragon Japanese Troupe, now first appearing in America, by special permission of the Mikado. The Van Amburgh show is a well established favorite, and will be more popular than ever now that the management have decided to make low rates for the season of 1885. The show will exhibit at Portsmouth on Saturday next.

CHEAP EXCURSION.

On Friday, May 29th, the Boston & Maine railroad will sell excursion tickets from this city to Boston and return, good on any regular trains, for $1.70. See advertisement.

The cherry blossoms are falling, and apple blossoms are showing themselves and seem to promise a good yield of fruit.

The annual enrollment of Portsmouth, which consists of all the male inhabitants between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, is now completed. The total number enrolled is 1504. This number is very nearly divided between the married and single, the former footing up 789, and the latter 715. It would seem Portsmouth is pretty well protected, and in case of necessity ought to turn out quite a regiment.

Postmaster Gerrish and Mr. Albert Magee were out riding on Sunday afternoon, and when turning into Islington road from Spinney's lane the horse jumped to one side, capsizing the buggy and knocking off its top, and throwing the two gentlemen out, but without injuring them. The horse started off with the forward wheels, but was soon caught.

The town clock on the North church has not struck the hours for some days, and will not again until some time early in June. The Gamewell fire alarm attachment requires a change to be made in the striking gear, and the alterations are now under way. The clock on the South wardroom building is to be similarly treated.

Collector Richard F. Dodge of Salem, Mass., was in town on Monday, on matters appertaining to business.

Two young men, one a tailor recently from Boston, and the other a commercial traveller, were driving on the new road near Newington on Sunday evening, when their buggy was overturned; and on their righting it, the horse started for home without them, and reached his stable safely. The young men, being unacquainted with the roads, kept walking until they arrived at Greenland depot, where they spent the night, and came into town early next morning. An overcoat and some papers belonging to one of them were picked up on the road by a Newington milkman, Monday morning, and turned over to the city marshal, who restored them to the owner.

It is reported that some notable changes are to be made in the neighborhood of the gas works and the Portsmouth brewery. The most important is the construction of a new gasometer building, to be of brick instead of wood, and the removal of the structure on Daniel street so long known as "The Old House at Home," and the erection in its place of a nice dwelling. The Gas Co. have become owners of the premises on the easterly side of Bow street, at its junction with Daniel street, but no change is reported as in contemplation at present in regard to that property. The house No. 9 Chapel street, recently purchased by Mr. George Scott, treasurer of the Portsmouth Brewing Co., is to be removed, and a sufficient driveway constructed from there through to Bow street, thus enabling the company's teams to avoid the steep (and in winter often dangerous) bit of hill between Daniel street and the brewery yard.

The president has appointed Mark W. Sheafe register of the land office at Watertown, Dakota territory.

Wm. A. Hodgdon of this city is to build a large barn for Mr. C. S. Whidden of Rye, near Breakfast hill.

"Not guilty, but he had better not do it again." An individual who has been stealing flowers from a garden in this city is informed that he is known, the owner of the garden only regretting that the evidence in his possession, though morally conclusive of the fellow's guilt, is not just what the law would demand for a conviction. He suggests to the pilferer that he had better "go light" for a time, lest he get into trouble.

Ground was broken at Rochester on the 25th inst. for a union railroad station, to be finished by Sept. 1st.

On May 18th a woman leaped from the Clifton suspension bridge at Bristol, Eng., and struck in the soft mud at the edge of the water 245 feet below, and though terribly injured will probably survive. Her fall was 110 feet longer than that which shook Odlum almost to pieces in New York, at the Brooklyn bridge.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, for which no relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are the most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems to be increasing, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We produce evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first considerably slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the street, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend and blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout N. The Atlantic Monthly.

The contents of the June "Atlantic" are unusually attractive.

Dr. Holmes in the New Portfolio treats of the immense advantage one gains by reading a good abstract of reviews in newspapers. We often regret that we are unable to extend to our readers more frequently the benefit of this labor saving process, but we cannot give everything in the space at our command.

A well written sketch of Mrs. Oliphant is contributed by Miss Preston. Two chapters of the Prophet of Great Smoky Mountain will be read by all who cannot wait to read the whole in book form. Mrs. Thaxter has a very expressive little poem, with the customary aroma of salt water flowing through its verses.

"Dime Museums" seems a commonplace subject for a magazine writer, but J. G. Wood continues to produce some interesting reminiscences of Boston cheap shows which would perhaps appear more appropriately in the columns of a Sunday newspaper. "Modern Vandalism" is the title of an ode by Elizabeth R. Pennett, incited perhaps as she passed down Park street to the office of the "Atlantic," and witnessed the latest Boston notion, the change of the ancient and respectable Ticknor mansion into a bizarre shop or club house or something required by the march of trade toward the west end of the hub.

The concluding chapters of Miss Jewett's "Marsh Island," soon to appear in book form, are in this number. The story has added to Miss Jewett's fame as a writer, and will be perused in bound covers by many appreciative readers. Mr. Laughton writes of Political Delusions. Some of the alleged delusions may appear as such to the writer, but much that he discusses has many times before been written about.

The reviewer classes Mr. Barrett Wendell's "Duchess Emilia," a romance recently published by Osgood & Co., as a novel. A Pythagorean romance cannot be condemned for being in its relating so "outrageously improbable." That is one of the reserved rights of the author, who in this instance has produced a book of an especial kind, and is severely criticised because he has not written it after the conventional style of a different kind of writing. It may be true that Mr. Wendell, in the transposition from authorship to editorship, in his book, does not change his style, but the assumed passing from one form of narrative to the other is simply like the change the traveller makes in a long journey, from rail to steamer, and from steamer to diligence. The critic regards the story as not absorbing, because the author is not carried away with his own narration. Perhaps he is able to preserve his own head while engaged in turning those of his readers, and it may be that like some celebrated actors who have been able to move their auditors to tears, and preserve their own composure unimpaired, Mr. Wendell can keep his own head in a proper temperature. From the favorable notices of the book elsewhere; from the commendation of an eminent literary gentleman who read it before it went to the publishers, and from our own perusal of a copy which we were able to find, (the publishers in their financial embarrassment having failed to supply us,) and from the fact that in all libraries in this region the book is "spoken for" long in advance of its return to the shelves, we are inclined to believe that "The Duchess Emilia" will receive a goodly share of the applause which the Atlantic conditionally promises for the author's future productions.

The June number completes the fifth volume of the "Atlantic."

The Central American War.

The details of the massacre of Jamaicans at Culebra by Colombian troops shows that the helpless people, to the number of fifty or more, including two children, were literally butchered. The British consul is making a searching investigation into the matter.

The United States ships Tennessee and Galena carried provisions from Aspinwall to Carthagena for the starving inhabitants. Prestan is in the castle of La Papa, with a strong force of revolutionists. It is reported that Adm. Jouett will demand that he be delivered into the hands of the legitimate government as an enemy to humanity, and that his execution will follow.

An American marine was shot in the foot by a Colombian sentinel a few days ago, by mistake, and the foot had to be amputated.

The War in the Northwest.

Gen. Middleton, with 400 volunteers, arrived at Battleford on the 24th inst. Chief Poundmaker has surrendered unconditionally, and the Indians and half-breeds are now coming in; there are about forty of the latter, and nearly 2000 Indians, all told.

Louis David Riel is a naturalized American citizen, having taken out his final papers at Helena, Montana territory, March 16th, 1883.

Maj. Robinson, formerly of the English army, and now engaged in newspaper work in Chicago, who, it was recently stated, was present at the alleged murder of Thomas Scott in 1870, by Louis Riel, admits that he knows all the facts regarding the heinous crime, but will neither deny nor affirm that Scott was actually killed by the hands of the northwest rebel himself.

Last March two lady-like women entered the railroad station at Springfield, Mass., with an infant about two weeks old, asked a lady in the waiting room to hold it a moment, and disappeared. The child was sent to the orphans' home, but died next day, and a post mortem showed that its death was due to an overdose of some preparation of opium. Mrs. Charles Livermore and her daughter, Ella Livermore, of Saxton's River, Vt., have been arrested for desertion of the child, and manslaughter. They admit the facts charged against them, but claim that the overdose of paregoric was unintentional. The child was illegitimate, and born in Meriden, Conn. They are respectably connected, and have some property.

Dr. N. L. Buck, formerly of Vermont but since 1867 a prominent physician and citizen of Oakland, Cal., was shot dead at his own door on the evening of May 24th by Henry P. Prindle, a war veteran. Prindle's wife told him that Dr. Buck had behaved toward her in an unseemly manner when she was under his medical care.

The revisers of the Old Testament have succeeded in abolishing the word "hell" from every passage in which it occurs. In the poetical books the word is translated "sheol," and in prose it is called "the grave" or "the pit," with "sheol" in the margin as a synonym. The learned commentators contend that the word is never used to represent a place of torment, and should not have that construction.

They have a drink in Iowa called "bopine." It is said to resemble beer so closely that even an expert cannot detect the difference. A saloon keeper has been prosecuted for selling it, but the jury held that the sale of "bopine" is not a violation of the prohibitory liquor law.

The barque Bayard was caught in the ice off Newfoundland on the 6th inst., and crushed. The crew were on the ice and in the boats until the 10th, when they boarded the steamer Mary Louise, from New York for Liverpool; but the steamer had also been in the ice, and shortly sunk, forcing both crews to again go in the boats. On the 11th they were picked up, and were landed at Quebec on the 22d.

The gold medal was awarded Mellin's Food at the New Orleans Exposition, in recognition of its great nourishing properties.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dulness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

THE MIRATORIUM.

The entertainment offered in Franklin theatre this week is deserving the most liberal patronage. Not only is it of value as giving to those who have no personal recollection of the war for the union some idea of the sacrifices made and the valor displayed during the dark days of the war, but the immense painting is of decided merit as an artistic production. That the scenes represented are truthful is attested by scores of the actors who live in our midst, as well as by many thousands elsewhere; and the knowledge of our national history to be gained by the young from this entertainment, and the lessons of patriotism which are placed before them, are worth many times more than the trifling price of admission. The lecture illustrative of the panorama is good, and finely delivered; and the musical features introduced are pleasing.

The Grand Miratorium of the Late Civil War will be exhibited every evening this week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock.

KANGAROO HUNT.

About twenty members of the Rockingham bicycle club had a "kangaroo hunt" on Tuesday morning, starting from Market square at five o'clock. This sport is similar to the "hare and hounds" of college students, two "kangaroosters" starting off on their wheels, leaving along their path a "scent" or trail of bits of cut paper, and after the lapse of a few minutes the "pack" starting after them, following the trail of paper, and endeavoring to run them down before they can reach the goal on their return. On this occasion the kangaroosters were Messrs. W. W. McIntire and Frank J. Philbrick, who were allowed a start of seven minutes, which they improved by going up and down the steepest places they knew of near Linden street, through Bow street, down the steps at the gas works and out through the gas house yard, and then across to Water street, over Brimstone hill to Pleasant, and by various other streets to the starting point. The pack on the chase twice "picked up the scent" a long way ahead, and avoided the gas house steps and the next-worse place picked out for them by the leaders, but were unable to catch them.

A second run was immediately made, the kangaroosters this time having five minutes start, and going through Warren and Fleet streets to Hanover. As they had doubled and dodged so much on the first run, they decided to make a straight course this time for some distance, and wheeled it at their best rate up to Dover street, then by the Jones brewery and down State and other streets to the court house, through the city yard, over the marginal road and Edward street to Pleasant, and around by South street to Richards avenue, where they halted to allow their pursuers to come in sight, to make the run home interesting. These tactics bothered the hunters, who as the kangaroosters rightly judged, lost much time at first in seeking for "scent" around corners where there wasn't any — at least none of white paper; and they did not catch a glimpse of the prey until they turned from South street into Richards avenue, when with a general halloo and blowing of whistles they started on the race in, the kangaroosters quickly mounting and showing their best speed. The pace for the rest of the run was hot, but the kangaroosters won, though when they halted in front of the city building the leader of the pack was whirling past the Custom House Exchange.

This spirited sport is a good thing for the young men. It gets them out of bed in time to see the sun rise in the east, (we know it used to rise there twenty or thirty years ago, at any rate,) and the vigorous exercise of their muscles, invigorated by a night's rest, and the generous expansion of their lungs with the fresh morning air, cannot be other than beneficial. And at the time they make their runs there is little danger of the swiftly moving pack frightening horses or running over baby carriages.

THE FIRE ALARM BOXES.

The locations and numbers of the fire alarm boxes have been decided upon as follows:

No. 7, corner of Dennett and North streets;

No. 13, corner of Court and Water streets;

No. 14, corner of Russell and Market streets;

No. 17, Police station;

No. 24, corner of Washington and Gates street;

No. 26, Haven school-house;

No. 32, Middle street church;

No. 35, Rand's store, Middle street;

No. 38, Eldredge brewery (private;)

No. 43, corner of Islington and Cabot streets;

No. 46, Pearl street church.

The workmen were on Tuesday engaged in stringing the wires along the poles on North and Elm streets.

CONCORD RAILROAD.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Concord railroad, in Concord on the 26th inst., Frederick Smyth, James W. Johnson, Josiah Minot, Benjamin A. Kimball, John H. Pearson, Walter M. Parker and John A. White were unanimously elected directors. The directors re-elected Ex-Gov. Smyth as president, and Mr. Chase as clerk.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Commodore Theodore D. Wilson, U. S. N., chief of the bureau of construction and repair, arrived at the navy yard Tuesday forenoon, and received the regulation salute.

Secretary Whitney is going to appoint a committee to inquire how the $585,000 that it cost to repair the steamship Omaha at Portsmouth last fall was distributed, because he has an idea that a portion of the amount was spent for political purposes. Judging from the election returns from Portsmouth, which showed a big majority for Cleveland and elected the democratic senator and all the representatives but three, in a city that has been a republican stronghold, a good share of this money must have been used as a corruption fund in the interest of the "Reform Democracy," and it is hoped that the secretary will not stay his hand until he has shown us just how it was diverted to such base uses.—Manchester Mirror.

Tickets for the exercises at Music hall on the evening of Memorial day will go on sale at Goodrich's book-store Thursday morning — reserved seats fifteen cents, admission ten cents.

Widows of soldiers who served in the late war will receive tickets at the same place after nine o'clock this (Wednesday) forenoon.

The friends of Commodore C. W. Pickering, U. S. N., will be pleased to learn that he has just had a cataract successfully removed from his right eye by Dr. Chisolm of Baltimore, Md.

E. C. Stickney of this city, champion heavy-weight lifter of New Hampshire, on Friday put a four-pound dumbbell from his shoulder to arm's length above his head eighty-one times in twenty-seven seconds. In Lynn, Mass., on Memorial day, he will essay to put up a four-pound dumbbell 6000 times in one hour, and beat all previous records in that line, the best yet done being by Charles O. Breed of Lynn, Mass., down in the "World's Record" as champion heavy weight lifter, who put up a three-pound dumbbell 6000 times in an hour.

Mr. C. V. Carter, formerly of the Parker and Quincy houses, Boston, and later of the Rockingham house in this city, up to the time it was burned, has been engaged as steward of the Ocean View hotel on Block island, L. I., for the coming season, and has secured the services of Mr. Phineas Drake, formerly of this city, as his first assistant. One of the most handsomely illustrated and judiciously gotten up hotel advertisements we have yet seen is the little book sent out this year by the Ocean View.

Hon. Chas. Levi Woodbury was in town on Tuesday. The judge has nearly recovered from a slight attack of pen paralysis, supposed to have been occasioned by too frequent signing for applicants for office under the new administration.

There was an excursion from Dover over the Eastern railroad to Boston on Tuesday. Friday is the day for half rates from Portsmouth.

Considerable numbers of lobsters are being brought into Portsmouth at present; they are mostly of very good size, and sold to the local dealers here, who at once forward to the interior or to Boston all not required for immediate local consumption. One day recently Warren Caswell brought in 250, Edward Downs 200, and Robinson & Haley 375, taken off the Rye coast. Randall & Caswell are the principal buyers.

A number of carcasses of animals have been floating along the edge of the south pond for several days. The residents in that vicinity have no use for them, and are willing the board of health should do what is best to be done in the premises.

Mr. John P. Sweetser, at No. 46 Market street, has in his spring and summer stock of articles specially required in hot weather—refrigerators of the most improved patterns, the "Rapid" ice-cream freezer, kerosene stoves of different sizes and prices, and a full line of kitchen ware and general house furnishings. In baby carriages he has a large variety of the latest and most approved styles, as well as cheaper ones. For anything in his line, his store is a good place to call.

Jeremiah Paul, of York, brought into this city on Saturday a fine pair of fat cattle, of Dutch stock, and estimated to weigh 2500 lbs. dressed. They were bought by Garrett. Such cattle usually bring about $225 a pair.

The number of school children in Biddeford is 4,508, of which number 420 live in the rural districts.

A portion of the bed of the Saco & Bridgton narrow gauge railroad settled fourteen feet the night of May 16th.

Somebody left a live infant upon the steps of a house occupied by Elder Vance of the Shaker society at Alfred. The elder promptly informed the town authorities that he had no use for the new comer, and the selectmen have taken charge of it.

Peter Gagne, the married French Canadian who was arrested in Dover, N. H., in company with Cecilia Thibeau, with whom he had eloped from Biddeford, when arraigned in the latter city pleaded guilty to the offence charged against him, and was held in $500 for the supreme court. The girl, who is but nineteen years old, is not very bright, and was greatly in fear of Gagne, who having led her astray, threatened to tell her parents of her fault unless she eloped with him.

The suit of Dr. Addison Brown against the city of Biddeford, for damages sustained through a fall caused by a defective sidewalk, has resulted, after two trials, in a verdict of only $37 in his favor.

Ships Senator Webber and Norelen, and barques Gatineau, Oscar II., Vaeni, Jane, Donald Ferguson and Parana, have arrived at Quebec, all more or less damaged by ice off Newfounland.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the side, walk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in one session, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider a bottle complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to sudden changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex, Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

The government is about to move $35,000,000 in gold from the sub-treasury in San Francisco to that in New York. The lowest bid of the express companies is $8.25 per 1,000, which does not come within the $100,000 appropriated by Congress for the purpose.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

Hattie B. Bedient, the young woman who shot herself in the Grand Union hotel at New York, was the daughter of Gideon Bedient, a well-off farmer of Hornby, Steuben county, N. Y. Her father thinks she was deranged from excessive study.

Any one wishing to know who the doctor is we will inform him."—Minneapolis, Minn., Evening Mail.

It is charged that the Alert was returned to the British government in bad condition. Chief Engineer Loring says the only trouble was that her machinery was dirty, which was owing to the fact that it is so constructed that it cannot be kept clean when in use, and the engineers sent around to Halifax with her had no time to clean her up after arrival before she was handed over to the British.

"Gimme a Lub Powdah!"

An aged and dilapidated looking negro shuffled into a down-town drug store the other day, says the Detroit Journal, leaned nervously against the soda-water fountain, and ejaculated in trembling tones the one word:

"Boss!"

"What can I do for you?" inquired the druggist, politely.

The dilapidated negro glanced hurriedly about the store.

"Boss, I wants a fi-cents wuth ob lub powdahs!"

"Love powders! What'n blazes d'you want with love powders?"

"Colonel, I wants dem powdahs fo' my ole 'ooman. She's done gone back on me an' I wants ter make her lub me again. Dat's so, Colonel—true's yo' lib."

"Can't put up any love powders for less'n fifty cents," replied the druggist.

The dilapidated negro hesitated. Slowly his hand descended into his trousers pocket and slowly it returned. Between the fingers was a bright half-dollar. The negro gazed upon the coin wistfully.

"Guess it'll hab ter go," he sighed. Then he threw the coin upon the counter. The druggist picked it up.

"Take yo' boost tark yo', sah!" said the negro, as he shuffled off with the little package the druggist had given him.

"What was in that powder?" asked a spectator.

"Magnesia and white sugar. Won't hurt the old woman," replied the clerk, carelessly.

"Have 'em often?"

"I should say so. Quite astonishing. Coming all the time. Most of them are ignorant, but some look quite intelligent and well off in the world. All of them are ugly, and most past the heyday of youth. Some, like this fellow, want to regain vanished marital affection. I usually say 'I don't keep them.' Saves the trouble of explaining. I thought just now that 50 cents would frighten that old bum, but it didn't. Superstition's strong, you know, and this's a mighty old one. Nearly as old as ghosts, I reckon. In those old times it wasn't white sugar or magnesia they used. Oh, no! Those old alchemists used to have strong, powerful, and dangerous potions. They called them 'philters,' which means, 'I love.' Of course they didn't excite love. Sometimes they cause death, sometimes insanity, but the superstition has stayed right with us. I recollect one day a nicely dressed, intelligent-looking woman, who might have been a prosperous farmer's wife, dropped into my store and asked my assistant for a love powder. The clerk laughed at her and said there was no such thing. Then she asked for me and was shown into the office. 'Mr. Dash,' said she, 'my husband seems to have lost all consideration for me. He stays away from home and drinks fearfully. He loved me once, and now I want you to give me something that will win back his regard.' Of course, I told her I could do nothing, but she insisted. 'I know there are such things,' she said. 'They may be expensive, but I must have one.' Well, I retired and put up some harmless powders. These I gave her with directions to administer one each day in the husband's tea. 'You must be very kind,' I cautioned her. 'Make the house as pleasant as possible, and, above all things, never say a cross word. One cross word would spoil everything.' She offered me money, but I told her to wait till the medicine acted. About a month afterward my assistant came into the office.

"'Your love woman's outside. Wants to see you,' he laughed.

"'Well, sir,' s soon as I set eyes on that woman's face I knew the husband had come out all right and such proved to be the case. Whether it was the white sugar or the wife's kindness that did it I needn't say. I suppose it's those occasional chances that keep the superstition alive. Chances will happen, you know."

Rats Are Truly Wise.

A house that I and my husband tenanted in St. Martin street, Montreal, several years ago, says a lady to a Philadelphia Star reporter, became for some unexplained reason the headquarters of the rats of the neighborhood. At first they manifested their presence in the usual way, by gnawing holes here and there in pantries and in kitchen wainscots, destroying what food lay about uncovered. The rats quickly increased in numbers, however, and it became necessary to cover securely every article that would be devoured by the besieging army.

One morning upon going into the store-room I perceived the cake-box on the ground, its place being on the third shelf, some six feet from the floor. Reproving the maid for leaving it about so carelessly, she declared that it was in its usual place the night before, but as only she and myself had access to the closet I passed the matter by, merely thinking she had removed it and had forgotten to replace it. The next day, however, I found the box on the floor again, this time bottom up. A little annoyed, I spoke to the girl, but she, as before, positively denied having moved the box since I, the day previous, had returned it to its place. I had heard of the strange doings of certain spirit rappers, and I began to think that some of those queer folks had selected our house as the base of their operations.

Before retiring that night I made a careful inspection of the spot, locked the door, and took the key with me to my room. But notwithstanding, on a visit to the closet next morning I discovered the cake-box again on the ground, and looking much the worse for its rough usage. While I was examining and wondering at its scratched appearance, a noise behind me caused me to turn, and there, looking at me inquiringly, stood, quite fearlessly, a big rat, and just behind, coming out of a hole, was his companion, apparently equally interested. A momentary start, and then it flashed upon me the cause of the change of base of our cake-box of late. The rats had evidently known of its contents, and, finding that they were unable to gnaw their way into the tin, had held a consultation, and finally decided that concussion was the best means to that end. As the box was a foot square, and held at the time fully ten pounds of cake, those intelligent little beasts must have worked in concert to have pushed the box off the shelf, and finding that one attempt was not enough, they repeated the operation again and again until they succeeded.

Superfluous Lags the Veteran, Etc.

Hardly has Mr. Cleveland recovered from his civil service reform idea, which the democrats maintain was simply incident to cutting his presidential teeth, ere — and just as he begins to see the necessity of at once using the patronage in a democratic way — he announces relative to Hon. Bion Bradbury, a celebrated war horse of Maine, with whose deportment the president (as every one else before him) was charmed, as an objection that the patriot from Maine was a trifle too advanced in years to fill the office of collector of the ports of Portland and Falmouth.

This is a new departure indeed. Shall it be that the ancient democrats who have learned to labor and to wait, lo, these many years, are, now that they hope to enter into the joy of a democratic victory, to be told that the race is to the young, who can carry the caucus and keep step to the progress of the party? Of what avail then are the life-long democrats who have voted the ticket, attended conventions, been ostracised during the late war, and for their patriotic devotion to the noble principles they have been directed to advocate, have been kept from all participation in the enjoyments of office, if the parvenues who run the party are to set them aside on the plea of antiquity!

While this is none of our affair, we cannot suppress a feeling of regret, not to say indignation, concerning what apparently bodes no good to some of our time-honored rivals for whom we had hoped certain preferment with great expectations.

But the ways of the president are past finding out, with perhaps this exception — he intends to remove everybody, but to take his own time in selecting the successors, and to have his own way about it, too.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

Mr. Charles Perkins has his new house up and covered in, Phœnix-like on the ashes of the old.

Mr. John Cutler has commenced to rebuild the Sea View Cottage at the beach, and a serious accident happened there this (Tuesday) morning, Mr. Eddie Blake falling upon the edge of the new brick cistern, fracturing some of his ribs. He was taken immediately to Dr. Merrill, who attended him home to his father's, Mr. George Blake. His sister fortunately escaped a fatal accident a few days since, but is suffering from a crushed leg, having been run against by a startled team.

Perkins Post, G. A. R., had a religio-military gala day last Sunday afternoon, in undress uniform. The Congregational church was crowded with a large audience; the pulpit was profusely and most elegantly decorated with flowers; and the music, led by Mr. W. H. Hobbs, organist, was very inspiring and patriotic. Rev. S. P. Fay of Boston delivered an oration on war before the brave boys, and the pastors of the Methodist and Baptist churches assisted in the preliminary exercies. Mr. Fay preached a very able sermon in the morning, and conducted social services in the evening, giving some tender reminiscences of his former pastorate here, which commenced with his ordination and installation thirty-five years ago.

The Cuban Insurrection.

The Cubans in Key West paraded the streets on May 26th with bands of music, in consequence of the reported landing at Santiago de Cuba of an expedition numbering 200 men, under Varona and Maceo, which it is stated, has since been reinforced by 1000 men from that district. A state of siege has been decreed, and the captain general of Cuba has gone with the troops to that province.

The Boston police are doing something in the way of prosecuting keepers of gambling houses. As their attention has been repeatedly called to these places by one of the newspapers, the force had to make a move. As an offset, the officers have been engaged in prosecuting the prophets who preach on the common. There is a statute in Massachusetts or an ordinance in Boston which prohibits preaching out-of-doors. The legislators believe that if a man desires to preach he should hire a hall. It is difficult to see just what harm can result from using Boston common for the purpose of preaching the gospel, but Boston notions in this respect are different from those of most places.

On Tuesday, May 26th, Mr. Roach made a trip with the Dolphin on his own account. She made a trip from New York to New London, Conn., starting at eleven A. M. and arriving at 5:20 P. M. POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, May 27th.

Dennis Sullivan — familiar name in this record—for drunkenness was fined $5, with costs taxed at $6.90. Mr. Sullivan will pass another brief season in the country.

BIRDS.

There seem to be many more birds than usual, of the sociable varieties, in the city and neighborhood this year. They are safer within the limits of a large town than far outside it, being better protected from their natural enemies, the hawk and the boy with a shotgun, though perhaps more exposed to the depredations of pussy cat. The robins are very busy building their nests, and the gaudy orioles are unusually plentiful; the English sparrows, those rascally little islanders who brought over with them all of John Bull's bad qualities and none of his good ones, are only seen singly, as they are engaged in hatching in hidden places about the buildings; the pretty and modest little American sparrows are quite common this spring, the yellow birds are much seen, and the spunky king birds (tyrant flycatchers) show themselves wherever they choose, and put on plenty of airs among their feathered cousins. By the way, the king bird is the only one of the smaller varieties that is more than a match for the English sparrow; but when the saucy little immigrant attempts to bounce this particular native, there is an astonished foreigner in that region very soon.

LOBSTERS.

Many small boats go out nightly, with nets baited with the "gropy," speared or hooked along the wharves, to capture the frisky lobster. The gropy, though not very handsome to look at, is evidently a toothsome morsel for the lobster, who is often inveigled thereby from his native element into a pot of boiling water; and he—the gropy—may taste better than he looks, for a tramp who on Monday last caught a number of these fish from the north millbridge, and carried them off in a gunnybag, informed a crowd of small boys who deridingly assured him that they were "pizen" that he had eaten them often, and with baked 'taters and some salt they made a dinner not to be sneezed at. The lobster-protecting laws of the several New England states, though but laxly enforced, appear to be having an appreciable effect in increasing the number and size of the crustaceans, for they are more numerous and of better size this season than for several years before, in this vicinity.

The lobster canning factory of Gen. North, of Boothbay, Me., is in trouble. The game and fish warden recently seized 1500 lobsters, 400 of which were found to be under nine inches in length, the fine for the use of which is one dollar apiece. At the hearing a day or two since the manager was found guilty of the illegal use of the lobsters and fined accordingly, but appealed.

MARITIME NOTES.

Capt. Cheney, of the gondola H. P. Spinney, has contracted with Laighton Bros. of the Shoals for the transportation of some 250 tons of coal from this city to the islands for the use of the hotels and cottages there, and took out the first load, fifty-five tons, on Monday evening, the 25th inst., arriving back the next day about noon. The gondola was towed out, but came in under sail, making the run from the islands to Whaleback in just an hour. She started for the Shoals with her second load, in tow of the steamer Pinafore, on Wednesday.

The schooner Yale, under command of our old friend Capt. Hodgdon, arrived on the 28th inst. from Newport News, Va., with 1074 tons coal to J. Albert Walker.

The lighthouse buoy-steamer Iris came into this harbor on Monday of this week, took up the old buoy on Ham's ledge, between the Concord railroad wharf and Noble's island, and put down a new mooring and spar.

Chief Engineer Wm. B. Brooks, Naval Contructor Thomas E. Webb and Foreman Shipwright Wm. F. Noyes have returned to the navy yard from New York, whither they went on duty in connection with Secretary Whitney's enquiry as to the expenditures on the U. S. S. Omaha.

Secretary Whitney has returned to Washington from New York, where he went to inspect the Omaha. To a correspondent he said that he simply looked at the vessel, and from inspection of her he had been unable to see where the $550,000 that had been expended on her for repairs was put. He said he had not decided yet what action he should take in the matter. The Omaha had been undergoing repairs at the Portsmouth navy yard since 1881. She is an old wooden vessel, and the amount that has been expended in repairs would build a first-clas iron ship with all modern improvements. He further stated that the first steps in the investigation of the expenditures on the vessel would be an examination of the bills for the various items of repair at the navy yard.

Galvanized-iron water-tanks must not be employed on board of French men-of-war. Dr. Venable, in a paper read before the American Chemical society, has shown that water passed through 200 yards of galvanized iron pipe took up 4.29 grains of zinc carbonate per gallon. —Current item.

A family in this city were seriously poisoned a number of years ago by using water supplied through a galvanized iron pipe, as will be remembered by many persons.

A pair of "near-sighted glasses" which have been lying on our desk for some time, may be missed by their owner, who can have them on calling and identifying them.

The Miratorium of the Civil War is exhibited every evening at Franklin theatre, with an excellent explanatory lecture, good music and popular war songs. It is a fine entertainment and worthy liberal patronage.

In Dover, on Monday of this week, there were thirteen competitors for prizes offered by Mayor Lothrop of that city, as follows: For the best piano playing by a beginner having had less than one year's instruction, $50; for the best playing by an advanced pupil, $25. Katie Bradford, daughter of Capt. R. F. Bradford, U. S. N., of this city, easily took the first prize, and Emily I. Hoyt, daughter of A. Coburn Hoyt of this city, the second. Prof. T. P. Ryder of Boston was the judge. Both these young ladies are pupils of Miss Lizzie Davis, organist of the South parish, as was also the daughter of Landlord Wiggin of the Dover house, who was the winner of a prize given by Mr. Lothrop last year.

Rev. Charles B. Pitblado, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in this city, it seems is now located at Winnipeg, in the Canadian Northwestern territory. He accompanied Riel from the place of his capture to Saskatown in a steamer, and long accounts are published of what Riel told him.

The Flying Yankee train when eastbound this summer will not enter the passenger station at Portland, but will stop at the transfer station and at the end of Congress street in that city.

A little colored boy named Going was filled with liquor on Sunday, the 24th inst., by a gang of white hoodlums, who smeared him all over with some white substance, and then took him to his home and tumbled him into the door. The young scoundrels should receive a generous dose of the law.

The marine hospital bureau at Washington is informed that during the two weeks ended April 4th there were 188 deaths from cholera in Calcutta.

William Cluff and Frank Cluff, of Biddeford, indicted by the grand jury for enticing a young girl from Biddeford to a house of ill-fame in Portsmouth, were arraigned before the supreme judicial court for York county at Alfred on May 25th, pleaded not guilty, and were held in $1000 each to appear from day to day.

Rev. Isaac Lord, one of the oldest and most respected clergymen of the Maine Methodist Conference, died at his home in Biddeford on Monday evening, May 25th, aged eighty-two years. He was an itinerant preacher for fifty-four years, and had been on the superannuated list about three years.

A despatch from Arizona says the soldiers attacked the Indians at Blue river, and were compelled to scatter with three wounded. There are fully 120 thoroughly armed men trailing the Indians. Should they meet the Indians before the latter got into Mexico, it will be a fight to the death; bucks, squaws and papooses will share the fate of extermination. "No quarter!" is the cry of the cowboys.

At Poughkeepsie, N. Y, May 26th, Thomas H. Cassen and John E. Cassen were arrested while towing behind a steamer in a small boat which they are charged with stealing. Among the things found on them were two large navy revolvers, loaded, a large dirk knife, bottles of chloroform, arsenic strychnine and ether, with a sponge, a number of keys, ball cartridges, small iron instruments, etc. They say they belong in Maine, and that they bought the boat. Advertising cards from Newark and Boston were found on them. One of the prisoners is about eighteen years old and the other about twenty-four.

A month ago J. C. Collier, thirty-two years of age and married, and Cora Holmes, seventeen years old and unmarried, eloped from Oakland, Me., and went to Canada. A few days ago they returned to Maine, their money having given out, and were arrested.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N.Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first consecutively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was soon times taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. P. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I perseverred with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. In the tropics, the exposure, frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poison, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Distressing Death of a Child.

At a coroner's inquest in Philadelphia recently over the body of a child, the jury returned a verdict that death was caused by the administration of a patent cough syrup, containing morphia. Dr. Samuel K. Cox, of Washington, states that not one cough medicine in ten is free from this objection. After careful analyses and practical tests he endorses Red Star Cough Cure as being purely vegetable, absolutely free from opiates, poisons and narcotics. He regards it as a most happy and valuable discovery.

The Dover public library was organized two years since with trustees consisting of the mayor, president of the common council and seven citizens. One by-law forbade newspaper reporters or the public to attend the trustees' meetings. Keeping out the reporters created intense dissatisfaction. At a meeting on Monday, May 25th, the objectionable by-law was revoked by a vote of eight to one.

Mr. Whitney Takes a Lesson.

We never for one moment supposed that the contractors would cease to have their way in naval affairs when the democracy came into power. Secretary Whitney sails directly in the wake of his illustrious predecessor, and is appalled at the cost of "rebuilding" vessels, a process required by reason of the democrats' refusal to vote money for new ships of the navy, and which means taking one stick of timber from an old vessel, and building a modern ship with steam motive power, electric lights and all modern appliances, and fitting her for sea, at what of course, must cost a round sum. But the work is well done.

In the case of the Omaha, it has to be acknowledged that the government has a fine ship, which for all purposes of displaying the flag of our country in foreign waters, and while no nation will be ready to make war on us till we are ready to take possession of the Panama canal or wipe out any French nonsense in that region, will admirably answer the purpose; and yet Brother Whitney, the shrewd, astute Yankee, has been completely fooled into the theory that the public dockyards are not the proper places for the construction of naval vessels, but that such can be built and to greater advantage (to the contractors) in private yards by the honest fellows who have induced Chandler to regard, nay, advocate their schemes.

How Mr. Whitney has succumbed to the blarney of Mr. Rosch, we are not informed. It is pretty evident, however, from his talk about the Omaha, that he is either profoundly ignorant of the cost of construction and fitting of vessels of war, or he has been misled by somebody who has been set upon him by that influence which during the last administration was so prominent in naval affairs, and which will have its advocates, who for a consideration will follow out the programme of condemning work in navy yards, because it is for the interest of certain persons and companies to ring the changes on this cry. How long it will take to show the folly of this great country being beholden to the contractors to make and repair our means of warfare, or how great a rig the contractors will be able to run with the reformers, of course depends upon their methods. But it is not difficult to see that the same result is being achieved as was so persistently advocated throughout Mr. Chandler's secretaryship. Mr. Whitney has much to learn regarding the "ways that are dark" with the wily contractors.

A Railway King.

Mr. John H. Pearson of Concord appears to stand at the head of the class in railway ownership in New Hampshire. He is the largest owner of railway stock in the state. He has held his shares in the Concord railroad, and persistently opposed the control of that corporation by the representatives of the roads above Concord. He has expended thousands of dollars of his own private fortune in establishing the rights of the shareholders of the Concord road to the management of their property, as against the control of others. He has been pronounced in opposition to consolidation and kindred schemes, and to-day the Boston & Lowell railroad, from the northern end of the leased line at Nashua, looks toward the other leased roads terminating in Concord, over but one obstacle in the way of connecting them by legislative action—the unmistakable ideas of Mr. Pearson in this respect.

Mr. Pearson's position is a good illustration of what a persistent fixedness of purpose in a man of stamina can accomplish. Men who a few years ago derided his views and affected to despise his notions of railway management, now gladly enroll themselves under his banner. They admit that the property of the Concord road has not only been kept intact, but has largely appreciated by Mr. Pearson's course in having it preserved from the manipulations of those who would, had they been delegated the power, have used it to an advantage adverse in its results to the interest of the corporation. For years, though a large shareholder, he was not permitted to become a director in the corporation. To-day he is not only a director by the unanimous vote of the stockholders, but his counsels prevail in the management, and his views are those of the directory.

During his successful contests to maintain the independent integrity of this property, the market value of the shares has increased, the price to-day being $107, on a par of $50, and yet at this tempting rate few persons can be found who will sell their shares. This result has been accomplished by Mr. Pearson, by insisting upon his rights as a shareholder before the courts, oftentimes at great expense and at supposed disadvantage, but he has come out ahead, and to-day can enjoy the satisfaction of seeing his course endorsed by many prominent capitalists of the state as well as the entire body of shareholders in the Concord Railroad.

Mr. Foss of Rye, a mason employed on the improvements at the Jones brewery, was badly scared on Thursday, and was very lucky to get off so easily as that. He was engaged in making a cesspool in a deep trench that is being dug for a fifteen-inch drain pipe, when the sides caved in, and though he escaped the heaviest of the fall he was caught by some of it, from which however he was soon released.

Rear Admiral Taylor, U. S. N., and Mrs. Taylor, have arrived for the season and at present have rooms at the Hotel Wingate.

Dr. E. B. Goodall has rented the cottage of Mr. Spalding of Nashua at Rye beach, for the season.

A large dog belonging to a German emigrant on the steamer Westphalia was thrown overboard from the steamer in mid-ocean, for stealing a beef's pluck from the galley. A few hours later the steamer Normandie was delayed in the vicinity by floe ice, and the dog swam up to her with the pluck in his mouth, and was taken on board. The Normandie after getting clear of the ice passed the Westphalia, arriving at New York first; and when Augenslager, the dog's owner, landed at Castle Garden on May 26th, he saw the animal, which immediately answered his call, when with the exclamation "It is Blucher's ghost" he fell in a swoon, and it is feared will be permanently insane.

PICNIC.

The Young People's Association of the North parish had a picnic on Wednesday afternoon of this week at Stratham hill, starting from the chapel at 2:30 o'clock, and going by way of Sagamore road, Rye Centre and the Breakfast hill route to Greenland, arriving at the picnic grounds shortly after five o'clock, having had a delightful ride. The supper was under the direction of Mr. Edw. C. Matthews and Mr. Sweet, the latter making the oyster stews, which were delicious; Mr. Matthews made the coffee, and although it was a trifle weak the party unanimously resolved that when next they went on an excursion both gentlemen should be allowed to go along and do all the work, Mr. Matthews promising to take lessons in making coffee before that time. Mr. Eben F. Brackett, formerly of this city but now living opposite the picnic grounds, supplied the party with milk. After a stop of over two hours the picnickers started for home, where they arrived about 8:30 o'clock, all having had an excellent time, especially the young people who rode by themselves on the homeward trip. The party were transported in a barge and a four-seated wagon.

THE VAN AMBURGH SHOW.

A long train, composed of passenger coaches, sleepers, and box and platform cars, and filled with the performers, workmen, chariots, cages, horses, and paraphernalia of Van Amburgh's great show, arrived in our city yesterday morning, and attracted a large crowd. Notwithstanding the stormy weather through which the show had passed the previous day, men, horses and vehicles looked as clean and bright as if they had just emerged from a lady's fair. So well had arrangements been made for their reception that the work of transferring the immense aggregation from the cars was comparatively light, and in less than three hours after the arrival of the train at least three acres of ground were covered with canvas.

Then came the street parade, one of the most brilliant and attractive ever seen in Poughkeepsie. Performers on horseback, handsome cages and gorgeous chariots, drawn by splendid horses, and bands of music, elephants, camels, zebra, etc., —all going to make up a procession rarely seen here or anywhere else. It was witnessed by an immense crowd, who lined the streets and gazed in wonder.

The exhibitions in the afternoon and evening were very fine. The ring acts were really excellent and elicited great applause, while the collection of animals embraced representatives of almost every known land. The exhibition gave universal satisfaction. The veteran Manager Frost may well feel proud of his show this year. If it meets with the success its merits deserve, its proprietors will close the season with a good fat purse.—Poughkeepsie Sunday Courier.

The Van Amburgh show, so strongly endorsed above, will exhibit in this city to-morrow, May 30th.

THE MYSTIC.

Capt. Rashe Trefethen's steamer Mystic came off the railway at Kittery on Wednesday of this week, after receiving a thorough overhaul, and having the new engine made for her by the Portsmouth Machine Co. set up by Mr. Henry Knights, a guarantee that the job was done in the best manner. The new engine has about one-third more power than the old one, and as the new boiler put into the boat last year has sufficient capacity to supply the steam needed, her motive power may be considered in perfect condition, and her speed is expected to show a decided increase. She always was a stiff, safe boat, even when she first arrived on the river, at which time she was certainly no beauty to look at, her present respectable bow and stern having been put on her since she was bought by Capt. Trefethen. An improvement just made is the placing of heavy guard-streaks on each bow, low enough down to take against any floating stage she may go alongside of, thus obviating any danger of getting her planking chafed or stove from that cause when making a landing. She steamed across the river to the navy yard landing on Thursday forenoon, and took in water; and her regular trips will be commenced on Saturday.

A telegram was received in this city on Thursday last from San Francisco, Cal., announcing the sudden death at that place on the morning of that day of Mr. Oliver L. Towle, formerly of this city.

The north millpond on Wednesday night of this week expressed itself most eloquently in favor of reform, addressing the olfactory senses of the people. The gates were lashed open, and the flats bare.

The Miratorium of the Civil War, besides the entertainments advertised, will give an exhibition to-morrow (Memorial day) forenoon at eleven o'clock, to accommodate the many strangers who will be in the city on that day. It is a most interesting as well as instructive entertainment.

The drilll-platform over Gangway rock was moved another "fleet" on Thursday last, the part of the rock within reach from its first position having been excavated to the specified depth from the surface. Three gondola loads of rocks have been removed, the work being pushed faster by the present contractor than by any previous one, two divers instead of one being constantly employed.

The alterations and improvements of the building on the corner of Daniel and Pleasant streets are far enough advanced to show that when completed the two stores fronting on Market square will be among the most desirable of any in the city, particularly the one on the corner, which will catch the eyes of people approaching from any direction. Besides the work already in progress, the roof of the building is to be raised so as to give a height of eight feet to the upper story, which is engaged for the central telephone exchange.

The Church of the Immaculate Conception was thronged with an immense congregation on Thursday evening, when the rite of confirmation was administered to some 120 applicants, Bishop Bradley officiating, assisted by Rev. Father O'Callaghan, pastor of the church, Rev. Father Murphy of Dover, and several clergymen from Manchester. The ceremonies were beautiful and very impressive. Bishop Bradley is an eloquent and pleasing speaker, and the musical part of the exercises merited special commendation.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY
Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put its evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first comparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. F. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is recommended as a genuine and safe failing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

FREDERICK THE GREAT.

It is related of an illustrious Russian general, that when a boy he lived for some time at the court of Frederick the Great, where the following incident occurred:

After the death of his father, his mother had many a hard struggle to support herself. This fact was well known to her son, whose greatest ambition at this time was to be able to provide comforts for her by his own exertions.

To his sorrow, he soon found that it was quite impossible to save any money for that purpose out of his small allowance. He did not despair, however, but assiduously set himself to watch his opportunity.

At length an idea flashed through his mind. It was a recognized custom that one of the pages should sit up all night, in a room adjoining the king's sleeping apartment, to be ready at any moment to obey a summons, should the king require his services.

Fritz discovered that to some of the pages this duty was both burdensome and disagreeable, and that to provide a substitute they would gladly give a certain sum of money. Fritz offered to take upon himself the night-watch for any one who might be willing to pay him rather than accept the duty when their turn came round.

The offer was acceded to by several, and the money thus earned was regularly sent by Fritz to his mother.

One night, the king could not sleep, and determined at last to call the page in attendance to read aloud to him. He called; but there was no response. At length he rose and walked into the ante-chamber, to look if there really was no page on duty.

Here he found a page, indeed, sitting at his post, but sound asleep. Slipping quietly forward to the table at which the boy was sitting, the king's eyes fell upon a letter which Fritz had been writing to his mother when overpowered by sleep. The king read the following lines:

"MY DEARLY BELOVED MOTHER: This is the third night that I have taken watch-duty for a comrade. I can scarcely hold out any longer; but I rejoice greatly that I have again earned ten thalers for you, which I send in this letter."

With a heart deeply touched by this proof of tender filial affection, the king went softly back to his room, took out two rolls of ducats from a drawer, and returned to the sleeping page, into whose side pockets he gently slid the rolls of money. Then betaking himself again to bed, the king considerately let exhausted nature to restore its lost rest.

Fritz at last awoke with a start, to find that he must have slept for several hours; and, when finding his pockets heavy, he thrust his hands in and pulled out the precious rolls of money, he conjectured at once what had happened.

Fear made him tremble, for it was a heinous offence to be caught asleep at his post; but in spite of the fear and shame he experienced, he could not but rejoice, for now he had ample means to assist his mother for a long time to come; and he hoped that the king, who, in the goodness of his heart, had put the ducats into his pockets, would pardon his grievous fault.

In the morning he seized the very first opportunity to approach the king, acknowledge the great dereliction of duty of which he had been guilty, and humbly beg for pardon.

One hurried glance at his monarch's benevolent countenance was enough, for there he read not only forgiveness but approval; the kind eyes bent upon him melted him to tenderness, and it was with a faltering voice he now gave expression to his heartfelt gratitude and thanks for the munificent gift his majesty had bestowed on him.

The king did not attempt to conceal the high admiration he felt for the filial love which had prompted Fritz to such noble, self-denying exertions. He made a few kindly inquiries regarding his mother's circumstances, assured him of his entire sympathy, and promised that from that day it would be his endeavor to promote the interests and pave the way to advancement of such a faithful, loving son.

And Frederick the Great was as good as his word. Step by step, as years rolled on, Fritz rose from one position of honor to another, and as a brave and skillful general he served his beloved king faithfully and well even to old age.

It is reported that Richard Gird, of San Bernardino county, proposes to donate the Chico Ranch to the State, and erect thereon a State Industrial School at his own expense. The ranch embraces 37,000 acres, and has upon it 10,000 cattle and 500 mules and horses. The gift, if made, will reach the munificent value of nearly $1,000,000.—Visalia (Cal.) Times.

It is not generally known that Vermont has a gold mine. It is called the "Rooks" and is located at Plymouth. From an annual report it appears that the mine produced from September, 1883, to January, 1885, $68,070 in gold, and paid four dividends aggregating $46,000, the yield varying between $33.88 and $60.59, while the cost declined $10.15 to $7.20 per ton for mining and milling.

In a poor family of Goffstown, N. H., the mother recently died. When the undertaker came to perform the duties of his office the father was asked the name of his wife. The only reply came, "Mother." No other name could be recollected. The daughters were called in and the same answer was received. They had never known their parent by any other name than "Mother." This is a literal fact, according to the Nashua Telegraph.

ECZEMA

And Every Species of Itching and Burning Diseases Positively Cured.

ECZEMA, or Salt Rheum, with its agonizing itching and burning, instantly relieved by a warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, and a single application of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure. This repeated daily, with two or three doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, to keep the blood cool, the perspiration pure and unirritating, the bowels open, the liver and kidneys active, will speedily cure Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Psoriasis, Itch, Prurigo, Scald Head, Dandruff, and every species of itching, Scaly, and Pimply Humors of the Scalp and Skin, when the best physicians and all known remedies fail.

Will McDonald, 2542 Dearborn St., Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Eczema or Salt Rheum on head, neck, face, arms, and legs for seventeen years; not able to walk except on hands and knees for one year; not able to help himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; all else pronounced his case hopeless; permanently cured by CUTICURA RESOLVENT (blood purifier) internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP (the great skin cures) externally.

Chas. Houghton, Esq., lawyer, 28 State St., Boston, reports a case of Eczema under his observation for ten years, which covered his face, body and limbs, and on which all known methods of treatment had been applied without benefit, which was completely cured solely by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, leaving a clean and healthy skin.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered untold torures from Eczema, which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. After the most careful doctoring and a consultation of physicians failed to relieve him, he used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and was cured, and has remained so to date.

Mr. John Thiel, Wilkesbarre, Pa., writes: "I have suffered from Salt Rheum for over eight years, at times so bad that I could not attend to my business for weeks at a time. Three boxes of CUTICURA and four bottles RESOLVENT have entirely cured me of this dreadful disease."

G. M. D.

Walking down Broadway is very pleasant when you feel well, and T—— K—— never felt better than when his friend asked him how he got over that severe cough of his so speedily. "Ah, my boy," said T——, "G. M. D. did it!" And his friend wondered what G. M. D. meant. He knew it did not mean a Good Many Doctors, for T—— K—— had tried a dozen in vain. "I have it," said he, just hitting the nail on the head, "you mean Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery,' or Gold Medal Deserved as my friend J—— S—— always dubs it." Sold by druggists.

Two Dangerous Seasons.

Spring and fall are times when so many people get sick. The changes in the weather are severe on feeble persons, and even those naturally strong are apt, as they say, "to be feeling miserable." Then they are just in condition to be struck down with some kind of fever. A bottle or two of Parker's Tonic will invigorate the digestion, put the liver, kidneys and blood in perfect order, and prevent more serious attacks. Why suffer, and perhaps die, when so simple a medicine will save you? Good for both sexes and all ages.

Quaker Testimony.

Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has done a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city while bathing some years ago was thrown violently against the life line and the injuries received resulted in an ovarian tumor which grew and enlarged until death seemed certain. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great value in preventing miscarriage and alleviating the pains and dangers of childbirth. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

Miss Pera Sickles of New Rochelle, N. Y., daughter of George G. Sickles, the millionaire, was married without her father's knowledge on May 28th by a priest at Fordham to William Quinn, also of New Rochelle. Edward Quinn, a brother of William, was courting Miss Pera all last summer, until he eloped with Hattie Marshall. Soon after this a young man from Connecticut ran away with Miss Roma Sickles, a younger sister.

HE FELL IN THE STREETS

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed middle age are its most common victims. Nothing is more urgently needed than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and we are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first compparatively slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1878. It passed away, and I had little more trouble until last July, 1883. One day when at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable!" I was frightened and went to the second, who said little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good.

Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. P. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." You may use my name freely.

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, dyspepsia and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is confidently offered as a safe, failing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

A derrick used in hoisting materials for the construction of the new Unitarian building on the corner of Beacon and Park streets, Boston, fell from the second story to the street, May 27th, instantly killing Miss Grace Lord, aged forty years, a well known translator of French works.

I have had catarrh for years in its worst form. Before I had used one bottle of Dr. Ely's Cream Balm droppings into my throat had ceased, pain and soreness in my head was removed, as well as deafness. It gives me immediate relief for cold in the head.—Mrs. J. D. Hagardorn, Union, N. Y. Price 50 cents.

The first shipment of red slate ever made to Europe was sent within a week or so from North Granville, N. Y. "It is a fact not generally known," says a New York paper, "that the only red slate in the world is found in four towns of Washington county."

Delicate Ladies!

Who have that tired and all-gone feeling, and don't like to be disturbed, will continue to be troubled with this complaint until they renew their impure blood. Sulphur Bitters will cause new and rich blood to course through every artery and vein in the human system. See another column.

Ensign William L. Todd, now on board the Alliance, has been tried by a court-martial ordered by Admiral Jouett, and found guilty of drunkenness. The court recommended that he be dismissed the service, but the recommendation has not yet been acted upon by the navy department.

"One of our oldest and most experienced physicians after many trials and consultations without benefit, gave Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer a thorough trial, and pronounces it superior to any cough remedy he ever saw. Any one wishing to know who the doctor is we will inform him."—Minneapolis, Minn., Evening Mail.

Professor Arnold states that the results of his experiments in feeding grain to milch cows show that four parts of bran, two parts of corn meal and one part of linseed meal form the best and cheapest food for milk producing.

Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no mistake. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

The fish commission steamer Albatross has left Washington for a summer cruise. After spending some time in the Chesapeake in search of the tile fish the vessel will be ordered to the grand banks with instructions to attempt to capture a complete specimen of the mammoth octopus. They will take with them some 100-pound torpedoes to be used in the search for the sea monster.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, May 29th.

James Hehir was before the court on a charge of brawl and tumult, but at the request of the prosecutor the case was placed on file during the defendant's good behavior.

BOUND TO FIND OUT.

"Shiver my tarry top lights!" exclaimed Secretary Whitney as he climbed aboard the United States frigate Omaha off Bedloe's island last Saturday. "Is this craft a Queen Anne cottage or a renaissance of a Nantucket wash-tub? Brace up her starboard bow and bring it around on her port stern. Lash her rudder to her main mizzentopmast, and if she must go down let her sink with all colors flying and her last shot in the locker!"

The above, from the Chicago News, may be but a flight of the wild western imagination, but it is probably about what the secretary actually knows concerning ships in general, and as much as he will know about the Omaha at the end of his investigation.

The declaration of the ruler of the navee regarding the probing of certain naval matters to the bottom reminds us of the confidence with which Commodore (now Rear-Admiral) John C. Howell, when commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, announced that he intended to fully master the "furniture account" of the yard, and straighten it out like a gunbarrel. The furniture account is the record of furniture in the officers' quarters, of which an inventory is taken whenever a change of officers occurs; and this inventory always foots up a much larger sum than the books show, and the discrepancy varies (and increases) every year. How to account for this phenomenon—the finding of more property on a navy yard than the books call for—was what Commodore Howell set about; and after some weeks of diligent application to inventories, ledgers for furniture, reports of clerks and "investigating committees," etc., he wrote to the department, in language so emphatic that it must have made the department's hair stand on end, that neither he nor any one else had found out or ever could find out anything about the blessed furniture account. A similar report, couched perhaps in more diplomatic language, so as to muddle things up a little and make the public think something has come very near being found out, will probably be the result of Sec. Whitney's investigation.

This being Memorial day it will be duly observed by this office, and in consequence no CHRONICLE will be issued on Monday.

Householders, do not put your rubbish-barrels on the curb-stones to-day; they won't be removed by the city teams, this being a holiday.

Messrs. Walker, Jones & Winchester of this city are the seventh on the list of heavy taxpayers in Dover, their assessment this year on the National block in that city being $900. The Dover Gas Light Co. pays $918, the Cocheco Manufacturing Co. $25,241.46, the Sawyer Woollen Mills $5,887, and Jonathan Sawyer $1,567.95.

No more appropriate entertainment could be desired for Memorial day than may be found at Franklin theatre, where the Miratorium is on exhibition with its rare beauties of scenic art, illustrating in a truthful manner the fortunes of our boys in blue who fought for the preservation of the Union. We can add but little to what we have already said in regard to the merits of this entertainment; it is worthy of patronage, and the hall should be filled to repletion at the few remaining performances. A special entertainment will be given this forenoon at eleven o'clock, and one also at 2:30 P. M. At both of these day exhibitions the admission for all, to any part of the house, will be but one dime. The last performance will be given to-night at eight o'clock.

There was quite a heavy white frost in the country on both sides of the river, adjacent to Portsmouth, Friday morning. It apparently did no injury, as it hardly reached the fruit trees, and the annual crops (excepting peas, which do not care for frost) are not high enough to be much harmed.

A large double-tenement house, two stories high, is being built in the Peirce field on the southerly side of Islington road, near its junction with Spinney's lane.

Loose hay, which early in the winter was as low as $12 to $15 a ton, according to quality, and a couple of weeks ago was sold on the Parade in large quantities at $16 a ton, has advanced in price, good hay this week readily commanding $18 a ton, and loads being quickly snapped up on arriving on the Parade. The quantity now being brought in is very scanty, there being but little of the surplus left in this vicinity.

The Red Stocking base ball club will play a game with the Dover club at Portsmouth Plains this afternoon. Game will be called at half-past two o'clock.

The potato bugs are reappearing this spring very numerously, and may be seen lurking under the weeds watching for the potato vines to appear.

The salt-water reservoir at the extension of Vaughan street is being reconstructed by the street commissioner's force.

Mrs. J. M. Tebbetts has received a fresh invoice of summer millinery, including a case of 25-cent "sailors" and a lot of trimmed hats for children. Gentlemen's hats are bleached and trimmed at this establishment as heretofore.

Messrs. George W. Marston and Albert E. Wood of New York, formerly of this city, have gone to Minneapolis, Minn., and in connection with Edward L. Fernald, formerly proprietor of the Great Falls Journal, will start a weekly paper in that city.

The steamer James Sampson, since commencing for the season her trips between Kittery Point and this city via Kittery Foreside and Newcastle, has been well patronized. She is a great accommodation to the visitors at the Point, both from here and abroad, who are desirous of making connection with the numerous railway trains arriving at or leaving this city, or taking a run up or down the river on other business. Capt. Duncan is an experienced officer, and ever courteous and affable to his passengers.

Over a thousand tons of coal arrived to J. Albert Walker on Thursday, one schooner, the Frank Vanderhercken, bringing 817 tons. We should think her name would be about all she could carry.

The schooner Nettie Cushman, from Rondout, N. Y., with 600 casks of cement, and the Wingaersheek, from Plum island, Newburyport, with sand, arrived on Friday to John H. Broughton.

The boat fishermen and lobsterers along the "eastern shore" have not met with much success of late, on account of the prevailing heavy seas.

Capt. Fernald's gondola Fearless, of Exeter, took a load of salt from E. F. Sise & Co. up river on Tuesday of this week; and on Friday she was taking on a load of coal at Jones' wharf, for Exeter. The gondola H. P. Spinney was on Friday afternoon loading at Appledore wharf with coal for the Isles of Shoals.

Capt. Symonds' dredging flotilla has commenced work on his contract for widening and deepening the channel of the upper Cocheco river.

Landlord Safford of the Pepperell house, Kittery Point, was in this city on Friday, busily engaged in arranging for the reopening of that popular resort on Wednesday, June 3d.

We copy the following from the Biddeford Journal: "F. A. Foote, the new restaurant keeper in Saco, has secured the services of his brother, Eugene I. Foote, as cook in his restaurant. Mr. Foote is lately from the navy, where he has served as officers' cook on the United States flagship Lancaster."

Two French Canadians at Saco have been fined $10 and costs each, for catching one black bass out of season.

Mr. Francis Raynes of Boston drove from that city to York last week with his private team, to visit his mother at his farm on Raynes' neck, and returned by the same means of conveyance.

The work of removing the iron from the Old Orchard Junction railroad came to a sudden stand-still on May 23d, by reason of an injunction being served in the interest of parties over whose land the road runs, who claim that their land damages remain unpaid.

The apple and pear trees have blossomed very thickly this season in that part of Kittery bordering on the ocean. The trees which grow there are very vigorous and hardy, and produce fruit which is more than ordinarily lasting. The corn in the same locality is coming up, and potatoes are also breaking ground. The old Cutts farm on Gerrish island (whereon is the grave of Champernowne) has been brought to a high state of cultivation by Mr. John Thaxter, who has a fine herd of Jersey cows. Upon the farm of Mr. William C. Raynes, who has paid attention to his ancestral possessions for nearly half a century, the grass is waving in the wind, and the land shows a generous return for the care bestowed on it; he keeps a considerable stock of cattle always, and the sea-weed thrown ashore at certain seasons of the year, properly composted, adds much to the fertility of the cultivable portions of the farm.

Ill. Frank A. McKean 33°, of Nashua, Deputy of the Supreme Council, will visit the various bodies of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite in this city on Tuesday evening, June 2d.

KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Cures a Terrible Case of Gravel When Other Help Failed.

What is Gravel? what causes it, and who are most liable to it? It is frequently attended with acute pain, and unless relief can be found, produces inflammation and death. Both sexes and all ages are liable to it, although men who have reached or passed mid-life are the most common victims. Nothing is more frequently neglected than a reliable medicine for Gravel, as the disease seems on the increase, and people are glad to say that such a specific is now before the public in the form of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y. We put in evidence the following letter, selected from many similar communications:

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy:

DEAR SIR:—You have a right to know, and I desire the public to know my experience with Gravel and my remarkable recovery through the use of your "FAVORITE REMEDY." I am a carpenter living in this place, and there are plenty of witnesses to the truth of what I say. My first or overall very slight attack of Gravel was in the year 1879. It passed away, and I had none more trouble until last July, 1883. One day then at work in my shop I was suddenly seized with a keen and terrible pain in my left side. I consulted two physicians at once. One said: "I can do nothing for you. Your case is incurable." I was frightened and went to the second, who gave little, but gave me a prescription. It did no good. Then began a series of experiences the agony and horror of which words cannot depict. Think of it! I was sometimes taken in the streets, and would fall, writhing with agony, upon the sidewalk. It was death in life. Thank Heaven, I then heard of "KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY," through Mr. F. F. Cooley. I had not used half a bottle when I passed three stones in succession, one of which was one-half an inch long. I persevered with the medicine, the symptoms gradually abated, and I have had no more trouble since. I am well, thanks to you and "FAVORITE REMEDY." Yours most gratefully,

JAMES D. KENNEDY.

What "FAVORITE REMEDY" did in this case it has done in many others. If you desire to do so Address—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is specially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Washed-Out Hair.

There is a sort of pallid, chalky complexion which the novelists call a "washed-out complexion." It is ghastly enough, and no wonder. Washed-out, faded, discolored, or parti-colored hair is almost as repulsive and melancholy. Parker's Hair Balsam will restore your hair to its original color, whatever it was; brown, auburn or black. Why wear moss on your head, when you may easily have lively, shining hair.

Col. Jake Kemple, while stumping for Blaine in Maine, fell in love with Nellie F. Goodwin of Farmington, and the other day Camp Meeting John Allen made the pair man and wife.

Working people are practically benefitted by the use of James Pyle's Pearline. It lessens the toil and drudgery of wash day, without damage to fabric or hands, and expedites all kinds of cleansing work surprisingly, without the aid of soap, soda or other preparations. Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

SOMERBY'S SUCCESS.

I never lag behind in my pursuit of the nimble and exclusive dollar but I think of Silas Somerby, and straightway push on refreshed. In the hope that it may encourage some fellow-toiler, I will briefly set down the story of his great success.

He began his business life in the employ of his father, in whose establishment he still remains, universally looked up to and honored by all whose position in the house is inferior to his own. It was arranged in the beginning that he was to live at home, and that he was to receive a salary of $10 a week, half of which was to be deducted in payment of his board. His father designed thus not only to give his only son a good start, but to inculcate at the very outset sound principles of economy, and to counteract his offspring to the now almost obsolete practice of laying aside a certain fixed percentage of his income to meet living expenses.

The son repaid the father's kindness with earnest effort, and at the end of six months he was one day summoned into his progenitors's private office, and thus addressed:

"Silas, I have observed with great pleasure your diligent attention to business, and have decided to raise your salary in practical recognition of your increased value. After to-day you will draw $15 a week, instead of $10, as heretofore. And by the way," the father added, as Silas turned to go, "as your living will now be, naturally, upon an increased scale of expenditure more in keeping with your augmented income, I shall hereafter deduct $10 a week, instead of $5, for your board."

Filled with a gratitude too deep for expression, Silas left the paternal presence resolved to deserve his kindness or perish. He redoubled his effort, and in six short months more he again stood one day, by particular request, before his father, who said, with a broad smile of satisfaction draped about his benevolent countenance:

"My boy, you are exceeding my fondest anticipations. Such endeavor as yours shall not go unrewarded. I have decided to raise your salary for the second time. Twenty-five dollars is the figure of the future, and may God bless you."

Here the old man paused; and in a voice trembling with genuine emotion Silas stammered forth his thanks. As he was leaving the room his father added, without raising his head from some papers over which he was busied:

"Oh, Silas, one more thing. I was about to add that this change in your circumstances will make a great difference in your mode of life. You will eat more, drink more, in fact, lead a broader and fuller life in every respect. I shall, therefore, charge you $20 a week for board after this date. Good morning."

In the next six months Silas surpassed himself, and boomed things to a perfectly phenomenal extent. He was not, consequently, wholly taken by surprise when he found on his desk one morning a note in his father's familiar hand. Hastily tearing open the envelope with hands trembling with pleasurable anticipation, he read as follows:

MY DEAR SON—I can not express to you my deep satisfaction in your wonderful progress, nor shall I express it, save but cash is, in such cases, the most accomplished conversationalist. Continue your efforts to double your present salary. Inclosed please find ck. for this week. Your affectionate FATHER.

The inclosure bore in the lower right-hand corner the flowing signature of the senior Somerby, and in the upper left the symbol $, followed by the figure 5. In an ecstasy of gratitude Silas pressed the letter to his lips. As he did so he observed the legend "Turn over" obscurely placed in the lower corner, and following instructions he read as follows:

P. S.—Your pecuniary circumstances are now such that you will no longer feel the need of economizing. A variety of mild extravagances, hitherto made inaccessible by limitations of income, are now within your grasp. You will feel like branching out in many directions. Men in your circumstances smoke 15-cent cigars, and drink wine—upon occasion. Attendance at theatres costs them as high as $45 a week. Yours will cost you precisely that amount.

Stimulated by these practical proofs of parental pride, Silas fairly humped himself, so to speak, during the next year, and, despite the distracting influence of a large income, attended more strictly to business. One day toward the end of the year he received a summons from his father, whom he found standing before the fire in his private office. Judge of his surprise when the good old man, laying his hand affectionately upon his son's shoulder, said:

"Silas, my boy, you have been doing nobly. I have long intended to more substantially reward your efforts than by mere words of praise, and I have decided to let that reward come in the form of a raise of salary. Mam aware that a salary of $100 a week will place you in society to which your poor old father can hardly aspire. It will be your proud privilege to give suppers to the ballet and to assist in booming the back and liquor interests of this great metropolis. I, alas! on account of deficiencies of early training and education, and lack of funds, can not tread these flowery paths with you; but the father is content to live again in the son, and to enjoy his triumphs in a back seat. I can scarcely hope," he continued, his voice trembling slightly, and a big tear running down his cheek, "to keep you at home with us any longer. Your new life will be at variance with our simple ways. You will, no doubt, feel like going to one of the principal hotels, and, perhaps, pay as much as $95 a week for board. We can not compete at home with the crockeryware and silver they will give you there to eat, nor with the manifold discomforts of the place; but, my boy, we can give you good, wholesome food, plainly served, and a hearty welcome, at the same price, and, by heavens, we will!"

And they did. And Somerby still has a place at their fireside, despite his altered circumstances. Happy in their son's success, the old folks never murmur, but put up with his late hours and altered way of life with a self-denying patience that is rare indeed.—Puck.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Georgietta, Alley master, which sailed from this port on the 30th ult. for York, Me., will take on board the cargo of lumber from the schooner Sea Foam, which was towed into that port derelict, and proceed to New York. The schooner John Bracewell, Munro master, which arrived on the 28th ult. with coal for Dover, sailed on the 30th for Bristol, Me., to load for New York.

The schooner Agnes E. Downs, of this port, Levi Downs master, arrived in New York on Friday, May 29th, with 280 barrels of mackerel.

The mayor probably forgot to inform the saloon keepers that they might be expected not to sell liquor on Memorial day. There has not been so much intoxication seen on our streets for many a day as on Saturday. However, the gas lights were not allowed to be burning on some of the streets in the evening, which concealed in part the state of affairs, but made it bad for those who in the dark and cloudy night sought their homes.

Augustus K. Brown's teams have for some days been engaged in hauling from Fort Constitution to the earthworks on Jerry's point, Newcastle, a quantity of material landed at the old fort and intended to be used for the planting of guns in the new one.

The list of surviving veterans of the war of the rebellion residing in this city, as published in the Penny Post memorial edition of Saturday, is manifestly incorrect in many particulars. Among the names omitted are those of John W. Stott and Frank A. Allen, the former of whom participated in eight naval engagements, while the latter was in active service through the war excepting six months spent in hospital. Mr. Allen enlisted in Co. E, 4th New Hampshire Volunteers, and was wounded and crippled in the hand at the battle of Drury's Bluff after having taken part in cutting the railroad track to Richmond; and he received two honorable discharges. He is a brother of Hon. Wm. H. H. Allen of Claremont, associate justice of the supreme court of New Hampshire, who presided at the late term of that court in this city. The names of at least thirty other war veterans were omitted, including John K. A. Hanson, Co. K, 13th N. H. Vols.; Charles E. Hawkins, master in the navy during the war, now boatswain; Lyman Hartford, first-class fireman on the U. S. S. Kearsarge; George Herbert, ordinary seaman in the navy; Cornelius Quinn, quarter gunner in the navy; Edwin Underhill, fireman in the navy; Thomas Watkins, first class fireman, William Watkins, boatswain's mate, Frank Watkins and Samuel Watkins, ordinary seamen in the navy, and others. There was a wholesale balloon ascension from Market square, Saturday afternoon, when a man who was selling gaily-colored toy balloons lost his hold of the entire lot, two or three dozen in number, while endeavoring to detach one for a purchaser. The light wares rose quickly and gracefully, meeting with a momentary obstruction in a telegraph wire, from which they shortly cleared themselves, and the sun shining out soon afterward caused them to rise to a considerable height through the expansion of the gas in them, and the last seen of them they were bound in the direction of Eliot, looking very pretty as they went, though their former proprietor probably did not admire the show.

A team belonging to James Canney of Newmarket, hitched on the wharf in the rear of the Spring market on Saturday, was stolen by Patrick Sheehan and John Crowley, and driven to Hampton, where it was abandoned by them, and was found at the owner's stable door Monday morning. Sheehan was arrested on Monday, and Crowley was being looked after in Seabrook.

The force in the department of construction at the navy yard is now reduced to the naval constructor, foreman shipwright, three clerks, three draughtsmen, three shipkeepers and five laborers. That force couldn't build a ship in six months.

How Pale You Are!

is frequently the exclamation of one lady to another. The fact is not a pleasant one to have mentioned, but still the act may be a kindly one, for it sets the party addressed to thinking, apprises her of the fact that she is not in good health, and leads her to seek a reason therefor. Col. Livermore's Resignation.

Col. Thomas L. Livermore, agent of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., was in town on Saturday, and left on the first Bangor Express for Bar Harbor.

At the station he met President Bliss of the Boston & Albany railway, who came with a party of friends occupying the directors' car of the B. & A. R. R., which ran through to Mt. Desert Ferry on the Maine Central. The party consists of a dozen gentlemen from Boston, who take a week's outing in Maine with occasional exercise with the gun and rod.

Col. Livermore's resignation is in accordance with his idea entertained for over a year past, of returning to the practice of the law in Boston. He will devote his energies to the specialty of patent law, in connection with Mr. Fred. P. Fish, a successful lawyer in that branch of practice, and a former student and a kinsman of Col. Livermore.

Col. Livermore leaves the Amoskeag Co. whenever the directors can decide in just what manner the vacancy can be best filled. It is not a matter of salary on the one hand, or of any question as to his management. The results under Col. Livermore have been eminently satisfactory. But he is a superior patent lawyer. He sees an opening, nay, he accepts a pressing invitation to accept large and important retainers in Boston, where business awaits his coming. Of course, an able patent lawyer, one who can combine a comprehensive knowledge of the laws of mechanism, as well as a familiarity with the administration of patent law, can realize a far greater income than any corporation in New Hampshire can afford to pay as a salary, and the Amoskeag Co. will doubtless be careful to secure the valuable counsel of Col. Livermore in the future. But this is the case of a man who though reaching a degree of ripeness in early years, has by no means reached his full growth. With all the enthusiasm of a lawyer wedded to a special branch of his profession, with unceasing invitations to resume his practice, Col. Livermore returns to a wider field, and doubtless, to a man of his legal training and research in his profession, a more congenial occupation than it can prove to remain at the head of the great Manchester corporation.

To the state, Col. Livermore's resignation entails a positive loss. He has numerous friends who have appreciated the manner in which he has so ably represented this capital which has done so much for Manchester and New Hampshire. He has been always the careful custodian of the interests committed to his charge, whatever may have been the possible personal results of his acts. The bar of the federal courts of the First Circuit will welcome his return to practice, while it is to be hoped that the sagacious management of the Amoskeag will be fortunate enough to find some able man or men who will as abundantly satisfy their requirements as has the retiring agent, since he has filled this responsible position.

BASE BALL.

The game of base ball at the Plains, Saturday afternoon last, between the Dover club and the Red Stockings of this city, attracted a large crowd of spectators, many of whom were from Dover. The game, notwithstanding the large score, was very exciting, and resulted in a victory for the Dover club by a score of twenty-seven to twenty-four. Mr. Jenness, the pitcher and captain of the Red Stockings, who is also an expert bicycle rider, rode from this city to Boston inside of four hours, and returned in four hours and a half, on Friday, the 29th ult.; he also rode from Rye to Newmarket on the morning of the 30th, pitched for the Exeter base ball club against the Newmarkets, winning the game, and afterward rode back to this city and played with his club in the afternoon. Quite a good day's work.

The Red Stockings are willing to play the Dover club another game, with the same players, for twenty-five or fifty dollars a side.

BICYCLE RACES.

The wheelmen of this city had a number of exciting road races on Saturday afternoon. A race of four and a half miles for a gold L. A. W. badge was won by Goodwin E. Philbrick in nineteen minutes and forty-five seconds. Harry B. Hutchinson won a two and one-quarter miles race against four competitors in ten minutes and twenty seconds, securing the 1st prize, the Outing magazine for one year. The slow race was won by A. Boynton.

POLICE COURT — BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, June 1st.

William McCarthy, charged with larceny from the person, was held in $500 to answer at the October term of the supreme court, and in default of sureties to stand committed to jail until that time. McCarthy snatched a watch from George Porter of South Berwick, on Market street, on the afternoon of Memorial day, and ran up Deer street, pursued by Mr. Porter, whom he dodged by running through yards to Russell and Green streets. Soon afterward Mr. Porter went into Mr. George Lane's, where he saw the thief and charged him with the crime; and on being detained by Mr. Lane the fellow gave the watch up, and was then allowed to go, being subsequently found by Officer Quinn hiding between two cars in the railroad yard. The accused was arrested in this city in 1882 for a similar offence, and served out a sentence in jail. His photograph ornaments the rogues' gallery.

John Smith, for drunkenness, was fined $3, with costs taxed at $6.90.

That Tired Feeling

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The memorial exercises on Saturday were carried out according to the published programme, with the exceptions that the marines from the navy yard did not do escort duty, there being only a squad there, and that the salute of minute guns at the south cemetery was omitted. The procession was not so extensive as in former years, being composed entirely of the Grand Army organizations; yet to our mind the observances (including those of the evening) were more in consonance with the true spirit of the day than those of any previous year. The exercises at the South cemetery were carried out successfully in the usual manner, on the arrival of the procession there, they being witnessed by a large number of citizens and visitors. It was not a large audience, although a very select one, which assembled in Music hall in the evening to listen to the oration by Howe Call, Esq., and other exercises. Mr. Call's oration, an eloquent and masterly effort, was undoubtedly the finest memorial address ever delivered in this city. Besides being a careful arrangement of patriotic sentiment, it was delivered in a most pleasing manner, and listened to with closest attention by those present. It is an address which will wear, not only sounding well when delivered by an eloquent speaker, but will stand a careful perusal. We therefore publish it in full:

We have come to remember the fallen, and by the ceremonies of this day to keep fresh and green in our hearts the sacred memory of those who sacrificed their lives for a united and common country. As year after year rolls on, we feel more deeply our debt of gratitude and in a manner most significant we decorate their graves. We miss them, they were our friends; their lives and others such by the hundreds of thousands were the price paid for the blessings we enjoy to-day. The presence of these men upon this stage, mere remnant as they are, speak to you more potently, more powerfully and more eloquently than any words of mine; the thought of their trials, their sufferings, their comrades devoted sacrifice of life; resulting in keeping every star of our national emblem in its place, moves and excites us, as it has already awakened an undying enthusiasm in all parts of our country, south as well as north, to preserve its integrity forever.

At the time when our forefathers wrested from the House of Brunswick our liberties and our country, they were the sons of Portsmouth who committed the first overt act in behalf of freedom and independence. It was the battle of Bunker Hill which virtually decided our independence, and it was through the material aid given by Portsmouth and by the indomitable bravery of the sons of our glorious old Granite State; that made Bunker Hill a possibility and memorable in history.

From the time when John Sullivan with a company of those stern old patriots, at the dead of night, sailed down our beautiful river and captured the powder from fort King William and Mary, to the present day, New Hampshire has always been at the forefront, battling both in war and peace for civil and religious liberty. In the time of our late civil strife, we naturally took an interest in all those whom Portsmouth, whom New Hampshire sent forth at each demand of duty, both on land and sea; fighting under Farragut as he was chained to the mast, or under Joe Hooker when he commanded the second regiment of New Hampshire volunteers, alone and unassisted, as a forlorn hope, to charge a battery of the enemy; when brigade after brigade had charged that same battery and had been repulsed, defeated and routed. Well do we remember the glory of that charge, with almost certain death staring them in the face; they marched on and on, with their dead comrades strewn thick behind, until they leaped upon the ramparts, met the enemy face to face, and as steel clashed against steel, slowly forced them back, step by step, and won a glorious victory.

Well do we remember the heroic achievements and the bravery both of the North and the South. It was the brave against the brave. America raises no cowards! Even the rocks of New Hampshire produce men as immovable as our "old man of the mountains."

Young as I was I could not help but feel an interest, and all my sympathies went out to the men who bore the heat and burden of the day, men subject to cruel orders which allowed no fatigue. The men who either in advance, on picket duty or sleeping with a stone for a pillow and the earth for a bed, the men who bore the musket on their shoulders rather than those who gave the command. It is to them Union soldier we owe a debt of gratitude we never can repay.

Those were the men who were ordered to take the rifle pits at the base of Mission Ridge. At the word it was done. They then commenced marching up the mountain, towering above their heads at an angle of forty-five degrees; fortified by a series of rifle pits and batteries from its base to its summit. To reach the top was almost certain death—a deed impossible. And yet it was the Union soldier who performed the miracle. Soon the recall was made! The retreat was sounded! but the silvery notes of the bugles calling them back! back for your lives! were as unheeded as the gasping cries of their wounded, mangled comrades, crushed and torn before that dreadful storm of shot and shell and shected flame, which made it seem like some magnificent drama, with its roar and din, not of earth, but of Gods at war with hell. The bugle notes floated by unheeded; their only command was that of destiny. Charge on! Charge on to conquer, and to die. Now rushing on; now creeping up hand over hand; over rifle pits, past batteries, rendered silent only at the expense of thousands of little streams of red as they came trickling down that hill. And now above the clouds, the silvery notes seemed but music to their ears, as spurring the ground with their feet, they rushed on and on, resolved never to stop, until they gathered around the flag at the top, or stand in the presence of God. And they climbed those rugged pathways; they surged above the crest and they placed the flag that immortal emblem, on the very peak high above the clouds. Where that heroic band gathered there will ever remain to us as lasting monuments of what American valor has done.

We can now understand how it was that a few thousand Americans in '48 conquered Mexico. And as a mere handful of men conquered that nation numerically superior to the South, we can now understand why it took two million armed men; that it cost hundreds of thousands of lives and countless treasure to bring back to reason our erring, misguided brethren. They were of the same race; the same blood flowed in their veins, they breathed the same air of liberty and lived beneath the same free institutions.

We can now understand what it was that made Daniel Webster on Bunker Hill when asking the crowd to make room and stand back, and a voice replied, "we can't, its impossible," draw himself up to his full height and thunder forth, "Impossible! Impossible! Nothing is impossible on Bunker Hill."

So it was with the men whom Portsmouth, whom New Hampshire sent forth. These men upon this stage who gladly gave four of the best years of their life to preserve the Union, for the sake of liberty. Nothing was impossible for them. Had it not been for their sacrifice, (and we all reap the reward of their toil and danger) they would each and every one occupy higher and better positions in society and in life than they do to-day. For them nothing that man could do was impossible.

But those men who scaled the mountain, that heroic band in that immortal charge, what did they follow? They were not a mere rushing herd, for some there were who are now occupying high positions in life, professors of universities and leaders at the bar and in thought and science, they were not a mere rushing herd; an immortal emblem led them. It led them to that high position of honor where they placed it, sacred to the living and the dead; its foundations an altar, garnished by the sacrifice of their common lives, and there it waved with every star as brightly shining as the constellations which burn in the deep blue vault of heaven. And to-day their brave survivors remembering their unselfish devotion to principle—their patriotism, and their glory, all over this country have placed upon every grave the noblest monument in all the earth, the flag for which they lost their lives.

There is one whom I wish to mention, and especially so to-day, as he lies lingering, languishing, tortured by protracted anguish to certain death, by an insidious foe which even his indomitable will cannot overcome, and all the love, all the sympathy, and all the respect which a united and grateful people have for their great and distinguished chieftian, go out to him and bear him company in these his last days on earth with us. He is the great American. His name was typical of his destiny. U. S. Grant was born for us. He lived for the United States. He is all our own and to-day he is the nation's patient.

Twenty-five years ago he was an untried man, unknown to fame. By the destiny of events, he first drew forth the astonished gaze and then the respect and admiration of the world. You all remember his victorious career. From the time at Pittsburg landing, when amidst a storm of leaden hail, he led his troops in person and snatched victory from the jaws of defeat, to the time when Lee offered him the hilt of his sword and he said, Put up your sword, it is not for me to heap humiliation upon the brave; and to the vanquished, Take your horses, your property, your camp equipage, and go home, and plough, sow, reap, and enjoy to the utmost the blessings of a once more united and common country.

You remember him again; that modest and unostentatious man, without place or power. His highest honor—an American citizen—sail around the world, with every nation anxious to do him reverence—to honor that calm and resolute man; that great and brave general Ulyses S. Grant.

While we are always ready to praise the brilliant achievements and the glory, we cannot forget the sorrow we feel for the dead. Some there were to whom they were all in all in life; some mother, sister, wife or daughter whose hearts still bleed for the heroic dead.

It is only those who remain who are plunged in anguish. Only those who have lost what can never return. Only those who have yet to take that last great step towards the unknown, and whose hearts are filled with sympathy and love who sorrow.

Those heroes, they gladly died for the preservation of our free institutions, and we love them for what they have done. They have given us peace, prosperity, union, liberty. We love them for the heroic grandeur of their lives. We love them for showing us what Americans can do and what American valor has done.

Some weeks ago, as I walked through the heights of Arlington, past that grand old mansion, once the residence of Gen. Lee, and read the short and simple stories on their tombs, I felt a warm glow come over me and all the springs of sentiment, of sympathy and compassion came bubbling up and bursting forth as I stopped before a monument erected to the memory of the unknown dead—unsung, unwept, unknelled. Peace to your ashes—your blood has not been shed in vain. The heroic dead! Are those heroes dead? Are those we honor dead? Is Laighton dead? Is Richards dead? Is our grand old war Governor, Ichabod Goodwin dead? Are those who were ever fit to live, dead? Dead! They never die. They live! They speak to you to-night. Even the wind as it comes sighing through the trees; through our grand old streets. Aye! through these open windows, as if from some far off distant shore, seems laden only with notes of joy and triumph, from the mute lips of the heroic dead. What you have given us, country! union with liberty! a Nation, we will preserve. Preserve it by demanding honesty in government and integrity at home. Preserve it by making our common schools and the worship of God the foundation of liberty. In all that pertains to government as well as to the affairs of private life to do justly is to act wisely.

"What constitutes a state?
"Not high raised battlements or labored mound,
"Thick walls or moated gate;
"Not cities, proud with spires and turrets crowned;
"Not bays and broad armed ports,
"Where, laughing at the storm, rich navies pride;
"Nor starred nor spangled courts,
"Where low born baseness waits perfume to pride;
"No! men, high minded men,
"With powers above dull brutes, endowed
"In forest, brake or den,
"As beasts excel cold rocks and brambles rude;
"Men who their duties know,
"And know their rights and knowing, dare maintain.
"Prevent the long aimed blow
"And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain;
"These constitute a state."

No more satisfactory a series of evening exercises for Memorial day has ever been produced in Music hall than on Saturday last. Miss Edith Wendell maintained her well earned reputation as a vocalist; the songs of the male quartette were pleasing and well received, and the harmonica playing of Mr. Goodwin E. Philbrick was evidently a delight to all. Mrs. Lizzie (Varrell) Hatch's recitations were finely rendered, her enunciation being beautifully distinct, and the true spirit of the selections skillfully brought out by the fair speaker; it is but mild praise to say that her share of the entertainment was far superior to that afforded by many of the professional elocutionists, a fact which the audience recognized with liberal applause, to which she gracefully and courteously responded. The South Berwick band gave entire satisfaction in their numbers, and the exercises as a whole were creditable alike to those who arranged and those who carried them into effect.

Memorial day was celebrated with great eclat at Rochester. There were present from this city Commander M. M. Collis of the G. A. R., department of New Hampshire, and Adjutant George E. Hodgdon, one of the most prominent workers of the order in the state, both of whom served through the war with honor. A fine soldiers' monument of Quincy granite, with a polished die bearing an appropriate inscription, was dedicated. A bronze statue of a Union soldier, from the Ames works at Chicopee, Mass., surmounts the monument. An appropriate address was delivered by Major George S. Merrill of Lawrence, Mass., past national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Hon. Thomas Harland, a prominent lawyer of New York and formerly deputy commissioner of internal revenue, has arrived at Newcastle, where he will occupy Mr. E. C. Stedman's cottage for the season.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their nature. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the following letter had half-truthfully taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. It soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.

St Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete without this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially efficacious as a tonic, and a specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impoverished state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is a priceless boon, proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5 by all druggists.

GOTTSCHALK'S BATTLE-PIECE.

Gottschalk was announced to give a concert at a mining district. It was a prosperous town. All preparations had been made, and tickets sold at a high price and in large numbers. On the day of the concert the distinguished pianist arrived and, with the landlord of the hotel and a few new acquaintances, went over to the hall (which, by the way, was a wagon storehouse, the only available place), to see if the piano was in the right position and the proper arrangements made for the concert in the evening, when, to Gottschalk's astonishment, he found that his grand piano had not arrived. It was four o'clock in the afternoon, and no other train that evening. What to do they did not know, as no one in town owned a piano. The seats were all sold, and the miners were not a class of men to be trifled with; and to make matters worse, they had lately been swindled by a gift performer. A statement that the piano had not arrived would have been pronounced "too thin," and brought down the wrath of the miners. They were in an awkward dilemma. Suddenly one of the party remembered that a German band lately arrived and located on the outskirts of the settlement, who had brought with him something that looked like a piano. This was glorious news. A wagon was obtained, and the whole party drove to the Dutchman's house, determined to get the piano, if they had to buy it.

The German was sitting outside his door, and was highly pleased at seeing such a distinguished deputation calling on him, and brushing up his best English said:

"Shentlemen, I vas capituvated mit seeing you; come sit down, and I will go to the sellar and bring up some fine sour milk."

The party were not in the mood for sour milk, so the proffered refreshment was declined, and business proceeded with once more.

"Kaiser," said the landlord, "we understand you have have got a piano; we want to borrow it for to-night; can we have it?"

"Veil, shentlemen," said he, "I don't like to say no, but since my little Katrina vot used to play so nice on them died, we lock 'em up and buts de key away, and it don't been open now mit ten years, and it would make my heart so sad to see someones play on poor Katrina's biano und my darling not here."

Gottschalk, who was very tender-hearted, was almost inclined to abandon the idea of getting the piano and not wound the heart of the old man. But the landlord who knew the set of people they would have to deal with in the evening, would not listen to any such thing, and after some talk obtained Kaiser's consent.

It was now close on six o'clock, the key was mislaid, and the instrument locked. There was no time to be lost, so the piano was placed in the wagon and taken to the hall, the old man leaving word with his wife to "hunt the key up, and send Yacup down to de hall mit it as soon as she found it."

Arrived at their destination, they found "Yacup" already there with the key. The piano was opened, Gottschalk ran his fingers over the keys and "Oh, horror!" no sound was produced; yes, there was one note sounded, and on investigation there was found to be only one string left in the piano, the middle B flat. Here was a worse predicament than ever, and Gottschalk was nearly wild.

Suddenly a brilliant idea flashed upon him. The hammers struck sharply against the sounding-board, the concussion producing a sound not unlike that of small arms, and the one sounding note could be used as a trumpet.

The people were now coming into the concert-room, and Gottschalk at once made up his mind to play "A Grand Battle-Piece," and trust to luck to get out of the difficulty.

At the time advertised he appeared on the platform, and announced his programme. He commenced his battle with the feeling that he was leading a forlorn hope. The bugle sounded softly, as if from a distant calling the infantry; presently the hammers rattled out a sharp roll of musketry, the firing gradually increasing until the battle raged at its fiercest. Then he made the firing die away amid the retreating sound of the trumpet; his musketry was rattling all the time. Gottschalk was in a cold perspiration, expecting every moment to receive a few bullets through his head from the enraged audience. Escaping that, as he fired his last gun, he looked around, expecting a committee of miners to advance on the stage for the purpose of lynching him.

He was mistaken; vociferous applause greeted his novel performance, and they insisted on his repeating it, and that would not content them, and he had to go through it six times. His triumph was complete, and he had come out of his dilemma with flying colors.

"But did they not find out the way they had been sold the next day?" I asked him.

"No, indeed," he replied; "why, the next morning a committee of veteran miners waited upon me at the hotel, and handed me a petition, signed by all the influential gold-diggers in the place, asking me to repeat the concert."

The "Battle-Piece" had a second performance and Gottschalk found that the temporary detention of his piano proved a profitable accident.

The Eloquent Pause of a Chinaman.

As a reporter was passing a Washton street store, this morning, the door flew open and a wild-eyed Chinaman sprang out on the sidewalk, and, casting back a frightened look, fled down the street. He had not made two strides when the door again flew open and a Mongol, with his eyes flashing fire, sprang after him with a cry of "Ah yen no muck——." He stopped at "muck." The door had a spring which closed it with a snap. The door had caught his pigtail. He stopped short, struck his chest with his chin, and landed kerbiff. His enemy slid around the corner and disappeared, and the nearly-scalped Chinaman brushed a tear from his eye, tenderly loosened his cue, and went back into the store a pained, yet a very mad Celestial.—San Francisco Post.

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspension of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and open the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

According to the records of the hydrographic office the amount of ice and the number of icebergs which have appeared in the direct path of European steamers within a month is unprecedented. The forthcoming monthly map will contain a statement of the number of vessels injured by collision with icebergs during the month so far as heard from. The list now numbers twenty-seven. The ice has not appeared south of parallel forty-one, or east of meridian forty. The region infested by ice was very closely predicted in the publication of the hydrographic office a month ago, and the safe route marked just south and east of the limits mentioned.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went twelve miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day. Words cannot express our feelings towards you.

"The Country Week."

The "Country Week," conducted by the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, has given, since its inauguration in 1879, more than twelve thousand of the poor children of the city the pleasure of a ten days' visit in the country in summer, a pleasure which they would not otherwise have enjoyed. Aside from the benefit to health, of which there is abundant evidence, the visitors have gained much morally from the changes in surroundings and influences; and this is especially true of those children who have been received in families as guests. The influence of home life thus received is the greatest benefit that can be derived from the visit, and often has an effect upon the whole future life of the visitor. Work for the present season has already commenced. The children are ready, the invitations are wanted. If you are willing to extend the hospitality of your home to one or more children during the summer, address Miss Ellen H. Bailey, secretary, No. 18 Boylston street, Boston, who will furnish any further information desired. Fares will be paid by the committee.

Excursions to the Yellowstone National Park.

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's two grand excursions to the Yellowstone National Park (July 23d and August 27th) are likely to be largely patronized—that is as largely as the management provides for, the size of each party being limited to the accommodation of two Pullman cars, every person being entitled to a double sleeping-berth. The journey to the Park will be made in easy stages with stops at many picturesque points, and also at one of the great wheat farms in Dakota, where it will be seen how the great bonanza wheat farmers carry on operations in harvest time. The tour of the Park will be made in a comfortable manner and more than twice the customary length of time will be devoted to the wonders of that region—the great geysers, springs, falls, Grand Canons, etc. At the Upper Geyser Basin, for instance, where visitors usually stop over night and part of a day only, the Raymond excursionists will pass sixty hours. Full descriptive circulars (also "Twelve Summer Trips") may be had by addressing W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston.

Mr. Wm. T. Frye has arrived home from a prolonged visit to his friends in Boston as well as at the eastward, in good health. Mr. Frye is a veteran fishermen's cooper, and has dealt extensively with the alewive fishermen on the upper Piscataqua for many years. From the manner in which this fishery has been conducted, he thinks it has caused a decided diminution in the number of these fish in the waters of our river, but in the rivers of eastern Maine they are very plentiful, and being taken in large quantity are very cheaply purchased. Mr. Frye has been on the side in politics which has kept him out of any government employment for many years; but he has been mentioned as boss of the coopers at the navy yard, should business ever start up there again under this administration.

The crowds in New Orleans at the Great Exposition, on their return home are loud in their approval of the honesty of the renowned Louisiana State Lottery. This is true, even when the scheme meets their disapproval. The next grand drawing will occur on Tuesday, June 16th, when the will give $1 000 for $10, and throw around promiscuously over half a million of dollars among her admirers, of which M. A. HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

The annual Memorial day was in gala holiday attire. There was a popular address from a platform in front of the town hall, then a procession, and marching with an excellent band of music of twenty-one pieces from Dover, led by mounted marshals, and the decoration of soldiers' graves at the cemetery, with military salutes and flowers. A few ladies were in line, bravely trying to keep the long parade step to the music of the Union, but the effort would have been less apparent if not more graceful in the broader spheres of the hoopskirts of other days, than under the looped and reefed crinoline of current fashions. For some reason, I ken not why, the Great Physiological Architect did not adapt woman in her exquisite delicacy and matchless grace and beauty to all the lines of pursuits of men, though modern notions seem to be prepossessed with a bright ambition to do and out-do (I do not say undo) the fraternity of masculine humanity, by the sisterhood we love!

Mr. John Cutler received three carloads of dimension lumber from Maine, and a large force of skilled workmen from out of town, to-day, to rebuild the Sea View House, (much larger than the burned "Cottage") which he intends to have ready and open for guests on the Fourth of July! **

HAMPTON, June 2d, '85.

The president on the 1st inst. appointed Judge Isaac A. Maynard of New York as second comptroller of the treasury, to succeed Mr. Upton, resigned. Mr. E. O. A NEW COLLECTOR.

Alfred F. Howard, Esq., on the 30th ult. forwarded to the secretary of the treasury his resignation of the office of collector of the port of Portsmouth. In his letter of resignation he says he has held the office since Dec. 24th, 1873, during which time he has endeavored to faithfully discharge its duties, and adds:

I have also during all that time been a zealous member of the republican party, and in every way possible contributed to its success. Consequently my "offensive partisanship" can be established by many witnesses. For twenty years I have also been a firm believer in the old Jacksonian doctrine: "To the victor belongs the spoils." Consistency, therefore, compels me firmly to adhere to these principles and convictions in defeat as well as in victory. The republicans having been defeated at the polls in November, and a democratic administration being now firmly established, the offices and patronage of right belong to those who have waited for nearly three months for the moving of the political waters, which thus far do not seem to move. In my judgment the hungry and thirsty, to use a common phrase, should no longer be deprived of the fruits of their victory. I, therefore, quit and deliver up the office which I have held for nearly twelve years.

On the 1st inst. the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Howard was filled by the appointment of Alpheus A. Hanscom, Esq., editor and proprietor of the Times, as collector of this port.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner Newsboy, Osier master, early on Tuesday morning, the 2d inst., struck on Anderson's rock, the outermost danger of the Isles of Shoals, situated between one and two miles directly out to sea from White island light, and with her fare of 5000 pounds of haddock became a total loss, the crew escaping in their dories with only what they stood in, losing all their spare clothing and gear. The Newsboy was a small craft of twelve tons register, and was owned in Lane's Cove, near Gloucester, Mass. Though Anderson's rock is a most dangerous place, this is only the second wreck we remember to have recorded as occurring there, the other being that of the schooner Pilot, a small coaster bound from Boston to the port in eastern Maine where she belonged, with a general cargo, and which sank out of sight in the deep water near the rock a few minutes after striking, the crew barely escaping in the yawl, and landing at Rye, whence they immediately proceeded to their homes. The wreck of the Pilot was not reported until two or three years after it took place, and we only heard of it then through a Shoals fisherman to whom we incidentally spoke of the strangeness of the fact that Anderson's rock had never been the scene of a total wreck, so far as was known. It is more than likely that the ugly obstruction has picked up other crafts, that were never heard from afterward. The Newsboy was anchored in Star island roads Monday night, and was going out when she struck the rock, over which the sea was not breaking at the time; she went down in five minutes, in thirty-six fathoms of water. The men, four in number, landed at the Oceanic, and with three dories saved by them were brought into this port by the steamer Pinafore.

Capt. Hodgdon, of the big three-masted schooner Yale, arrived back to his command on Tuesday from a visit home. On Memorial day the Yale's full suit of flags were displayed at half mast by the first officer, while the other vessels lying at the wharves showed none. The mate said they were so mean as to be afraid of wearing them out, but that the Yale's flags were bought for use and not to be kept stowed away.

The suit brought by Solon S. Andrews of Biddeford against the owners of the schooner Satellite, for damages caused by the collision of the schooner with the plaintiff's drill-stand and sloop over Gangway rock in this harbor in 1883, and which was recently heard in Portland before Judge Webb of the United States court, was decided in favor of Mr. Andrews. The case was tried in the state court at Biddeford last year, the jury on that occasion finding for the schooner.

Lemuel B. Caswell's boat came in from Smuttynose island, Isles of Shoals, on Sunday, and went out again, taking supplies from Thomas J. Sheehan. The wind was from the eastward, rain was falling and the whalesback foghorn sounding when the boat started out, but no notice was taken of these trifles, as the sea was smooth inside. Mr. Caswell's friends will be pleased to learn that he has already taken fish enough to keep his force occupied in drying for a long time. He is now the only person who prepares the "dun fish" for which the Shoals were so long noted, and which commodity always brings a good price.

The new electric fire alarm is completed, and will be tested by striking to-day.

Rev. John A. Goss, who delivered his farewell sermon in the Court street Christian church on Sunday last, left this city on Monday afternoon for Haverhill, Mass., where he will at once enter upon the duties of his new pastorate.

The sarcophagus over the ancient tomb of the Vaughans in the old cemetery at Point of Graves was made in the stone and marble yard of Mr. Silas Philbrick on Water street. There is no finer specimen of stone work in the city, that we know of.

The apple trees about the city are now in full bloom, and there is promise of an abundant crop of apples.

The Appledore house at the Isles of Shoals will be open this season from June 25th to Sept 20th.

We hear only commendatory remarks concerning the Memorial address of Howe Call, Esq., at Music hall on Saturday evening, both the matter of the address and the manner of its delivery having apparently been pleasing in the extreme to all who had the good fortune to be present.

The roads out of the compact part of the city are being put in good condition for the summer travel. Gravel is being put where it will do the most good on the hill roads at Sagamore, on the road between Powder-house hill and the Plains, and in other places where required.

A steam carpet duster is being operated by O. F. Philbrick & Co. on Water street. The dust is all beaten out, and the steam permeating through a carpet or any other material of course removes all germs of disease, or any other impurity.

Mr. Nathan Jones has received about 300 harnesses from the east. They are made from oak-tanned leather, hand-stitched at the Maine state prison, and are for sale at low prices. It seems too bad, however, that convict labor should be brought in competition with honest workmanship.

The Bengal tigress connected with the Van Amburgh show, some weeks since in a fit of frenzy bit off the most of her tail. Pieces of bone were rapidly coming out, and while at Salem Dr. Al. Watts, a famous dog doctor of Boston, was sent for to operate on the tail. The tigress was tied with ropes while the surgeon treated the case and removed the splintered bones. Several members of the S. P. C. A. visited the show in this city on Saturday, when the tigress was reported to be as comfortable as could be expected.

The removal of the staging and a portion of the temporary board covering from the front of the Rockingham house this week, gives some glimpse of the architectural beauties of the building. High up over the main entrance in the original structure is a medallion of Hon. Woodbury Langdon, the original builder of the house, and over the eastern or ladies' entrance is a like medallion of Hon. Frank Jones, the present rebuilder of the mansion. The former is made from a photograph taken from an original portrait of Mr. Langdon. There are also, lower down, medallions representing the four seasons. The architectural design is certainly far more beautiful than that of any other building of the kind in the state. Every effort seems to be exerted to make the new building not only beautiful but substantial in every respect. The fire escapes on the eastern side of the building are of the many thoughtful means of safety here adopted.

Mr. John Shea, a son of Dennis Shea of this city, who is employed on one of the steamboats running from Jacksonville, Florida, to Sanford, is spending a few weeks at home, having arrived a day or two since. The steamer on which he is employed is hauled up for repairs.

The editor of the Newmarket Advertiser says the statement that the last time the "greatest show on earth" was in this city was in 1876 is an error, as "Barnum exhibited at Portsmouth June 28th, 1879, as we well remember. We attended the show, going by water, and in returning got caught in three separate thunder showers, and were finally obliged to spend the night at Shute Brothers' gunning 'coop.' Oh! no! we shall not forget that trip, not much."

The Centennial house at Sea point, Gerrish's island, facing the sea and belonging to Mr. Patch of Kittery, has already been occupied this season by small parties. This site would be very convenient for a summer hotel were it not for the mosquitoes, which are now appearing in swarms on the marsh in the rear of it, at the extreme end of Chauncey's creek; a few charges of dynamite would open the creek to the sea, and high tides would perhaps clear out part of the pests, which breed in the stagnant waters.

They seem to lay out considerable money in repairing the roads in the adjacent towns of York county—Kittery, Eliot and York—but instead of hauling gravel for that purpose, the roadmasters content themselves with ploughing up loam or clay at the sides of the road, with which to handsomely round up the middle. The consequence is that in the wet weather of spring wheels sink to their hubs in mud, and in the droughts of summer great clouds of dust arise and almost smother the unhappy person who drives over the route.

The Sea Cottage at Long sands, York beach, is now open for the season. The cottage has been entirely renovated since last year; the dining-room floor is laid with bird's-eye maple, and the house has been repainted inside and out. Landlord Grant was in this city on Monday for supplies, driving the fine colt "Fanny Smith," accounted to be the best trotter of her age in York county, if not in the whole state of Maine.

The United States quarantine station at Widow's island, Me., is ready for occupancy, and Secretary Whitney has appointed Gilbert D. Amee of Kittery keeper.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are few.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became unable that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

34 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. Those who are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a tonic for the cure of Kidney Biliary and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from those ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

The Mighty Farmer.

A Minneapolis Tribune reporter encountered Oliver Dalrymple, owner and manager of the famous farm. In regard to wheat raising this year, Mr. Dalrymple said: "I put in 30,000 acres of wheat this year. The season was never more advantageous, nor the ground in better condition for seeding than it was this spring. There was no snow on the prairie to speak of, and, consequently, no water to retard the progress of the farmers in their spring work. The wheat I put in this year is known as the Scotch fife variety; I consider it the best yielding seed that I can get. I anticipate that the acreage of Minnesota and Dakota this year will be about as large as it was last. The farmers seem to be in good condition and good spirits, and with a bright outlook for a good crop they will seed all the land they can. I am counting on an average yield next fall of eighteen bushels to the acre. Of course this is all visionary, but that was about my average last year, and I am figuring out this. This year will make the tenth crop I have raised in Dakota, and I have averaged 90 cents a bushel for my wheat. Of course some has been more and some less, but I think I can safely put the average at 90 cents. I don't think it will be necessary for me to increase my number of machines this year; what I have are in good condition. Next fall I shall run 200 harvesters and twine-binders and thirty steam threshers, if the crop turns out as I expect it will, and this will necessitate the employment of 800 horses and 1,000 men. Advances were made to me some time ago by the Canadian Pacific railroad company to open up a large farm in the Saskatchewan valley, for the purpose of demonstrating the advantages of that country as a wheat raising region, but I concluded that Dakota was good enough for me and propose to stay by her. She has undoubtedly the richest soil to be found in any part of the United States. Western Missouri and southwestern Nebraska come next. We have had a fine winter in the territories. Stock has wintered splendidly. The farmers have been comfortable, and everybody seems to be satisfied."

No More Introductions in Boston.

Our "best people" are setting the ban of their displeasure upon the custom of introducing people to other people. The social lines, including guests who may be introduced to other guests, are very tightly drawn, and an invitation to people in good society to visit them does not by any means involve the probability of your becoming known to other guests. This is not taken to mean that you are not at liberty to "scrape acquaintance" with any of the lordly guests if you choose to make the attempt, but simply that the hostess considers it no part of her duty to impose your acquaintanceship upon her other friends. There are some old families here, the bearers of pre-revolutionary names and pedigrees, who carry the absurd notion to a ridiculous extreme. Many of these families are as poor as church mice, and have no little trouble to scrape along in their shabby gentility, but the way they hold up their social superiority is something truly agonizing. I heard a bright and cultivated young lady telling of her experience under one of these ancestral roofs the other evening, and, as she is sensible enough to enjoy the absurdity of the whole pretentious custom, it gives her friends no little healthy amusement. At a private musicale a few evenings since, one of the young lady guests, who is a social favorite, as well as a remarkably fine amateur pianiste, was approached at the close of a brilliant performance by one of the grand and unapproachable dames, who condescended to say: "You play very well. You really must ask some one to introduce you to me!" Needless to say, the presentation has not yet been made.

Prisoners at Massowah.

I have just come to Massowah from Suakim, where five miles from that city I visited the recent battle-ground. I came from Suakim to Massowah in the Egyptian ship Melulla, in company with many rebels, prisoners taken in the late battles. Loaded with irons, but not subdued, they were proud to have fought in the holy cause. Some of them in their fury, and unable to do anything else, bit the railing of the deck; others spit on their chains. At their head was an old sheik, whose beard contrasted strangely with his dark face. During the day he stared gloomily at the sea, and in the evening, when the sun set, he called all his fellow-prisoners to prayer. I was extremely surprised when an Arab official, one Ibraim Effendi Lufti, who was on board, told me that all these prisoners were destined for Massowah and the neighborhood, and not only they, but five hundred others, who would be forwarded in a few days. All were to be confided to the custody of the Italian soldiers. The Egyptian officer seemed himself surprised at this. Why send to Massowah—where at any time the few soldiers might be wanted to suppress an insurrectionary movement of the natives? Why send there such a large number of fanatical prisoners already used to war? It is a bad sign that when these prisoners pass through the streets of Massowah they are surrounded by a number of natives, who press their hands and express signs and words which to me seem very suspicious.—Massowah Cor. Roma.

Mice, it is said, are more afraid of women than of men.

D. H. Moffat, who is President of the First National Bank of Denver, an institution whose deposits are over $3,000,000, was approached by Ferdinand Ward about a year ago with a request for a loan based on promises of enormous profits. Mr. Moffat, in speaking of it the other day, said: "Ward wanted $100,000, and said he could make for me $50,000 on it in sixty days. I told him I didn't know why he should be so good to me; that I had never done anything for him. I guess he understood me, for he went off. I never took any stock in the fellow. He was too white-livered. I never tie up to a man when I can see through his ears, as I could through Ward's."

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went twelve miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Are You Tired of Being Sick?
We want to say a word to the men, women and girls who work in stores, offices and factories. There are hundreds of thousands of you in the country. Very few of you are well. Your liver, stomach and kidneys are out of order. Parker's Tonic has cured hundreds of such cases. It is pure, sure and pleasant.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

The fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. Samuel Fernald and wife was celebrated at their residence in Kittery, Me., on Tuesday, May 26th. All of their four children, many kindred and their particular friends were in attendance; and the presents were numerous, costly and excellent in taste. The collation was perfect in all its appointments, being supplied by Dill Brothers, caterers, of Boston; and when the pleasant party dissolved all went away satisied that this was the most successful as well as the most elaborate entertainment given in our town within their memory.

During the evening a poem written for the occasion by a niece of Mr. Fernald's, a teacher in South Lincoln, Mass., was read; and a copy of the poem, handsomely printed in gold, was presented to each guest as a souvenir. Among the presents we noticed two elegant easy chairs and foot rests, one given by the brothers, sisters and their children, and the other by the neighbors; a fine French clock, by one of their children; a purse of gold, by their children, and several gold coins, by individuals; a hanging lamp, by relatives and friends in Eliot; a gold watch to Mrs. Fernald, from the children and other relatives; and numerous smaller articles, such as napkin rings, spoons, toilet sets, thermometer stand, gold thimble, salt bottles, fruit piece, books, gold pen and pencil, and baskets and bouquets of flowers exquisitely arranged.

There was nothing to mar the joyous harmony of the occasion, and if good wishes can compass it, the honored couple will celebrate their diamond wedding in due time. It is a coincidence that their fourth (and youngest) child, a son, was forty years old on the 26th, the date of their golden wedding. S. R.

STICKNEY BEATS THE RECORD.

About 300 persons assembled in Tremont hall at Lynn, Mass., on the evening of May 30th, to witness an attempt of Edward C. Stickney of this city, champion heavy-weight lifter of New Hampshire, to beat the record (the best previously made in the world) of Charles O. Breed of Lynn, who "put up" from the shoulder to arm's length above his head a three-pound dumb-bell 6,000 times in one hour.

Time was called at 8:10 o'clock, Mr. Stickney promptly responding, using a four-pound bell,—one pound heavier than the one used by Breed,—and this he put up 6,000 times in fifty-seven minutes, to the astonishment of all present. The time-keepers were Charles Mansfield, Supt. McCann of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium of Lynn, and reporters of the Lynn Item and Lynn Bee. Dr. McDonald was referee.

Mr. Stickney accomplished this remarkable feat of strength and endurance without any preliminary training. He was born in this city on May 22d, 1860, and consequently is twenty-five years of age; his height is five feet nine inches, and his weight 160 pounds. By trade he is a floor layer, and he commenced practicing with the dumb-bells about five years ago. He is arranging to appear in Boston under the auspices of the Cribb club, when he will attempt to put up a 14 1-2-pound bell 25,000 times in twenty-four hours; and he has issued the following

CHALLENGE TO THE WORLD.

I, Edward C. Stickney, of Portsmouth, N. H., wishing to still further prove my claim as champion dumb-bell lifter (light weights) of the world, hereby challenge any dumb-bell lifter of the weights below mentioned for from $500 to $5000 a side to compete with me in putting up a 4-lb., 12-lb., 14 1-2-lb., 25-lb., 56-lb. or 50-lb. bell the greatest number of times in one to twenty-four hours, the match to take place in public in Boston, New York, Philadelphia or Chicago, this challenge to remain open three months. Address communications to

E. C. STICKNEY, Lynn, Mass.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., June 1st.

Edward E. Shapleigh was home from Exeter academy to pass Memorial day.

Miss Nellie M. Fernald of South Lincoln, Mass., has been visiting the past week at Mr. William A. Fernald's of North Kittery.

Memorial services were held at the 1st Christian church at Kittery Point on Sunday. Edward G. Parker Post, G. A. R., was present. Miss Lillian Goodrich, daughter of Levi L. Goodrich, recited the poem "The Blue and The Gray."

Mrs. Nancy Wilson, widow of Col. Gowen Wilson of North Kittery, and one of our oldest residents, has been in quite feeble health for several weeks past.

Owing to the storm on Sunday last but a small audience greeted Rev. Perry Chandler at the 1st Methodist church.

Geo. Daimon, bookkeeper for Ward & Gay, stationers, of Boston, passed the 30th at his home here.

Joseph W. Lewis left town on Saturday last with his stallion "Hunter Duroc" for Brookfield, N. H., where he will be during the month of June at the stable of S. L. Starkridge.

The ladies of the 2d Methodist society at the Foreside gave a successful strawberry festival at the church vestry on Wednesday evening, the 27th ult.

Charles W. Cottle and son have returned from Alton, N. H., with eighteen head of cattle and several horses. The cattle have been turned into their pastures in North Kittery.

The town lost a valuable cow at the almshouse last week, from milk fever.

Willie F. Bartlett of Salem, Mass., passed Memorial day at his home in North Kittery. SUB ROSA.

The Biddeford Times says: "The county commissioners have closed a contract with the Portsmouth Machine Co., of Portsmouth, N. H., to furnish the steam apparatus for the new court house, at a cost of $1,250."

The new electric fire alarm was tested on the 3d inst., and the numbers of the various boxes were sounded all right. There is a difference of opinion among our citizens as to whether this alarm will fill a long-felt want, or create a new one.

David Garland died in Winslow, Me., May 24th. He was born in Hampton, N. H., on the 23d of August, 1794; passed his youth in Parsonsfield, York county, Me., to which place his father removed while he was an infant; and when a young man went to Winslow and took up the farm on which he resided until his death. He was a commissioner of Kennebec county for nine years, represented Winslow in the Maine legislature for three terms, and was state senator from his county for two terms.

William W. Auld, for several years conductor on the Portland and Boston day express train on the Eastern railroad, died at North Berwick, Me., Sunday, May 31st, of heart disease complicated with dropsy. He was forty-five years of age, and had been employed on the Eastern railroad eighteen years in all.

Alfred Kimball of Kennebunk, a cattle drover, was killed at Bangor on the 2d inst. by the cars.

It is now definitely settled that the oldest Mason in the world is John Tressider, of Falmouth, Eng., initiated Aug. 6th, 1805, while the oldest in America is Capt. Sylvanus Hatch of Port Levacca, Tex., who joined the order in 1809.

ABOUT

PORTSMOUTH

BY CHARLES W. BREWSTER.

A book for everybody. A highly interesting and entertaining SKETCH BOOK. A perfectly reliable HISTORY. Commended by the highest historical and literary authorities. Admired by all.

For Sale by LEWIS W. BREWSTER, at the Portsmouth Journal Office.

An Appointment as is an Appointment.

We learn from reliable authority that a prominent and distinguished citizen of Dover, a democrat of the "war of 1812" edition, has recently received an appointment as chief of the Celery Division in the Department of Agriculture. A good judge claims for the appointee, that, although he has not heretofore been practically connected with agriculture to any great extent, he has an intuitive perception of what is good food for man. His subordinates in office will not be required to oh! neil before him, or do any other acts of unmanly subserviency. We congratulate the "little giant" on his appointment. Mark our words, it is one eminently fit to be made and not pidgeonholed, and whoever kevils at it deserves to be burked. BEN-ALECK-HAS'EM.

At Port Clyde, Me., May 30th, 447 small lobsters were seized by a fish warden from the canning factory of Burnham & Morrill.

Daniel Hallinger and his son John, of Waynesboro, Pa., were awakened early in the morning, May 27th, by a noise in the vicinity of their chicken coop. Both men went out, the son approaching the chicken house with revolver in hand. The father, remaining behind, heard four shots in quick succession, and rushing up found his son dead, and the thieves in flight.

There is a new departure in the editorial pages of the July "Pathfinder Railway Guide" entitled "Legal Hints for Travellers," which is entirely new and a most valuable addition to this popular guide. The hints are written in an interesting style, and supported by decisions to which reference is made in each case. The current number completes the Pathfinder's thirty-sixth year, making it the oldest guide in America.

Scott, paying teller of the Bank of Manhattan county, New York city, has left, and his accounts are found to be $160,610 short.

An Penn's Grove, N. J., May 30th, a box containing four large glass jars was found in a creek, in the jars being the bodies of four infants.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medicine prepared to act upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But there is one thing we have to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

24 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not tried it, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from one of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a true blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

The secretary of the treasury has issued a circular to customs officers stating that the appropriations for defraying the expenses of collecting the revenue from customs has been exhausted by the necessary payments for the month of May. All customs officers are therefore notified that no payments for services rendered or expenditures incurred in collecting the revenue from customs for the month of June can be made until an appropriation therefor has been granted by congress.

New lungs cannot be made by medicines, or the skill of physicians; but the old ones can be strengthened and preserved by the use of Adamson's Botanic Balsam, a sure cure for coughs, colds, asthma and all diseases of the lungs. Prices 35 and 75 cents. Trial bottles 10 cents.

Emma A. Lombard of Hiram, Me., was disappointed because her lover, one Gordon of Portland, did not keep an engagement at the skating rink, and took arsenic enough to kill six persons. A stomach pump saved the foolish girl's life.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all —your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

There was a heavy thunder storm in Chicago on the 2d inst. Five persons were killed by the lighting, and others injured. A brick wall 300 feet long and ten feet high was demolished, and much damage was done by water.

Somebody's Dude.

Into a rink with four bleak walls,
That blazed with a glare like midday light,
Where never a shadow of sorrow falls,
Somebody's dude strolled in one night;
Somebody's dude so young and so white,
Wearing upon his innocent face
Never a sign of manhood's might,
But his scarf-pin showed a suspicion of paste.

Carefully combed are his raven curls,
That lightly lie on his delicate brain,
And in his fingers he languidly twirls
In ceaseless motion a gold-headed cane;
Somebody carefully combed his hair;
Was it his mother, whose sight now fades?
Was it a blushing maiden fair,
Or a barber as black as the ace of spades?

There's never a doubt he is somebody's pet;
Somebody's heart has enshrined him there;
Maybe the dude has a father yet,
Or a mother, who waits at the head of the stair;
Maybe a maiden, with cheek of rose,
Is sadly sure this feeble link,
And there he stands in a beautiful pose,
In the glamour and glare of the skating-rink.

But there comes a man full of honored guile
And fastens the cruel skates to his feet;
Then stands aside with a cynical smile.
And waits for his head his heels to meet.
* * * * * * *
Kiss him once for his grandmother's sake;
It's doubtful if ever she kissed him more;
The skates from his feet so tenderly take,
Sweep out the debris and close the door.

HER DIAMOND EARRINGS.

There they were, to be sure! sparkling like twin stars, as enveloped in seal she tripped down the steps and turned her head a moment in passing by. Mrs. Mayrell dropped the Holland window shade from behind which she had been reconnoitering, and turned away with a groan. To live in the basement "flat" was bad enough. To have tapestry Brussels carpets when Mrs. Kinsley had moquet was worse; but to have only coral earrings now when the tenant of the floor above displayed diamonds was the latest and most cruel blow of fate.

A latch-key turned in the street-door. There was a step in the passage without. Will's cheery voice rang out, "Dora, dear!"

And then in a minute—"Why, what's up? Are you ill?"

For his wife of a year lifted her head from the sofa-cushion and turned toward him a pair of suspiciously red eyes.

"No-o!" gulping down the sob that would rise; "b-ut she's got them!"

Poor, big, good-natured, mystified Will just stood and stared.

"I saw them!"

"You did, eh?"

"Ye-yes!"

"And now," deliberately, "will you be good enough to tell me who is 'she,' and what has she 'got'?"

Dora swallowed another invisible pill as she rose.

"I mean Mrs. Kinsley. She has got diamond earrings."

Will burst into a boyish laugh; then, seeing it was a very serious matter with his wife, sympathetically sobered up.

"Come, now, Dora. Be sensible, like a good little girl. You don't mean to say you'd cry for a pair of earrings!"

Mrs. Mayrell's pretty olive face brightened not at all at the pleasant raillery.

"Much good it will do me!" she declared sullenly, and intently regardful of the toe of her slipper. Will edged over to the sofa, sat down beside her, stole an arm around her.

"Dora!"

"Well?"

"You don't look half so pretty when you're cross."

Silence.

Will began to ask himself if he hadn't made a tremendous mistake about twelve months ago. Then he banished the thought as disloyal. She was a little selfish, perhaps vain, at times discontented, but he loved her very dearly, and no other girl would have suited him half so well.

"Dora, pet," he said, gravely, "you'd have diamonds if I could give them to you, indeed you would, dear. But you know I've got to figure pretty closely to make ends meet now that hard times are upon us. You know that?"

She nodded.

But when half an hour later he went back to the office he left behind him a still very dejected little lady.

He was not quite so gay as usual that afternoon. He did't joke so audaciously with the boys nor break now and then into a lilting whistle. The man who had the desk next his observed the change.

"What's the racket, Mayrell?" Will started.

"O, nothing!" and he laughed and shrugged his shoulders.

"That's a lie," returned Andrews with calm directness, and the familiarity born of long friendship. "Out with it!"

Will turned to him.

"You've helped me out of a good many tight places I admit, but you can't do it this time."

Andrews, a sandy-haired and chubby-faced little Scotchman, cocked his head on one side like an inquisitive sparrow. "Maybe not, but try me."

Will laughed with an air of embarrassment.

"It seems a foolish thing to worry so about," apologetically. "Well, as you must know, here's the case in a nutshell. Dora wants diamond earrings, and I could quite as easily purchase for her the World's Fair with the Great Eastern thrown in. Now you know."

Andrews rubbed his chin and nodded.

"Yes, I know," dryly. "I know women, and I guess they are all pretty much alike. I'm engaged."

"Ho!" cried Will.

"Fact. Got to get rich first. Domestic happiness indefinitly postponed. Just bought the ring," fumbling in his vest pocket. "You may look at it and get an idea for your wife's solitaires."

"Don't joke, Dan. I'm a little sore on the subject of my poverty."

"I am not joking," replied Dan, snapping a spring with his finger; "what do you think of that?" And he handed him a little blue velvet case. Will's eyes widened.

"Phew! how did you manage that on seventy-five a month? It's a beauty."

Andrews chuckled.

"You like it?"

"I should say so. How would stones like that do for earrings?"

"O, let up, Dan. "Where's the use of talking about it? That's a carat, isn't it?"

"Right you are. But you can get the same if you wish."

"O, some installment scheme, I suppose."

Andrews restored the ring to the case and the case to his pocket.

"Not exactly."

And he forthwith proceeded to explain.

That night Mayrell said to his wife:

"I'll try and manage it, Dot."

"What? Not the earrings?"

"Yes."

"O, you darling!"

And the very next day he brought them up.

Didn't they sparkle on their bed of snowy velvet, though? And were'nt they beauties? Actually larger than Mrs. Kinsley's, too.

"I am glad you like them, Dora."

"Like them!"

And her eyes were brighter than the gems.

And maybe she didn't rejoice in them and keep them wrapped in chamois-skin when not in use. And perhaps she didn't return Mrs. Kinsley's visit. If you think she wore a poke-bonnet or a veil you're mistaken.

And for one whole month home was a paradise of serenity for Will Mayrell. But one day going out in a hurry, Dora hastily put in her earrings. She could not have fastened them securely, for on her return she found herself minus one.

Of her grief, distraction, who could write? Straightway down-stairs went she and advertised in all dailies. But she did not give her real name and address. She must not let Will know till it has been discovered. He would feel so badly about it. No, no, she would conceal the fact of her loss from him till she could tell him of her repossession in the same breath. She offered $15 reward, and came home fagged and heartsick. But day by day passed and never a word came there of the missing jewel. She staid at the house altogether now. She had no heart for shopping or calls.

Her hope of ever recovering her precious earring grew fainter daily. She could not bear to look at the poor lonely one laid so carefully away.

Going out to the theatre with Will one evening he said suddenly:

"Why, Dora, you haven't got your earrings in. Are you tired of them already?"

"O no!" she explained, with a feverish laugh, "but I can't wait for them. Come, I do hate to be late."

And Will, having read the oft-repeated advertisements and noticing the unadorned pink ears, had come to his own conclusion. But he only smiled and was silent—except for this one reference to divert suspicion—like the wise fellow he was. And when two weeks had passed and doubt had begun to settle into despair little Mrs. Mayrell began to wonder if she could by any economical strain replace the lost trinket unknown to Will. She might have managed it if they had not been such very brilliant stones, and so large, too! They must be worth an enormous sum! How Will had managed to get them in the first place rather puzzled and frightened her when she let herself think of it, but then Will always did things on a grand scale when he made gifts at all.

They must be worth three hundred at least. Several had valued them at that—none at less. She would take the one in her dressing-case down to Mackin, the chief jeweler, tell him of her loss, and learn from him the lowest sum at which it could be replaced.

And this the very next day she did.

Mr. Mackin examined the earring as she falteringly inquired what one exactly like it would be worth. "Two fifty, madam."

Ah, even more than she thought!

"Two hundred and fifty! That is a great deal!" she murmured.

He looked at her blankly, "Two dollars and fifty cents, madam. We don't keep such stones, but we can have your missing earring replaced for that sum."

And then, observing her pallor and divining the truth, he kindly and politely turned his back on her.

Over the scene which followed at home turn low the lights, ring down the curtain.

* * * * * *

But raise it again for a moment!

It was two weeks since Mrs. Will Mayrell met her husband with a face which told him his scheme had found him out.

He comes in now and hands her a paper, pointing out a paragraph as he does so, and this is what she reads:

NEW YORK.—[Special to The Tribune.]—George Kinley of Chicago, who arrived in the city yesterday, was to-day arrested for embezzlement as he was about to board the steamship Servia. His books show a deficit of $9,000, taken, as is credibly asserted, to gratify his wife's extravagant demands. He managed to avoid suspicion up to the day of leaving. He swallowed strychnine and died within the hour.

With a white face Dora laid down the paper. Will took her in his arms. "Darling," he said quietly, "that was the only other course left open to me."

"O, Will!"

"You forgive me now dear?"

She was shaking from head to feet. She began to cry softly.

"Not that, Will. You forgive me. I didn't know—I didn't think——"

He kissed her tenderly.

"Of course not, sweetheart. But we can do without diamonds better than without honor or each other, can't we?"

"Yes, yes!" she cried, and clung to him. But the tears had washed away the old selfishness and envy, and with her smile of love began a grander, fairer womanhood.

Chinese Executions.

A correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle writes: During the campaign against the Taepings from Shanghai, a arge number of the insurgents were captured and a batch were turned over to the government officials. This, of course, meant execution, and I went with a score of other young fellows, inexperienced like myself, to witness the performance. It was the strangest and most revolting sight I ever beheld.

The day was bright and beautiful, and a gentle breeze shook out the folds of the flags and banners, borne by the almond-eyed troops drawn up on all sides of a small, level square or parade ground. Two hundred rebels were to dispatched, but from their manner and freedom I should not have known which were the intended victims had they not been distinguished by their clothing. When the hour arrived the prisoners got into line, and one after the other awaited their turn. I say they got into line—I mean each man stepped in anywhere, apparently not caring which was the beginning or which the ending. They chatted to one another, and laughed as if nothing in the world concerned them, and reminded me of a line of pleasure-seekers in the lobby of a theater awaiting their turn to get their tickets at the box-office. Some of them had nuts and sweetmeats, which they ate with seeming relish, though quietly. There was nothing false about their actions, no vaunting bravery nor look of pride. Their manners were wholly unconstrained and natural, and looking at them I wondered if our fear of death was not altogether artificial, and whether, naturally, lying down to die was any more repulsive to human instincts than lying down to sleep. The more I think of it the more the dread of death seems like the bugaboo of nursery lore, made to play upon the imagination of unreasoning beings, but not to be tolerated by full-grown men.

The warning note sounded. The first man stepped out and dropped on his knees. His hands were caught by an attendant and held behind his back. Another drew the victim's cue out opposite to his hands, thus bringing his neck in a horizontal position. Like a flash the executioner brought down a long glittering blade, and one stroke severed the head completely from the body. The next prisoner stepped out promptly and underwent the same operation. As fast as one fell another was ready. There was no hesitation or urging. The men presented themselves as if they expected some benefit, with no sign of emotion, save perhaps of some who were engaged in quiet humor. Two of the fellows were evidently enjoying a joke. The story-teller would frequently glance askance at the executioner and talk faster, probably fearing that demand would be made upon him before the tale had been finished. He sang away in a higher key every time he looked around and saw his time getting shorter. At length, when he discovered his turn had come, he motioned to the executioner to delay for a moment and gabbled away harder than ever. When he finished his story he and his listener burst into a roar of laughter. Then he hurried up to the bloody spot and had his head whisked off, and his friend, still chuckling over the joke, a moment later did likewise.

The Frauds of Society.

Incomprehensible as it may seem to people of refined sensibilities, there are a few rich women who are willing to pay for newspaper items describing their persons and costly toilets. At a Washington reception a few days ago a lady who observed one of the society correspondents taking notes back of a portiere remarked to her: "It must be sickening to a person of your natural delicacy to describe these dresses and women for the newspapers." "Yes, it is sickening," the lady correspondent replied, "but I have my living to earn, and am compelled to swallow my pride and the society dose at the same time. See here," she continued, drawing a $10 bill from a dainty bag of pink satin hanging from her side, "a woman met me in the dressing-room and gave me this money on the condition that I should describe in detail her rich toilet and make especial mention of her handsome personal appearance. It was distasteful to me to see such an exhibition of vulgarity, but I needed the money, and tomorrow she will be in public print for the world to sneer at or admire, according to the cultivation of their taste. Another woman, who could not afford to give money, offered to introduce me to a house where I would plenty of society material if I could transform her old, thin white silk, covered with illusion, into elegant gros grain and marvelous lace, write her profusion of Rhine pebbles into diamonds, her bleached hair and false complexion into personal beauty. I accepted both offers from necessity," she finished, with a pathetic smile.

Would Act Like a White Man.

"I doan kere ef yer is," his wife replied, "it wus de railroad niggers what lected yer. While de 'citement 'o' de 'leekshun wuz gwine on, yer tole me ter pay all de 'tention I could ter dem niggers."

is frequently the exclamation of one lady to another. The fact is not a pleasant one to have mentioned, but still the act may be a kindly one, for it sets the one addressed to thinking, apprises her of the fact that she is not in good health, and leads her to seek a reason therefor. A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham; Very dear Madam: My wife Arie A. Green has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went twelve miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day. Words cannot express our feelings towards you.

Tales of the Ocean.

Michael Hogan and Alexander Frazer, of the schooner Augusta H. Johnson of Gloucester, were picked up on May 28th after having been adrift in a dory three days and nights without food or water, and taken into Canso. Edward Jennings and Thomas Klawson, of the schooner Annie M. Jordan of Gloucester, landed on Cranberry island May 17th, after being two days in their dory; they were sent to Canso, and all four of the cast-aways have been sent home by the consul at the latter place.

The first haul of mackerel in Boston bay this season was made off Eastern point May 3d, by the schooner Lizzie W. Hannum, which took 180 barrels.

Governor-elect Moody Currier arrived in Concord at 11:15 A. M. from Manchester, and was duly inaugurated. The military escort was the finest ever seen at an inauguration in Concord, there being nearly 1500 men in line, including the first brigade of the national guard, Portland Cadets and Amoskeag Veterans; many buildings were decorated. At the close of the march the oath of office was administered by Gov. Hale. Gov. Currier's address was an able and careful discussion of public affairs.

Prominent Mississippi democrats are urging Meade, the newly-appointed postmaster at Hazelhurst, not to resign, notwithstanding his resignation has been requested on the ground that he was the leader of the Copiah county murder. They affirm that the murder of Print Matthews was a political necessity in order to keep the state of Mississippi democratic, and insist that Meade should be rather rewarded than punished.

"A Marsh Island," by Sarah Orne Jewett; Boston; Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; pp. 292; price $1.25. Sold by Moses Goodrich, No. 1 Market street.

Miss Jewett has many readers in Rockingham and York counties, who admire her books,—indeed, everything which her pen produces. The Marsh Island, just completed as a serial in the Atlantic Monthly, is a delightful book. It describes commonplace persons and familiar scenes, but the delineation is so true to nature—the places seem familiar, the characters by no means unknown to us—that we read on as if we had sometime visited the places described, breathed the quiet, soothing air of the spot where the story is located, and know all the persons in the tale. It is this naturalness that renews the charm of each new work with which we are favored by our up-river gifted writer, whose special province seems to be to afford the readers a keen relish for recitals concerning the most unpretending people, and the remote and commonly unvisited retreats, which by means of her descriptive powers possess charms not describable but only enjoyable by her readers.

LEGAL.

"Are you having much practice?" enquired Judge Smith the other day, of a young member of the Rockingham bar who had just tried his first divorce suit.

"Yes, your honor, a great deal," was the reply.

"Ah! I am glad to hear it. In what line is your practice particularly?"

"Well, sir, particularly in economy."

The judge called the next case.

MEDICAL.

An invalid from York went into Kimball's drug store last week, to buy some medicine. "Do you keep the best drugs?" he asked. "You can't get better," replied the urbane successor of the lamented Dr. Kimball. "I can't, eh? Well, then what's the use of medicine?" said the customer, and he went out and got into his wagon and made a straight path for Portsmouth bridge.

George G. Symonds, cashier in the freight department of the Boston & Maine railroad, eastern division, at Salem, Mass., on Sunday, May 31st, left the office at noon ostensibly to go to Lynn, and not returning up to Wednesday evening, the 3d inst., Freight Agent Chandler sent for the auditor to examine his accounts. Mr. Chandler expressed the opinion, from a cursory examination of the accouts, that Mr. Symonds was not over $100 short, if at all. He has been in the employ of the road three years, first as way-bill clerk and then as cashier, and handled about $25,000 a month.

DIED.

FERNALD. In Kittery, Me., June 3d, Mr. Paschal L. Fernald. He had been unwell for several years, but died very suddenly at the last, from a paralytic shock. He leaves a wife and three children.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers in the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, but shall be liable for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any seller of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 15. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any building for keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the well ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive matter therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Mr. Phelps, the new minister to England, is having a nice time with the upper crust of British society instead of twisting the lion's tail. We don't see that he is any better in this respect than Mr. Lowell.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, June 4th, Mayor Page in the chair:

Present, a quorum.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Petition of Wilbur I. Trafton to be appointed superintendent of the electric fire alarm at a salary of $150 per annum, was referred to the committee on fire department.

Thos. E. O. Marvin appeared before the board in support of a petition signed by John J. Pickering and others, for the filling in of the well on Vaughan street. He said the pump raised water foul to both the smell and taste, the earth in the vicinity being saturated with sewage from a choked drain. The petition was referred to the committee on streets, with power; as was also the petition of Albert J. Badger for relay of sidewalk on Vaughan street, opposite his premises.

Petition of Robert Roberts for repair of sewer, was referred to the committee on sewers, with power.

Petition of George Boss and others, for the laying out of a new highway, was referred.

Committee on accounts reported bills amounting to $2,757.15, which were ordered paid.

Samuel Spinney was granted leave to withdraw his bill of $5 for services as health officer.

Bond ($30,000) of Samuel P. Treadwell as collector of taxes, was approved.

It was ordered that proposals be invited from the several banks of the city, for terms for loans and deposits for the year ending June 30th, 1886.

The special committee on north millpond reported two plans for a sewer of brick and plank, prepared by Charles A. Putnam, one estimated to cost $17,000 and the other $16,000. The matter was continued in the hands of the same committee.

Aldermen Janvrin, Locke and Billings were appointed a special committee on the extension of Mechanic street, petitioned for two years ago.

The city clerk was instructed to receive from Mr. Montgomery the deed of certain land for the widening of a street.

Adjourned for two weeks.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner Albert Woodbury, Downs master, having fitted for mackerel seining sailed for the southward on the 3d inst.

The schooner Willie Martin arrived on Thursday, the 4th inst., from Weehawken, with 219 tons of Lackawanna coal to E. F. Sise & Co.

The Dover Navigation Co.'s new and largest schooner, the John J. Hanson, Stevens master, arrived here Thursday from Baltimore on her second trip to this port, with 969 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

The schooner Satellite, Aderton master, on Thursday afternoon commenced discharging a load of fire wood from Cape Neddick for O. F. Philbrick & Co.

Other arrivals Thursday were the Chilion, from Bangor with lumber; the Loella, from Rockland with lime for Dover; the Josiah Whitehouse from New York, and the Nellie Craig from Newport News, with coal; the brickers Triton, Hattie Lewis and Lillie, from Boston, light; and at a late hour in the day the steamer Williamsport, from Philadelphia with 1659 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

NATURAL HISTORY.

The finest show of pigeons to be seen in this vicinity belongs to Mr. Thaddeus W. Locke, who has a tonsorial room on Water street. Mr. Locke has at present about one hundred birds, including jacobins, blue rocks, white and variegated fantails, pouters, homers, tumblers, carriers, and several other varieties. The collection is very interesting to bird fanciers, and Mr. Locke is very ready to show his pets to visitors.

Mr. George A. Jackson's menagerie at Christian Shore is in a flourishing condition, being looked after principally by Mrs. Jackson. The big hen-hawk remains hopelessly untamable, and stalks into the rear of his cage whenever looked at; his principal delight is the tearing to pieces whatever meat or dead birds may be thrown into his cage, for which he expresses no gratitude, evidently considering, as so many human hawks do, that "the world owes him a living" whether he does anything to earn it or not. A pair of doves in Mr. Jackson's collection lately illustrated their affectionate nature by adopting so far as they could a litter of young rabbits, the female bird patiently hovering them for hours at a time, and being relieved by the male when she became tired; the queer foster parents showed neither jealousy nor fear of the mother rabbit when she came to nurse her young, and continued their care until the little rabbits grew too big to be covered by their wings. The two woodchucks in the collection are as tame and gentle as kittens, and as fat as pigs, and while always ready to sample any of their natural articles of food, have developed a decided weakness for pie. There is a good deal of quiet amusement in Mr. Jackson's menagerie, for any one who has a love for the humble creations.

The Concord correspondent of the Boston Advertiser maintains that the resignation of Mr. Howard, of an office the emoluments of which have long ceased to be of consequence enough for the incumbent to enquire of his deputy how much the weekly driblets amount to, was achieved by means of a trade with Mr. Frank Jones. The correspondent tells a tale which might interest the marines, but if Mr. Jones was at the trouble of inducing Mr. Howard to resign an office which he (Jones) could dispose of at will, we incline to the opinion that he is not as shrewd a politician as he is reputed to be. The only trade about the affair probably was to inform the local magnate at what time the communication of the ex-collector would reach the White House.

Dr. A. C. Heffenger, U. S. N., arrived home on the 4th inst. from the new quarantine station at Widow's island, Me., the planning and construction of which he was appointed by the secretary of the navy to do. The required buildings, etc., have been completed, and the station is now ready for use as a yellow fever or cholera quarantine for government ships and crews.

Among the transfers of real estate in York county during the month of May, as left for record in the office of the register of deeds, were the following: Sarah C. Goodwin of York to George A. Goodall of Brockton, Mass., real estate in York for $200; Jeremiah P. Simpson of York to Joseph Varrell of Boston, Mass., the "Harmon house" in York for $2000.

A newspaper in Havana called the conservative party a "herd," and a conservative paper retaliated by calling the liberals a "mob." Both have been suspended by the Cuban government for their bad conduct. The Cuban government had better just come to this country and run for president, if it wants to learn what talk really is.

It is said that our friend of the Times, having learned that by reason of the parsimony of the democratic congressmen there is no money left in the treasury which can be legally used to pay salaries of collectors of customs till July, has patriotically determined not to commence his struggles with the collection of duties or imposts in this harbor until the first of the month named. This will give the present collector of the port a chance to get about five dollars for his arduous services in the month of June. It is said that now "our fellows" are coming into office pretty speedily, more liberal appropriations for their salaries will be made. Mr. Howard's view of the spoils of office does not meet the approval of the Boston Advertiser, though it has, we are informed, the entire sanction of the Times. This looks like a moving out of the "Independent" press from the democratic embrace, until it may be again wanted for some campaign uses of an any-thing-to-beat-Blaine nature.

Mr. John Conlon, of Penhallow street, is reported to have been $20 out on Memorial day in consequence of his courtesy in changing a $20 bill for a most gentlemanly-appearing man wearing a fashionable suit of clothes and a silk hat. After making the exchange, and while Mr. Conlon was busy attending to a throng of customers, the stranger asked permission to take the bill a moment for inspection, and on its being handed to him suddenly disappeared, taking the bill with him, and has not since been seen. The fellow is supposed to be one of a gang of swindlers following the route of the Van Amburgh circus.

Patrick Sheehan, who was arrested on suspicion that he was the person who stole the team of James Canney of Newmarket from back of the Spring market in this city on Memorial day, was dismissed, it appearing that the actual thief was John Crowley, who afterward met Sheehan on the road and invited him to have a ride.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them apparently almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is a fact that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

34 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.
